CHANGES DELAY REPLY TO WILSON

First Draft Modified and the Far East Made More Conspicuous, London Hears.

LIKELY TO BE SENT AT ONCE

But Publication Will Wait Until the Document Can Appear Simultaneously Everywhere.

WASHINGTON IS HOPEFUL

Future Moves Regarding Peace Will Be More Carefully Guarded by Officials in Capital.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The reply of the Entente nations to President Wilson's note may go forward within twenty-four hours, but its publication is not expected until forty-eight hours after its receipt, on account of the plans for simultaneous publication.

The delay in the preparation of the note is taken here to mean that it has undergone considerable changes from the first draft, and the Near Eastern question is expected to figure more largely in the completed document than in any previous discussion of it had been thought probable.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The delay in the receipt of the Entente answer to President Wilson's note of Dec. 18, addressed to all the belligerent Governments, is causing no worry among those in Washington who are hopeful of the success of the President's efforts to find a common basis of understanding among the two groups of fighting nations that will lead them to see the way to discuss peace terms. Those of this turn of mind are going on the principle that "no news is good news."

Meanwhile there are indications that hereafter the moves of the United States Government in connection with the President's effort will be conducted with the greatest secrecy. Signs are apparent that the lid is to be kept down on news of the moves made or to be made.

President Wilson let it be known today that he was not pleased by the character of the speculation prevalent in the press as to this or that phase of the peace effort, and particularly as to the measures he is credited with having in view to keep the peace movement alive.

According to the expressed views of the President this speculation is dangerous, not only to the success of the peace effort, but also to the safety of the United States. What he said on the subject was interpreted to mean that speculation over the situation was likely to lead to misunderstanding and misinterpretation in Europe, and on that account might influence in an undesirable way the attitude of the European Governments.

The Administration seems to be convinced that the peace movement can best be furthered by silence on the part of the American press as to what is supposed to be contemplated by the United States with respect to its course. There is every prospect that officials will be disposed to make no statement concerning the peace movement (or more properly the President's attempt to ascertain whether a basis of understanding for the discussion of peace terms can be reached) until something definite has been accomplished or the movement has ended in no result.

An interesting official disclosure with respect to the dispatch and delivery to the Spanish Government of a copy of President Wilson's note of Dec. 18, for its information, was given in Secretary of State Lansing's testimony today before the House Rules Committee, which has been investigating the allegations of a "leak" in connection with the sending of the peace note to the belligerents. It will be recalled that the Spanish Government a week ago sent to the State Department a note in which it declined the invitation of this Government and that the wording of the Spanish Government's reply was such as to leave no doubt that a separate communication had been handed to the Spanish Government.

The testimony given by Secretary Lansing today, while very brief, in its relation to the dispatch of the peace note to Spain, served to corroborate the statement recently printed in Washington dispatches to THE NEW YORK TIMES to the effect that special instructions were sent to our embassy at Madrid, and that these were communicated to the Spanish Government when the text of President Wilson's note was delivered. American Ambassador Willard was not at his post when the note was dispatched. He had been in this country, and was in Washington at the time the peace note was sent to the different belligerents. He did not sail until after word came that the Spanish Government had rejected what it regarded as overtures from this country to join it in the peace movement.

On Monday, Dec. 18, the date of the alleged leak, President Wilson handed the peace note to Secretary Lansing to be transmitted to belligerents and neutrals. It appears from testimony given by Secretary Lansing today that Ambassador Willard visited Secretary Lansing's residence that night and that he and the Secretary of State discussed the advisability of addressing Spain on the subject.

"That evening at my house," said Mr. Lansing, "Ambassador Willard told me he had been advised of the contents of the note by the President, and we discussed the advisability of him addressing Spain on the subject. The next morning the note was made public in the press."

Later in the testimony Secretary Lansing made another allusion to what transpired in connection with the sending of the note to Spain. In reply to questions from members of the Rules Committee he testified that there was no note sent to Spain in advance of the sending of the note to the belligerent powers, but that Ambassador Willard did send a note to Spain afterward.

This note was in the form of instructions to the American Embassy at Madrid for its guidance in connection with the delivery by the Chargé d'Affaires of that Embassy to the Spanish Government of the President's note to the belligerent powers. The contents of these instructions were communicated to the Spanish Government and were interpreted by the latter as an invitation to join the United States in the movement it had initiated. This invitation, the Spanish Government rejected.

CHICAGO POLICE CHIEF ARRESTED IN SCANDAL

Extortion, Bribery and Conspiracy Charged Against Him and Seven Others.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—Superintendent of Police Charles M. C. Healey, Lieutenant Martin White, and three others were arrested tonight and warrants were issued for three other policemen by State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne.

Healy was immediately released on bonds of $100,000. The charges against him are extortion, bribery, and conspiracy.

Mr. Hoyne issued a statement in which he said a "great majority" of the Captains and Lieutenants of police of the city were involved in the scandal.

The Chief, whose recent resignation was accepted for next Thursday, was arrested at his home. Lieutenant White, Thomas Costello, alleged go-between and personal agent of the Chief; "Mike de Pike" Heitler, so-called "King" of the former West Side Tenderloin, and William Skidmore, a politician and saloonkeeper, were arrested in a raid on Costello's office.

According to Mr. Hoyne, they were engaged in dividing about $1,000 collected in "tribute." Some of the money, he said, bore the serial numbers previously noted by his agents while it was in the possession of resort keepers.

LITERACY TEST AGAIN PASSED BY THE SENATE

Opposition, However, Is Prepared to Filibuster Measure to Death If President Vetoes It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The Conference Committee report on the Immigration bill, retaining the literacy test, was accepted today by the Senate by a vote of 56 to 10. As soon as the House has taken similar action, the bill will be sent to the President for his signature. It has been indicated from the White House that President Wilson will repeat his veto of the measure because of his objection to the literacy test.

While the majorities given the measure already in both houses show the necessary two-thirds vote to pass the bill over the President's veto, there were indications today that the opposition to the literacy test in the Senate is preparing to defeat its repassage by a filibuster.

The ten Senators who voted against the measure today included eight Democrats, Senators Lewis, Martine, O'Gorman, Ransdell, Reed, Saulsbury, Stone, and Walsh, and two Republicans, Brandegee and Lippitt.

The conference bill as reported today contains all the essential features of the Senate bill passed before the holiday recess.

The Asiatic exclusion clause, in deference to the request of the State Department, avoids including the Japanese, leaving the question of Japanese immigration, as before, to the terms of the Root-Takahira agreement, by which the Japanese Government promised to restrain its citizens from coming to this country by refusing to grant them passports. Mention of the Japanese is avoided in the bill by excluding immigrants from Asiatic territory within certain geographical lines.

SMALL FOUND GUILTY OF WIFE'S MURDER

Jury Also Recommends Sentence of "Capital Punishment" for the Former Boston Broker.

OSSIPEE, N. H., Jan. 8.—A verdict of "Guilty, with capital punishment," was returned tonight against Frederick L. Small former Boston broker, who was charged with the murder of his wife, Florence A. Small.

Mrs. Small was found dead on Sept. 28, 1916, in the cottage at Mountain View, where she and her husband had lived for three years. She had been beaten about the head, shot through the forehead and strangled by a cord before the house was destroyed by fire.

Small had left the house to go to Boston seven hours before the flames were discovered, but the State contended that he had fixed up a clockwork contrivance which had kindled the fire. He was arrested on a charge of murder when his wife's body was uncovered in the basement with the evidences of murder preserved. For a motive the State pointed out that Small would benefit from a $20,000 life insurance policy by his wife's death.

NOW QUESTION GUILT OF BERNARD LEWIS

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8.—After questioning a score of witnesses in an effort definitely to establish the identity of the murderer of Maizie Colbert in her apartment here on Dec. 30, and the motive therefor, District Attorney Samuel P. Rotan tonight announced that nothing had been developed to cause him to change his opinion that Bernard W Lewis of Pittsburgh was the girl's slayer.

The police had considered the case virtually closed, since Lewis committed suicide last Thursday at a hotel in Atlantic City. Relatives and friends of both Lewis and Miss Colbert, however, asserted that some of the evidence had been discounted by new facts and expressed the belief that the Pittsburgh man had no connection with the murder. Members of the girl's family made a special appeal for a more thorough investigation.

Mr. Rotan today questioned Captain of Detectives Tate and virtually all other detectives who had been working on the mystery. Others examined included relatives of Miss Colbert, a Police Magistrate and several wealthy young men. The District Attorney said that, in co-operation with the Detective Bureau, he was working out several lines that may throw light on the mystery. He said there was some clothing still to be identified and that the police were trying to establish the ownership of a necktie found in the girl's apartments. Relatives of Miss Colbert declared the window shade cord found among Lewis's effects had been taken from a hotel room he occupied in Philadelphia, and not from the Colbert apartments. They also asserted that the marks on his hands were not made by teeth, as alleged by the police.

Mayor Thomas B. Smith took a hand in the investigation today. He invited newspaper representatives to a conference in his office tonight and announced that he would see that "justice is done in this case."

John Colbert, a brother of the girl, declared he was confident that Lewis did not kill her. His theory is that she was killed in a fight with a jealous man.

ASKS $12,000,000 FOR NAVY YARDS

Secretary Daniels Shows That Preparedness Program Is in Danger of Failure.

PRIVATE FIRMS' BIDS HIGH

ALL FACILITIES USED NOW

Provisions Must Be Made to Build Four Battle Cruisers and Three Scout Cruisers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The naval preparedness program is in danger of failure because the Navy Department cannot make arrangements with private shipbuilding concerns to construct battle cruisers and other warships. After a conference with President Wilson, Secretary Daniels late this afternoon made a formal appeal to Congress for $12,000,000 and authority to have these vessels built at Government navy yards. Construction of four battle cruisers and three scout cruisers remains to be provided for.

In a letter to Lemuel P. Padgett, Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, Mr. Daniels writes in part as follows:

"My Dear Mr. Padgett:

"The situation with regard to the preparedness program is such that if the manifest intention of Congress and the country is to be carried out, radical action is necessary. It is required by the act of Aug. 29, 1916, that the vessels authorized be completed speedily. The department has done its utmost in this connection, but finds that the private shipbuilders of the country are unable or unwilling to undertake the complete program with any assurance of speed in completion, even at prices which the department regards as unreasonably high.

"The preparedness program halts by reason of this condition. The present situation demands that the Government largely increase its building facilities at earliest possible moment. Six million dollars was authorized in the act of Aug. 29, 1916, for improvement of our navy yard plants, in order to enable them to assist in connection with the program. Ships have been ordered built at the navy yards fully up to the limit of our present facilities, there being already under construction or on order at the navy yards nineteen naval vessels of various types. I recommend that [illegible],000,000 more be authorized for fitting up navy yards, to be made immediately available.

Bids from Four Companies.

Secretary Daniels says that four private companies made proposals for the construction of four battle cruisers and three scout cruisers.

"The bids as received," he continues, "proposed that the Government pay the actual cost of direct labor and material, plus a percentage to cover the indirect costs, plus a percentage for profit. The department felt unwilling to place contracts on this basis without thorough investigation, as the proposed percentages for indirect costs differed in the various bids and might or might not be a measure of the actual cost of building the ship. Several conferences have been held with representatives of the shipbuilders, who have also given the department experts access to their books, in order that some basis of agreement might be reached in regard to the questions involved in the indirect cost."

By request the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation submitted a proposal to build one of the battle cruisers, which contained the following new estimate:

	Material.	Labor.
Hull	$4,653,000	$3,259,000
Machinery	5,901,500	777,700
Total	$10,554,500	$4,036,700
Total labor	4,036,700
	$14,591,200

In a letter the Fore River Corporation offers to construct one battle cruiser for the actual direct material and direct labor cost, plus 35 per cent. of such direct national and direct labor cost to cover all overhead charges and profit. The corporation proposed that if the cost of labor and material was less than $14,591,200, it should receive one-half the difference, while it should pay the Government 25 per cent. of any excess.

Estimates Unduly High.

"The department had previously informed the representatives of the shipbuilders that it considered the stipulation of 35 per cent. named by them too high," Mr. Daniels writes. "The department also regarded the estimate for materials submitted by the shipbuilders as unduly high. This question is being taken up with various material contractors, and the department will be prepared at an early date to make final report and recommendation with reference to the minimum limit of cost for these vessels if built by contract.

"It is evident that in any case the cost will exceed the limit of $16,500,000 of the authorizing act. This act also allowed an additional sum of 20 per cent. as premium 'to provide for the speedy construction of the vessels herein authorized, and for the additional cost incident thereto.' Adding 20 per cent. to the limit of $16,500,000, we reach a limit of $19,800,000. The four bids that were received provide, in two cases, for construction within forty-eight months, in one case for construction within fifty-one months, and in the other case no time is named.

"Without specific authorization, the department would not feel justified in entering into a contract exceeding the limit of $16,500,000, even if under the limit of $19,800,000, in view of the fact that the times named for construction could not be considered as 'speedy.'

"As regards the scout cruisers, when bids were opened for these four vessels on Nov. 1, 1916, but one bid was received on the basis of a fixed price, this being for one vessel for the sum of $4,975,000 and within the limit of cost of $5,000,000; contract was awarded for this vessel. The remaining three vessels were readvertised, and bids were opened on Jan. 3, 1917. A bid was received from only one company, the price named being $5,900,000 for one vessel, or $5,825,000 for each of two vessels. This leaves one scout cruiser for which no bids have been received. The bids of Jan. 3, 1917, were below the limit of $5,000,000, plus 20 per cent., but as the times named were forty and forty-two months, the additional 20 per cent. for 'speedy' construction is not regarded as available any more than in the case of the battle cruisers."

Allied Council Sends Greece an Ultimatum; Rome Session Foiled Plot to Break Entente

LONDON, Tuesday, Jan. 9.—The Times today says that it understands that a note was drawn up at the Entente allied conference in Rome and has been dispatched to Greece.

"It requires," The Times adds, "prompt compliance with all the previous demands of the Allies and notification of the acceptance of those demands by the Greek Government within a period which it is believed, does not exceed forty-eight hours."

Reuter's Athens correspondent says the Greek Government has handed to the diplomatic representatives of the Entente a series of statements in response to the last note of the Allies. These statements, the dispatch says, are neither a refusal nor an acceptance of the Entente note, but point out difficulties in the way of compliance with some of the terms.

King Constantine has applied for and received the regular bread card which is issued to all heads of families, according to another dispatch.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PIRAEUS, Jan. 6, via Syra, (dispatch to The London Daily Chronicle.)—Considerable agitation was caused here yesterday by threats that the reservists intended to attack the French guard stationed at the Piraeus Town Hall. Nothing happened until about 9 o'clock, when a crowd of demonstrating reservists, civilians, and uniformed soldiers went through the streets shouting for the rejection of the note. In front of the Town Hall they demonstrated against the French naval guard. Shots were fired, but apparently not in the direction of the Town Hall. The demonstrators were dispersed.

During the night a decision was taken to withdraw the last remaining detachment, which embarked early this morning. The reservists forcibly prevented the ship's boats taking fresh milk required for women and children aboard the ships.

The talk today is still of presenting an argumentative reply to the powers' note. Meanwhile Venizelists and their families are managing to leave the capital in large numbers for Saloniki and the islands.

Teutons Tried to Disrupt Entente.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—Although no communication has been made public regarding the conference of the Allies, says a Rome dispatch to the Temps, private conversations with some of the principal figures in the conference leave no doubt that the result is fully satisfactory and that the representatives of the Entente Powers separated in full accord and full confidence.

M. Briand, the French Premier, said to the Temps correspondent:

"Our visit has been most fruitful and was timely. Many difficulties of detail had arisen since the last conference of the Allies, and in some directions the attempt was made to becloud the Entente and the relations between the Allies—without mentioning public events that are known to every one.

"It was necessary to dissipate the fogs and overcome the difficulties and find a common solution to accord with present and future events. All that was undertaken in a spirit of accord and good faith and we have eliminated all the little difficulties that could hinder our united efforts."

DAVIS STIRS COURT IN 8-HOUR CASE

Chief Justice Questions Argument Concerning Congressional Regulation of Wages.

OTHER JUSTICES BREAK IN

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Eminent lawyers from all parts of the country crowded the Supreme Court chamber today to listen to the opening argument in the case brought in behalf of the railroads to test the constitutionality of the Adamson eight-hour law. It was 3 o'clock before the argument was begun, Solicitor General Davis opening for the Government, which contends that the law is constitutional.

The argument for the constitutionality of the act was based on the power of Congress as recognized by the Supreme Court in the case of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad against the Interstate Commerce Commission to enact hours of service laws. The case cited upheld the validity of the sixteen-hour law passed in 1907. Throughout the argument Mr. Davis insisted that the Adamson act was not a compensation act but an eight-hour law, pure and simple. He asserted, however, that if the act were merely a wage law it would still be constitutional in view of the broad powers of Congress as to regulation. He contended that the right of contract was not interfered with, and that the Adamson act did not take property without due process of law.

The questions propounded from the bench indicated the intention of the court to scrutinize every statement made in the argument. At one point Chief Justice White exclaimed: "My view is continually running across the line of your argument."

Early in his two-hour argument Mr. Davis told the court that it "reached the heights of imagination" to say that the primary object of Congress in passing the law was not to limit the hours of toil. He asserted that Elisha Lee, spokesman of the railroads throughout the strike controversy, often had admitted that fact, as well as that the law was workable, now denied by the railroads.

When Mr. Davis cited the disturbance of railroad contracts by Congress in passing the Federal Employers' Liability act, upheld as valid, Justice Day asked:

"Do you claim the same power in fixing wages as in fixing rates?"

"We do," Mr. Davis replied.

"I can't follow that argument," interjected Chief Justice White. "The subject is regulating hours of service. The Government has regulated commerce for ages, so to speak. It was held in the case of the Employers' Liability act that that regulation was valid. That was no decision that the Government has the power to regulate wages."

"That is what we contend for," rejoined Mr. Davis.

"That's the logic I can't follow," repeated the Chief Justice.

The Solicitor General then argued that if Congress could regulate the relation of master and servant, of railroads and employes, it could also regulate wages.

"That is the most vital of all," he continued. "If underpaid and discontented, the safety of commerce in charge of employes is affected. Wages also have a direct relation to rates, investment and expense of service."

"Your proposition goes further than that," the Chief Justice said.

"Has Congress the power to prescribe what railroads shall pay for various things—locomotives, land, &c.?" asked Justice McReynolds.

"I am not so sure that Congress hasn't that power," Mr. Davis replied. "All authority is dependent upon its reasonable and not arbitrary use."

Justice Day suggested that the power of Congres was limited by the constitutional prohibition against confiscation.

"Congress has power to regulate issues of railroad stocks and bonds," Mr. Davis continued, "and to say what price railroads shall pay for credit that is being advanced in and outside of Congress." He added that under the decision in the Debs case Congress had authority to prevent railroad strikes and the obstruction of interstate commerce. He denied that the penalties provided by the Adamson laws were excessive, and upheld as reasonable the statute's exemption of short line and interurban electric roads.

"It may be that Congress did not please the railroads, the employes, or the public," he concluded, "but the body that made the law should amend it, and the judiciary must not usurp that function."

Mr. Davis concluded his argument when the court adjourned for the day. Walker D. Hines, General Counsel for the Santa Fe road, tomorrow will make the argument for the railroads against the act.

URGES AMERICANS TO FREE BELGIANS

SUGGESTS CRUSADING CORPS

Would Have It Fight Under the "Anti-Slavery Flag"—Dedicates His Idea to Roosevelt.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—Gerard Harry, editor of the Independance Belge, in an article on the Belgian deportations, compares them to the conditions of the slave market as described in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." He appeals to the American public in the name of its past fight to rid the world of slavery, to take a similar stand regarding his compatriots, of whose sufferings he gives a harrowing picture, based on the report of an official Belgian eyewitness of the recent occurrences in Brabant.

"Fifty years ago," he says, "the American people nobly inflicted upon themselves the terrible evil of nearly five years of civil war in order to rid their land of black slavery. The fate of the American negroes, however, was immeasurably less pitiful than that of the Frenchmen and Belgians taken from their homes and families into bondage and made to work for their enemies. There are few more unselfish traits in the world's history than the original motive of the American civil war. Do not past noble deeds oblige those who accomplished them to repeat them when necessity arises? I am induced, as the spokesman of many Belgians, boldly to ask the American people: You who freed the blacks at so great a cost, what are you going to do for the enfranchisement of the white slaves for Europe; for the citizens whom the Kaiser is chaining to his war chariot, who are suffering three times the moral torture of the former black slaves?

"It is the duty of any one addressing you on such a poignant theme to warn you that remonstrances to the Kaiser and his people are doomed to failure if they are not translated into action. Is there any American law which would prevent private citizens from crossing the Atlantic or the Canadian border and congregating under what might be called the anti-slavery flag to assist in fighting the white slave-raiders of Europe? Such an anti-slavery corps would not break the rules of neutrality or take sides with France, Great Britain and Belgium against Germany. It would resemble a body of Crusaders, with the difference that instead of attempting to rescue a handful of cold ashes from unbelievers, its object would be to rescue thousands of martyrs from their torturers."

M. Harry has dedicated a long article on the subject to ex-President Roosevelt.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 8, (via London.)—A frontier correspondent of the Telegraaf says he learns that Belgians, deported from the neighborhood of Charleori, have been sent to occupied parts of Poland to perform compulsory labor.

Owing to protests, the correspondent says, the Germans here and there are sending back some of the deported Belgians, but from several towns they still continue to remove citizens of all classes.

DEATH SENTENCES FOR PLOTS IN INDIA

Court, Condemning Six, Asserts Revolts Are Hatched by German Agents in United States.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Seventeen of the accused persons in the supplementary trial held in connection with the Lahore conspiracy case were sentenced last week, says a Central News dispatch from Calcutta today. Six were sentenced to death, one was sentenced to transportation for life, and the others were sent to prison.

In delivering the judgment the court indicated that Manila was still an active centre of revolutionary activity, but that the United States remained the chief centre of the movement, it being fostered, it was said, by German consular agents.

"We are fully satisfied that the United States has become the chief centre of the movement," declares the court's opinion, as quoted in the dispatch. "The overthrow of the British Empire in India was planned and discussed when the European war broke out, and many Indians sailed from the United States. The enemy's plan was to bring about a war of murder and rapine."

GERARD IS TOLD TO CABLE SPEECH

SOME CALL IT INDISCREET

May Revive Talk in Entente Capitals, It Is Held, That Wilson Is Aiding Germany's Moves.

GERMAN EDITORS STIRRED

Most Comment Favorably on Envoy's Words—Vorwaerts Hopes Wilson Will Keep Urging Peace.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. — The State Department today cabled to James W. Gerard, Ambassador at Berlin, directing him to report exactly what he said in an after-dinner speech on Saturday at the banquet of the American Association of Commerce and Trade of Berlin. It was stated at the department that whatever Mr. Gerard's words might have been he talked entirely on his own responsibility.

The department is keenly interested in learning precisely what was said by the Ambassador. Officials appeared unwilling today to accept as correct the version of his remarks made public in this country through the Overseas News Agency. Mr. Gerard was quoted by that agency as saying:

"Never since the beginning of the war have the relations between Germany and the United States been as cordial as now. I have brought back an olive branch from the President—or don't you consider the President's message an olive branch?

"I personally am convinced that as long as Germany's fate is directed by such men as my friend, the Chancellor, and Dr. Hefferich and Dr. Wolf; by Admirals von Capelle, Haltzendorff. and von Mueller; by Generals von Hindenburg and Ludendorff, and last, but not least, by my friend Zimmermann, the relations between the two countries are running no risk."

Some officials asserted that while a diplomatic officer enjoyed wide latitude in making remarks at a semi-private dinner, there were bounds that he should not exceed, even in private. His alleged reference to the continuance of certain German officials in office was regarded as going beyond the limits of the latitude allowed an Ambassador. Nothing occurred today, however, to show that the Administration was especially displeased with Mr. Gerard. The desire is to suspend judgment until he has made a report on the remarks made at the dinner.

It is felt that considerable importance is attached to the possible effects of such an utterance as the reported speech of Gerard, especially upon public opinion in the allied countries, where published reports have shown an impression that the President's note was in some way connected with the Central Powers' peace proposal. Every effort has been made to dispel that belief.

It is felt that if the Overseas News report were allowed to go unchallenged that feeling would be increased. As a result, the department was prompt in making public its inquiry to the Ambassador, and probably will give out his reply when received.

It is indicated also in some circles that the report as quoted did not convey a true view of German-American relations, which have commonly been described as strained through the recent submarine activities.

Berlin Considers It Important.

BERLIN, Jan. 8.—The dinner, given by the American Association of Commerce and Trade of Berlin in honor of Ambassador Gerard, continues in the forefront of interest.

It is recognized, as pointed out in a Berlin dispatch to the Cologne Gazette, as a political development of high importance, leading the German editors to devote their Monday reviews of the week largely to a discussion of its bearing on future German-American relations and upon peace prospects.

The event has, in general, excited friendly comment. Ambassador Gerard's declarations regarding the excellent condition of the relations between Germany and the United States are generaly welcomed, although the outspoken anti-American newspapers do not refrain from exploiting them in an unfavorable sense.

The Tageszeitung finds that the American Ambassador "violated all diplomatic proprieties" in speaking of German-American relations at all, and particularly in associating their prolongation with the continuance in office of Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg, Field Marshal von Hindenburg, Chief of General Staff, and General Ludendorf, First Quartermaster General.

Theodor Wolff, in the Tageblatt, laments that in the flood of misunderstanding such reasonable exchanges of opinion and information are not more frequently heard. He expresses high pleasure at the course of the dinner.

The Cologne Gazette, in its Berlin dispatch, says that the speeches sounded a note deserving of particular attention under present conditions, and gave lively proof of the wish for the maintenance of good relations and the mutual desire of the two nations to understand each other better. It reiterates that such meetings have an increased importance at the present moment.

Hopes Wilson Will Persist.

The Vorwärts, in a noteworthy leader representing the views of a majority of the Socialists, expresses the hope that President Wilson will not drop his efforts for peace, but will again and unconditionally request both sides to communicate their general peace conditions to him, and trusts that in this case Germany will comply with the request. It points out that Germany neither in its reply to President Wilson on Dec. 26 nor to the announcement made in the Government organ, the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung (controverting the report that the German peace conditions had been communicated to the President) definitely rejected this possibility, but expressed preference for direct negotiations, the Government desiring to avoid the appearance of too eagerly pursuing peace and begging President Wilson's mediation.

The paper then describes its idea of the course the negotiations should take, saying that the answers should not take the form of detailed peace programs, worked out in all points, which, it contends, can only be elaborated at a peace conference, but that the communication of peace terms could more probably be brought out through the

SAY WARSHIP PLOT LEADS TO VATICAN

Alleged Agent of Pope's Austrian Chamberlain Implicated in Loss of Battleships.

ROME, Jan. 8.—More than forty persons are now in prison as a result of the investigations into the destruction, in September, 1915, and August, 1916, respectively, of the Italian battleships Benedetto Brin and Leonardo da Vinci. The latter was blown up in Taranto Harbor, and 248 men perished.

Lieut. Gen. Count Cadorna, Chief of Staff, came to Rome on Thursday to attend a meeting of the Cabinet which was held for the purpose of deciding upon the disposition of the prisoners, but the question has become a political one, from the introduction into the case of the name of one of the officials of the Vatican.

An Italian named Ambrogetti, who was among those charged with being implicated in the destruction of the warships, asserts that he is the financial agent of Mgr. Gerlach, Pope Benedict's private chamberlain. Mgr. Gerlach is an Austrian, and, according to information here, was once a cavalry officer, who became a priest and won the favor of the present Pope when the latter was a Cardinal. He was the bearer of the red hat from the Pope to the three French Cardinals who were appointed at the December Consistory.

It has been learned that Mgr. Gerlach, prior to Italy's entry into the war, was interested in a pro-Austrian paper at Vittoria, of which Ambrogetti was manager.

The Italian authorities have learned details of the plot which ended in the destruction of the two battleships from the Italian author, Archita Valente, who was arrested some months ago. The suspicion that the explosions on the ships were due to a conspiracy originated from the fact that certain naval machinists were aboard the ships at the time of their destruction, and on each occasion escaped uninjured. They were followed to Valente's house and were there arrested.

SPAIN MAKES PROTEST OVER NEW SINKING

Indignation in Madrid as the Result of the Torpedoing of the San Leandro, a Fruit Ship.

MADRID, Jan. 7, (via Paris.)—Public Havas Agency from Madrid says the Spanish Government has addressed a complaint to the German Government on the subject of the torpedoing of the steamer San Leandro.

MADRID, Jan. 7, (via Paris.)—Public indignation has been aroused through the publication of a telegram received by the manager of the Cartagena Navigation Company confirming the report that the San Leandro was torpedoed by a German submarine. It was generally believed that the loss of the steamer was accidental as, her cargo being of fruit, it was considered unlikely that she would be torpedoed. The crew of the ship has arrived at Hendaye, France, where they made statements before the Spanish Consul, in which they said that they were twenty-six hours in an open boat before reaching the French coast.

The navigation company has sent telegrams to Premier Romanones and the Minister of Foreign Commerce protesting against the sinking and has suspended the sailing of another of its ships, the San Isidore, which is now loading fruit at Malaga.

The situation at the Canaries is described as grave by the latest dispatches from the islands. Only 233 ships called at Las Palmas in the month of December, as against an average of 700 for that month in normal times. Of the 233 only one was English and there were no French or Italian, a fact attributed to the presence of submarines in the vicinity of the port. Commenting on these conditions, the Epoca remarks that Spain, without participating in the war, suffers consequences, as far as the Canaries are concerned, almost to the same extent as a belligerent nation.

THREE GERMAN RAIDS NEAR ARRAS FAIL

British Artillery Active All Along Front—Berlin Claims Six Air Victories.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The following official communication was issued this evening:

Early last night the enemy made three attempts to approach our positions southeast of Souchez. On each occasion he was driven back by our fire before reaching our trenches. A number of German wounded were left in front of our lines.

The artillery has been active on both sides at a number of places along the line, both on the front and the support trenches in the back areas. In particular effective bombardments have been carried out by us east of Les Boeufs, on both sides of the Ancre, and east of Neuve Chapelle. Ypres was heavily shelled by the enemy during the day.

Yesterday a number of enemy batteries were effectively engaged by our artillery, in co-operation with our airplanes. Many places of military importance behind the enemy's lines were successfully bombed. A number of fights in the air took place, in which two of the enemy machines were driven down damaged. Two of our machines are missing.

BERLIN, Jan. 8, (by Wireless to Sayville.) — Today's Army Headquarters statement on operations in the western war area follows:

On the Yser front, in the Ypres salient, and north of the Somme temporarily lively artillery duels developed.

Through successful air engagements and the fire of our defensive guns the enemy lost six airplanes.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—The official communication issued tonight by the War Office follows:

On the right bank of the Meuse the artillery was quite active in the region at the foot of the Meuse Hills. Our batteries carried out destructive fires on German organizations in the Woevre and the Bois des Chevaliers. The day was relatively calm on the rest of the front.

Patrol engagements occurred last night in the regions of Bouchavesnes, on the Somme front, and of Parroy Forest, in Lorraine, according to the afternoon report. Otherwise there was little activity.

The Belgian communication says:

On the whole Yser front there was great artillery activity on both sides, especially around Dixmude and Steenstraete.

LAWSON FACES CONTEMPT CHARGE IN 'LEAK' INQUIRY

ALL BUT COMES TO BLOWS

TUMULTY REBUKES WOOD

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Sensation followed sensation today at the session of the House Committee on Rules, which is conducting an inquiry into the allegations that news of President Wilson's peace move "leaked" in advance to Wall Street. What came near to being a physical encounter between Thomas W. Lawson of Boston and Representative Burnett M. Chiperfield of Illinois, a Republican member of the committee; a motion that Mr. Lawson be reported "for contempt of the House of Representatives"; a verbal lashing of Representative William R. Wood of Indiana by Joseph P. Tumulty, Secretary to the President, and the appearance of Robert Lansing, Secretary of State, were the high lights of the proceedings. The day was one of thrills and acrimonious interchanges, but few facts. The motion for contempt is still pending.

Mr. Lawson occupied most of the time. He not only declined to give names, but openly defied the committee to make him answer questions. At one time he said he would proceed in his own way or not at all.

Secretary Tumulty furnished another flare-up when he assailed Representative Wood, author of the investigation resolution, for bringing his name into the "leak" controversy. After reading a prepared statement, the secretary to the President said he awaited a public apology from Mr. Wood. Later, in answer to a question, he said that he didn't want to be asked anything about Mr. Wood; that he "would be ashamed to be a party to anything that would blemish the reputation of a public man on a mere letter by a man named Curtis," and that if he were guilty of such a thing he "would not be fit to hold the smallest public office."

"I object to such statements about a member of Congress," exclaimed Representative Chiperfield. Chairman Henry asked Secretary Tumulty to confine himself as much as possible to the matter of denial of the Wood insinuations.

Bernard M. Baruch of New York, alleged in the mysterious Curtis letter to have lunched with Mr. Tumulty at the Biltmore Hotel before the dispatch of the peace note, occupied a seat in the room. So did Otto Kahn of the New York banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who came here to deny that he had any advance information of the peace note.

Chiperfield Warns Lawson.

Mr. Lawson supplied most of the excitement of the day. The Boston man, who was the third and last witness of the day, had not been on the stand more than five minutes before he clashed with Mr. Chiperfield. The heighth of the controversy was reached when Mr. Lawson accused Mr. Chiperfield of making "a cowardly, false statement." As Representative Foster called Mr. Lawson to order, Representative Chiperfield said:

"Just let him go a bit further and he will not be able to testify any more today."

Lawson and Chiperfield were within two feet of each other and apparently each had difficulty in maintaining his self-control. Mr. Chiperfield is an athlete.

Later in the day, when Mr. Lawson said a member of Congress had informed him that "a Cabinet officer" had been involved in the "leak" and the speculation following, only to refuse to name either the Cabinet officer or the member of Congress, Mr. Chiperfield made the following motion:

"I move, Mr. Chairman, that this witness, Thomas W. Lawson, be reported to the House of Representatives, the report to be accompanied by a transcript of the questions asked which he has refused to answer, in order that Thomas W. Lawson may be dealt with as for contempt of the House of Representatives. I do not ask for an immediate vote on this motion, but I make it here in the proper place, so that the record may reveal which particular questions I have in mind. He has failed to answer many."

"Do I understand," asked Mr. Lawson, "that I am to be summoned for contempt because I have declined to give you the name of the member of Congress who mentioned the name of the Cabinet officer in this connection?"

Members of the committee nodded their heads.

"Again I refuse to answer, because this information came to me confidentially," said Mr. Lawson. "When it came to me, I was struck with its vital character and its seriousness."

"Where did your conversation occur?" asked Representative Campbell.

Fears Effect on the Nation.

"I refuse to answer any question that will bring before this committee the name of the high official I have in mind. This is because of the serious effect upon the nation of the disclosure of such information."

For half an hour members of the committee prodded Mr. Lawson with reminders that his charges, involving a member of Congress and a Cabinet officer, were of the gravest sort, and that it was not proper to withhold such information from the committee. Questions to when, where and how the information was imparted were parried by Mr. Lawson.

More than once Mr. Lawson impatiently asserted that "this is a preliminary investigation. You are not investigating; you are to determine whether a real inquiry shall be made. I have given you enough information to produce results in forty-eight hours, but I shall not give my information to a preliminary investigation body."

Members of the committee were practically unanimous in saying that Mr. Lawson had given "no information whatever except general statements such as you have made from time to time in the press."

The danger of a physical encounter between Mr. Lawson and Mr. Chiperfield came after the Boston man had called Mr. Chiperfield a "four-flusher" and Mr. Chiperfield had assailed Mr. Lawson "for making insinuations and innuendoes and false statements before this committee." The colloquy began when Representative Chiperfield demanded that Mr. Lawson make good on his charges involving members of Congress and officials in the "leak" to Wall Street. Mr. Lawson declined to be specific as to his meaning when he said in a recent statement that "the good old Capitol has been wallowing in Wall Street leak graft for forty years."

"I said when I made these leak charges," said Mr. Lawson, "that I expected hell to be lambasted into me by Congress. I was right. As soon as the Senate opened a leather-lunged, sewer-mouthed old blatherskite ——"

"I object!" shouted Representative Foster. "He cannot talk about the Senate or a Senator like that."

"It is to be hoped your present charges will have a more far-reaching denoument than 'Frenzied Finance,'" interposed Representative Chiperfield.

"Now I am sorry I ever wrote 'Frenzied Finance,'" said Mr. Lawson. "It cost me a million or so. I am sorry it couldn't have been written by some member of this committee."

This latter sentence was uttered in rather sarcastic tone.

A Matter of Four-Flushing.

"Well, I know a four-flush when you lay it on the table in front of me," said Representative Chiperfield.

"Look here, I don't deal in cards. I know nothing about them," said Mr. Lawson, "but I do know that in all my experience a private citizen volunteering to help a committee has never been subjected to such treatment as this—has never been told you are going to 'get me.' The committee told me when I started off I would get fair treatment. This looks like fair treatment, doesn't it?"

Mr. Lawson turned belligerently toward Mr. Chiperfield. Chairman Henry rapped for order. Mr. Chiperfield said: "I don't propose to be bulldozed by this man or anybody else."

"No, and I shall not be bulldozed by you or any other member of Congress. I shall proceed in my own way. What's the penalty, what's the penalty for saying what I think?" he asked, fairly shouting the words, as he turned to Chairman Henry. Confusion followed throughout the room, where several hundred spectators were jammed.

"I can tell a four-flusher in the dark," added Mr. Lawson, turning back toward Mr. Chiperfield. Jerry South, Sergeant at Arms of the committee, begged Mr. Lawson to sit down. Committee members talked excitedly, and above the hubbub Mr. Chiperfield shouted that "the vituperation of this witness shall not stop me a moment," and Mr. Lawson answered that "if this committee cannot protect me I can protect myself."

Only two feet separated the two men when Mr. Chiperfield said Mr. Lawson had produced nothing but insinuations and false statements.

"Now, I won't stand for that," said Mr. Lawson. "Here is a member of your committee who says I have made a false statement. He knows that is a cowardly, false statement—"

Here cries of "Order!" came from Mr. Foster and others, and then it was that Representative Chiperfield, edging forward in his chair beside the witness, looked up into Mr. Lawson's face and said "Just let him go a bit further, and he won't testify any more today."

After several minutes quiet was restored, but Mr. Lawson halted his direct statement with the complaint that "I have been bulldozed and insulted and my usefulness here has ended." He agreed to answer questions, but declined to make a further statement unless permitted to proceed uninterrupted. This permission was not given.

Farmer, Also Financier.

When Mr. Lawson took the stand he was told by Chairman Henry that he might "proceed his own way for the present." Mr. Lawson asked if he were to be stopped at any point in his talk. Mr. Henry said that would depend entirely on whether he confined himself to the subject before the committee.

"My name is Thomas W. Lawson," he said. "My home is Boston. My occupation, you might say, is that of a farmer."

The crowd burst into a roar of laughter, and Mr. Lawson hastened to explain.

"I don't say I am a farmer to be facetious," he said. "In a way I also am connected with financial matters. I will give testimony," he went on, "regarding the damnable condition which has existed for two years for the purpose of finding a remedy for conditions which have caused hundreds of thousands of persons to be driven to enormous losses."

The witness, pacing up and down before the committeemen, declared that all he had said in the public press regarding the leak he believed to be true.

"I repeat it all now," he declared. "It is one of the commonest things in Wall Street, advance information from Washington about Government affairs, affairs of such importance that they frequently affect the country's securities. I mean also leaks from the Supreme Court, advance information on decisions, advance information on important Senate matters, action of Congressional committees, Cabinet affairs, and advance information direct from the White House itself."

From that he led into charges of a "premeditated, deliberately figured out, deliberately worked out robbery of the American people through united stock gamblers."

He said he knew who was responsible for the leak, and reiterated he was convinced the committee did not want an investigation.

Wouldn't Violate a Confidence.

"You stated that there was a leak," said Chairman Henry. "Will you give the committee the name of the person who carried the leak to Wall Street from Washington?"

Mr. Lawson replied that the only way he could give the identity of the bearer of the "leak" would be to violate a confidence, and he could not do so.

"Do you know any names?" demanded Chairman Henry.

"Not in a legal sense."

"Do you know of any in any sense?"

"I know there was a leak," Mr. Lawson returned, "and, knowing there was a leak, I must have some information."

Asked if he refused to answer the question, Mr. Lawson avoided a direct answer.

"Do you know any persons who profited on the day of the leak?"

"I probably do," Mr. Lawson said. "I probably profited myself."

He declined to say how much.

By a process of elimination Chairman Henry drew from the witness that he knew of no one at the White House connected with any leak. Asked if he knew of any leak in the Secretary of State's office, Mr. Lawson said:

"I have no information regarding any one in the State Department which I would give in public. I would give it to the Chairman. But, to warrant an investigation, you don't need any more information than you have.

"I cannot give the committee names, in a court-knowledge way, as having been principals to the transaction. I could give names that were given to me by people I consider responsible, but I won't—not [illegible]

"Will you [illegible] asked the Chairman.

"No, I will [illegible] unless it is absolutely necessary."

Refuses to Blunder Up the Record.

"I started out with the determination, and I say again that I will not blunder up your record with names, to furnish headlines for the newspapers," said the witness.

"Then you flatly decline?"

"Yes, I decline to furnish now names given to me by others."

At this point the committee took a recess until 2 o'clock. At the opening of the afternoon session Mr. Lawson suggested that Charles H. Sabin, President of the Guaranty Trust Company, be examined about his prediction that Ambassador Gerard was bringing home Germany's peace terms and about a U-53 raid.

"It was generally accepted in the district," said Mr. Lawson, "that Mr. Sabin had some knowledge from Washington. I am not prepared to say whether it was about the U-boat or peace. As it turned out, it seemed to have been more U-boat than peace."

"What did you mean," asked Representative Campbell, "when you referred to Supreme Court leaks this morning?"

"I meant that advance information regarding decisions got to the Street and that it might have come through officers or attaches of the court," said Mr. Lawson.

"Did you mean to include the Justices?"

"Oh, no."

"Have you in mind any specific Supreme Court decisions, advance information of which affected the market?"

"No, I don't recall any specific cases, but there have been a number of important railroad and labor cases the decisions on which were known in advance."

Mr. Lawson, asked about other leaks, said that the President's messages were always known in advance in Wall Street. Another sort of leak from Washington, he said, was where somebody went into the Street to "peddle," in advance, information regarding important Government affairs. Men who do that, he said, might be confidential clerks, stenographers, or any one who might come in contact with the information in its physical preparation.

"Another sort of leak," he said, "is when some executive officer of the Government, some Cabinet official or member of the Senate or House, may be interested in stocks or bonds—they are all human, like the rest of us—acquiring information that will affect the market, passes the information on to his friends."

Involves a Cabinet Member.

Mr. Lawson told the committee that a member of Congress had told him a member of the Cabinet had speculated on the falling market caused by the leak, but he flatly refused to give the committee the name of the Cabinet member or of the member of Congress who told him.

"Who told you that, and who was the member of the Cabinet?" demanded Representative Campbell.

"I am not going to answer," said Mr. Lawson, determinedly. Mr. Campbell reminded him that the committee had power to compel him to answer.

"When I say that the name was given to me in confidence on honor, not to be repeated, do you still insist upon an answer?" asked Mr. Lawson.

"Yes," said Mr. Campbell.

"Well, I shall not answer," said Mr. Lawson. "It seems to me that it could serve no good purpose to name a high official of the Government at a time when it might bring serious consequences to the people and to the nation and perhaps to the Administration itself."

Representative Chiperfield then moved to report Lawson to the House for contempt. After getting the motion into the record he withdrew it temporarily, while Lawson went on giving his "formula" for finding the "leak." It embraced chiefly a plan for bringing the sales slips of the Stock Exchange before the committee.

As the examination proceeded, Mr. Lawson once declared that he "didn't give a dam" what the committee did about his method of answering questions. On two occasions Representative Campbell reminded him that women were present and that he was not in a "barroom." Lawson's ire was aroused.

"That's twice you've said that," he said, "and now I want to lecture you a little bit."

Chairman Henry stopped the "lecture." Dozens of questions asked by Representative Campbell during this period of the hearing, with the object of pinning Lawson down to a concrete statement of what information he really possessed, if any, about the leak, were futile.

Describing it first as a suppositious case, but later stating it had been told to him as a fact, Mr. Lawson pictured a United States Senator, Cabinet officer, and a New York banker having a joint stock gambling account and dividing the profits among them. He declined to give names because he did not know them of his own knowledge.

"Was it a case within your personal knowledge?" asked Representative Garrett. "I don't want to ask you for hearsay."

"I appreciate your attitude," answered Mr. Lawson, "and I meet it by saying that I might explode many sensations if I desired. I don't think this has reached the stage for giving names. It is not within my personal knowledge."

"Did the person who told you claim to have personal knowledge?"

"No; but I corroborated it later, and had a reputable banker—a friend of mine and friend of the banker—go to see this banker. He mentioned this matter and said: 'What do you think about it?' He said the banker told him that he not only had this account, but others, and that he had this Cabinet member under such absolute control that he could bring the Cabinet member from Washington to New York or to the telephone at any time of the day or night, and he offered then and there to call him on the telephone to demonstrate it. Now I am sorry to have gone that far."

Representative Garrett asked Mr. Lawson if the Cabinet officer referred to as connected with the leak had profited by it.

"He was as closely connected with it as if he had speculated," Mr. Lawson replied. Answering Representative Lenroot's request that he give his reasons for saying a real investigation would find Congress without a quorum, Mr. Lawson said that many would be at the leak hearings and others would be absent because of their interest in stocks.

"Would you be willing to say under oath that members of Congress were beneficiaries under the leak?" asked Mr. Lenroot.

Knows of Still Others.

"No, I wouldn't say that," Mr. Lawson replied, but he added that he knew of a Senator and a Representative, whose names he would not give but who were supposed to have benefited, and that he "might know of others."

"If an inquiry were ordered," Mr. Lenroot inquired, "are you prepared to show that Congressmen buy and sell stocks and profit by advance information regarding Governmental affairs?"

"No, I will show that they buy and sell stocks," Mr. Lawson answered. He pointed out that the Rules Committee was sitting merely to decide whether to report an investigation resolution, adding:

"I've given you a lot of information already, in my opinion. I think it sufficient to make clear to the committee whether there should be a real investigation. I don't intend to disclose my hand in an investigation that goes no further than to decide whether there is to be an investigation and thus let the criminals escape or destroy their records."

Before Mr. Lawson's examination was finished the committee adjourned the hearing until tomorrow, deferring until then any action on Representative Chiperfield's motion to cite Lawson for contempt.

The contempt charge situation seems to be all in favor of Mr. Lawson. He prefaced his statement today by saying he had been advised by eminent counsel that the committee had no authority to compel him to testify, "but I am inclined to waive my legal rights." Before a contempt charge could be pushed to a conclusion—assuming that Mr. Lawson went into the Federal Courts—the present Congress would have ended and the next Congress would have no jurisdiction over a contempt committed against the Sixty-fourth Congress.

When the hearing opened Representative Campbell, Republican, moved that the committee subpoenae F. M. Lockwood & Co., brokers of 46 Broadway, New York, to bring papers and documents showing stock transactions from Dec. 10 to 23. The committee decided to consider the motion in executive session. On motion of Representative Chiperfield the Boston Stock Exchange was ordered to preserve its brokers' slips for the same period.

Joseph P. Tumulty, Secretary to President Wilson, then was called, and read the following statement, which was accompanied by an indorsement by President Wilson:

Secretary Tumulty's Statement.

I appear before this committee to resent the unjust intimation that I gave information to Mr. B. M. Baruch in regard to the so-called peace note sent to the European belligerents last month by the Secretary of State. This intimation was contained in a statement made to this committee by Representative Wood of Indiana, a man whom I do not know. To the best of my knowledge I have never met Mr. Wood. Certainly he made no effort to find out the truth from me before dragging my name into this affair.

I wish to deny generally and specifically that I gave advance information to Mr. Baruch or to anybody else in regard to the peace note. I did not know of the existence of this note or that this Government contemplated the dispatch of such a note until after printed copies of the note had been given to representatives of the press by the State Department. I was not consulted in the preparation of the note by the President or by anybody else. The conferences and communications relating to the drafting of the note and its dispatch were confidential between the President and the Secretary of State. I knew nothing of them whatever, nor did any other person employed in the executive office.

I have had no correspondence, written or telegraphic, with Mr. Baruch or anybody representing him regarding this matter. I have had no telephone talks with Mr. Baruch or anybody representing him regarding this matter. I have never talked with him or anybody representing him or with any one else, publicly or privately, with regard to this matter.

Apparently the only insinuations made against me are that I lunched with or met Mr. Baruch, at the Biltmore Hotel, at or about the time of the preparation of the President's suggestion that the European belligerents state their peace terms. I have never breakfasted, lunched, dined, or taken any meals with Mr. Baruch. I have met him only at several banquets and large dinners, when many other persons were present. I have never discussed any peace or other note, either when it was in prospect or afterward, with Mr. Baruch or any other person engaged in the purchase or sale of securities of any kind in the stock market.

While this is a complete denial of the only insinuations which have been made, I wish to go further and say that I have never engaged in stock market sales or purchases myself nor through brokers, friends, or agents.

I discussed the President's note with no one, first, because my oath of service requires that I make no private use of official information, and second and specifically, because, as I have stated, I had not seen the President's note and did not know that it was in preparation or even contemplated.

As I have already said in a public statement, I have frequently requested the President to keep me free from any knowledge of impending international moves so that I might not be embarrassed by requests for information from the newspaper correspondents, who appeal to me in my office constantly for such information. The insinuations which have been made, whether conceived in political malice or merely through misinformation, are wholly false and without even the flimsiest basis. I have not at any time since acting as Mr. Wilson's Secretary, first, when he was Governor of New Jersey, and, later, when he became President, been interested in any stock transactions of any kind or given any information to any other person upon which purchases or sales might be made. I wish to make this statement as sweeping and complete as I know how. I am still waiting for Mr. Wood's public apology.

I am authorized by the President to quote him as follows:

"I wish in justice to Mr. Tumulty to say that he has stated the exact fact. He had no knowledge of the note whatever until it was given out for publication."

President Himself Wrote Note.

Chairman Henry had no questions to ask, and Representative Campbell questioned Mr. Tumulty.

"Do you know who aided in the preparation of this note?"

"The President prepared and wrote the note himself," said Mr. Tumulty. "He is an expert typewriter, in addition to his other achievements."

"Did any stenographer or clerk in the Executive Offices know of the existence of the note?"

"I do not know."

Mr. Tumulty added that he had tried to find out how a leak could have occurred, but had been unable to get any definite information.

"The mere mechanics of preparing the note might make it possible for it to get out," he said. "My first knowledge that a note had been given out came from The Associated Press correspondent at the White House on the afternoon of Dec. 20. He told me when I returned from lunch that the note had been given out. I asked him what note, and he said the peace note."

"Have you any information as to how the leak occurred?" Mr. Campbell asked.

"I have not," Mr. Tumulty replied. "Any opinion I might have would be speculative and would involve reputations. I am very careful about making statements in such circumstances."

Representative Chipfield asked Secretary Tumulty if he knew that Alfred H. Curtis of 136 West Seventy-ninth Street, New York, ex-President of the National Bank of North America, was in fact the "A Curtis" who wrote the letter. Mr. Tumulty said he did not. He added that he did not think the leak could have occurred on the note through any employe of the Executive Offices. He then read a letter from L. T. Russell, editor of The Newark Morning Ledger, referring to the mysterious "A. Curtis."

"What prompts me to write," said the letter, "is that I note that one by the name of 'Curtis' is brought in as having written the Wood letter using your name, and I recall that on a number of occasions, under various suspicious circumstances since I have been in Newark, I have received telephone calls from New York from a man calling himself 'Mr. Curtis,' and alleging himself to be a banker or broker. In each case he undertook to give me tips of various sorts of what was happening, not only in the financial and industrial world, but on one occasion called me up on the telephone to tell me that he had good reason to believe that Dorothy Arnold was at an Orange, N. J., hotel. During the Standard Oil strike he called up almost daily, giving what purported to be inside information, and also predicting future developments. I made considerable inquiry, but could never identify or locate Mr. Curtis."

Tumulty's Rebuke of Wood.

Representative Campbell asked Mr. Tumulty if he knew that Mr. Wood asked for an executive session of the committee at which to make his statement last week bringing in Mr. Tumulty's name.

"I wish you wouldn't ask me anything about Mr. Wood," replied Mr. Tumulty heatedly. "I would be ashamed to be a party to anything that would blemish the reputation of a public man on a mere letter written by a man named Curtis. If I were guilty of such a thing I would not be fit to hold the smallest public office."

Representative Lenroot, Republican, asked Secretary Tumulty how the President sent the peace note to Secretary Lansing. Mr. Tumulty said it was transmitted in a sealed envelope by private messenger.

"Do you know," asked Representative Chiperfield, "that Alfred H. Curtis was President of the National Bank of North America, with which Charles W. Morse and others were associated?"

"I do not," said Mr. Tumulty. The committee at that point decided to subpoena Alfred H. Curtis.

"Yes, Sir."

Q.—When did you last see him? A.—At the Gridiron dinner in Washington, Dec. 9.

Q.—Did you come closely in contact with him there? A.—I sat about five seats away from him and exchanged greetings with him.

Q.—Did you have any private conversation with him? A.—None at all.

Mr. Chiperfield then said there were things not mentioned in Mr. Tumulty's letter which he wished to question him about.

"Go as far as you like," said Mr. Tumulty.

"Yes."

Asked if he ever had any business transactions with W. B. Hibbs & Co., Washington brokers, and had ever frequented their place of business, Mr. Tumulty said he had been there once.

"Before Ambassador Gerard returned to Germany recently," said Mr. Tumulty, "he wanted to buy some bonds and wanted to know a man whom I could recommend. I introduced Mr. Gerard to Mr. Hibbs."

"When was that, in reference to when the peace note was sent?"

"Some time before."

In answer to further questioning by Representative Chiperfield, Mr. Tumulty said that he did not know the date of the peace note nor when it was transmitted to Secretary Lansing. He was excused then.

Secretary Lansing was called next.

Lansing's History of the Note.

"Possibly I had better start," said Secretary Lansing, "by stating that I assume that confidential communications between the President and myself are not a part of the inquiry. I can give you a physical history of the note.

"The draft of the note was received by me from the White House at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. I called Mr. Polk, Counselor for the department, and Mr. Woolsey, law adviser, attached to my office, and discussed the three forms in which the note had to be prepared and sent forth. I then handed it to Mr. Woolsey, enjoining him to the strictest secrecy, that he might take it to the three confidential stenographers. There it was to be prepared and delivered to Mr. Salmon, Chief of the Index Bureau.

"The index clerk," continued the Secretary, "was to encipher the note, and he said that it would take so long to cipher the three notes that he would have to have an assistant. I directed that he engage his most confidential man for the work. He did so, and was given the copies, and the two men locked themselves in the room. They were given the copies at 8 o'clock, and at 2:30 Tuesday morning (Dec. 19) the notes were enciphered, delivered to the telegraph room, and sent.

"On Tuesday afternoon I discussed with the President the time when the note should be made public. The reason for secrecy was the courtesy due to the nations who were to receive the note that it should not be published here before they received it. We decided it would take at least two days for it to reach Austria and Rumania, and we decided it should be made public on Thursday morning. Tuesday evening about 6 o'clock a copy of the note was handed to Mr. James, Chief of the Information Bureau. He at once took it up with the printing office. It was read by one man and was then sent to the printing office.

Talks With Newspaper Men.

"At about 11 o'clock [Wednesday] I received the newspaper correspondents and told them that I would have an important communication for them at 5 o'clock, to be released the next morning. I told them in confidence, as I was afraid its contents might come back from Europe in garbled form. Further, I thought it courteous not to make it public until it had been received by the countries to which it was addressed. I told them that it did not contain any proposal of peace nor offer of mediation.

"That evening at my house Ambassador Willard (of Spain) told me he had been advised of the contents of the note by the President, and we discussed the advisability of his addressing Spain on the subject. The next morning the note was made public in the press."

Mr. Lansing said he could not recall the name of any newspaper man who was present at the conference, nor did he know any details of who handled the note at the Government Printing Office.

"When was the first intimation you had that there had been a disclosure of the contents of the note?" asked Representative Campbell.

"I had none until it was stated in the newspapers," said Mr. Lansing. He added that he had made inquiries around his department for a leak, but had failed to locate one.

"Have you any information as to a leak on the note about 11 o'clock on Wednesday?" asked Representative Campbell.

"Not to my knowledge," said Mr. Lansing.

"It's been suggested here that representatives of two newspapers may have sent out information at that time."

"I have seen references to it in the newspapers."

"Has anything been done at the State Department to show whether there is any foundation for that?"

Others in the Room.

Mr. Lansing said that on the morning of his conference with the newspaper men three other men were present waiting to see him, but that he did not know they were in the room until after he had talked to the newspaper men.

"Who were these men?" asked Representative Lenroot.

"Mr. A. E. Snowden of New York, E. R. Gaylor, a civil engineer of the Navy, and Dr. N. T. McLean of the Navy," said Mr. Lansing. "The two naval officers were about to proceed to Haiti for the Government."

"It is not likely that they would say anything about your statement?" suggested Representative Bennet.

"Very improbable."

Mr. Bennet recalled that Secretary Lansing had said he never speculated in the market, and added:

"For that reason, isn't it possible that you gave little thought to the effect some statement made by you might have on the stock market?"

"I never gave it a thought," said the Secretary. "It never entered my mind. I was merely anxious to preserve the courtesy due to foreign nations in the matter."

Q.—Was Mr. Snowden connected with the National Manufacturers' Association? A.—I think so.

Q.—With Snowden practically a stranger to you, did it occur to you that he might make use of the information? A.—I didn't know he was there.

Questioned further about his Wednesday conference with the newspaper men, Secretary Lansing said:

What He Told the Correspondents.

"My statements regarding the note were entirely negative. I said nothing whatever about a request for terms having been made. I gave no details. I stated that at 5 o'clock they would be able to get an important communication sent to belligerent Governments. I said that it was not a proposal of peace or an offer of mediation. Then I explained the reason I wished them to preserve confidence. I knew the note was in the hands of the printer, and I wanted to guard against any mere rumors that might get out."

Representative Chiperfield asked Secretary Lansing about his two statements explaining the note after it had been made public.

"Were these statements made entirely on your own initiative?" asked Mr. Chiperfield.

"See here," Secretary Lansing declared with emphasis, "that is away beyond the scope of this investigation."

"Such a matter has not the slightest pertinence to this inquiry on the effect of a leak on the stock market," Representative Garrett interjected.

"Not, perhaps, any connection with the leak on the note and its effect on the market," said Representative Chipperfield, "but it has been stated that the Secretary's statements did, in fact, affect the stock market."

Democrats of the committee objected that such a line of questioning was improper, and the chair ruled that the Secretary need not answer. Resuming his testimony, Secretary Lansing said he did not know if representatives of Wall Street papers were present at the coference of the newspaper men, and he did not know their duties.

DENIES WRITING 'CURTIS' NOTE

Alfred H. Ill in Bed at Time—Statement by Dr. Snowden.

Alfred H. Curtis, ex-President of the National Bank of North America, who was mentioned at the "leak" inquiry in Washington yesterday as possibly the "A. Curtis" who sent the mysterious "leak" letter to Representative Wood, is now secretary to Joseph R. De Lamar of 43 Exchange Place. To a NEW YORK TIMES reporter last night he not only denied writing the letter, but also said he was not acquainted with Mr. Wood. Mr. Curtis said that he was ill in bed, attended by a physician and nurse, when the letter was written, and for days afterward. He was still in poor health, he said, but ready to go to Washington to testify if subpoenaed. His testimony, he added with a smile, would not compensate Congress for the expense.

Dr. Albert A. Snowden, formerly connected with the National Association of Manufacturers and at present an international broker, living at 205 West 103d Street, said that he was the man referred to by Secretary Lansing as the A. E. Snowden who was present at Secretary Lansing's conference with the newspaper men with respect to President Wilson's note. He added, however, that he had been in no way connected with the alleged "leak."

"I had an appointment with Secretary Lansing on the morning in question," he said, "but it was about an entirely different matter. I was standing from six to eight feet away from the Secretary when he made the announcement to the newspaper men, and I overheard all that was said. Immediately thereafter I was introduced to Mr. Lansing by his secretary. I told him my business and he courteously gave me the business information which I sought, which had nothing whatever to do with the peace note. We did not discuss the note in any way.

"While nothing was said to me by Secretary Lansing about treating his communication to the newspapermen in confidence, I knew, of course, that that was the proper way to treat it, and so I did. At the same time, being trained in such matters, I saw that the information was of great financial value. When walking away from the Secretary's office I tried to figure out the extent to which the paper value of American wealth would shrink on the publication of the note, and I estimated it at $20,000,000,000. But I am not in the stock market, and I did not attempt to use the information for my personal benefit. I am very sure that Secretary Lansing is entirely innocent of any wrongdoing in connection with this whole matter."

At the offices of F. M. Lockwood & Co., brokers, it was stated by a member of the firm that there was no one of the name of F. M. Lockwood now with the company. F. M. Lockwood was formerly head of the firm, but he died some time ago. No one connected with the firm, it was asserted, knew anything about the leak, and it was said that there must be some mistake.

FOR MORAL SUASION PEACE.

That Is Wilson's Plan, Peace Advocate Assures Borah.

Samuel T. Dutton, as General Secretary of the World's Court League, sent a telegram yesterday to Senator Borah in Washington, praising the speech he made in the Senate Friday wherein he pointed out, as Mr. Dutton said, "the danger that the United States would be drawn into grave complications should the Federal Government enter into a compact to enforce peace by recourse to arms even as a final resort."

In part Mr. Dutton's dispatch says:

"Our national integrity and security are based on our refusal to become enmeshed in foreign entanglements, with their endless intrigues, political and other. * * * We do not share your apprehension that President Wilson is contemplating any alliance which might entangle this country with European or Asiatic powers. We hope and believe that the President may have in mind a league of nations whose purposes would be to preserve lasting peace, not by force of arms, but through moral force, through righteousness and justice expressed in a world court, the decisions of which would be supported by the greatest force in existence—the sheer force of enlightened public opinion."

NO REPLY FROM THE POPE.

Has No Occasion to Answer Wilson, but Applauds His Aims.

ROME, Jan. 8, (via Paris.)—The Vatican denies a statement which has appeared in the press, that the Pope is about to answer President Wilson's note in approximately the same terms as Spain. It is pointed out that as there are no diplomatic relations between the United States and the Holy See, the Pope has had no official communication of President Wilson's note and thus could not answer in any form, although it is said that he strongly sympathizes with the intents and aims of the President.

CANADIAN LOSSES 68,290.

Casualties Average 2,355 for 29 Months of the War.

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—Canadian casualties from the opening of war to Dec. 31, a period of twenty-nine months, total 68,290.

This is made up of killed, 10,854; died of wounds, 4,010; died of sickness, 484; presumed dead, 1,108; wounded, 48,454; missing, 2,970.

The casualties in 1915, when Canada had only one division at the front, totaled 14,453. During the last year, with four divisions, casualties totaled 53,837.

Four More Ships Sunk.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The sinking of two neutral steamers and two schooners flying the flags of Entente nations were reported today. They were the Norwegian steamer Laupar of 1,407 tons and the Hansi of 1,143 tons, and the British schooner Brenda and the Russian schooner Seemel.

THE LURE TO RASPUTIN.

Said to Have Gone in Gala Attire to Prince Yussupoff's House.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 3, (via London, Jan. 8.)—New and more dramatic versions of the death of Gregory Rasputin, the Russian monk who exercised great influence over the members of the imperial family, and conjectures as to the nature of the plot which succeeded in ridding Russia of the most powerful and picturesque of "the dark forces" which it is alleged have been attempting to poison the internal life of Russia, have only heightened the sensation caused by the first news of Rasputin's death. It is now definitely known that the assassination was only one of a series of attempts upon Rasputin's life.

In the former plots either Rasputin, scenting danger, refused to be decoyed from his house, or the plotters were unable to agree upon the means to be used, and thus their plans several times miscarried. But circumstances peculiarly favored the plot arranged for early Saturday morning, and from recent information the authorities have been able to picture the events leading up to the assassination.

According to this account, soon after midnight Rasputin, who was sitting alone in his house in Petrograd, received a telephone call from the house of Prince Yussupoff. The invitation proved particularly alluring, and Rasputin accepted in the best humor. Soon afterward a young man called for the monk at the rear entrance. The night was extremely cold, and the long cloak worn by Rasputin concealed the costume which he had donned for the occasion, consisting of dark, baggy velvet trousers tucked into high polished boots, a silk blouse, and a bright-colored sash. The other wore conventional evening dress. The two offered a striking contrast as they quietly proceeded to the waiting automobile.

Rasputin was not long seated in the house to which he had been invited before one of the guests arose quietly and offered a revolver to him, with the following words:

"We have decided that you must die. Kill yourself."

According to the prevalent version, Rasputin pointed the revolver at the man who had offered it to him, whereupon the other guests drew revolvers and fired upon the monk.

Rasputin was struck twice, in the chest and side, and then a bullet in the head killed him instantly. His body was immediately disposed of, being dropped into the Neva River.

It was said today that those who had participated in the crime would not be prosecuted. One has already been allowed to leave Petrograd, and, although the others have been detained, no arrests have been made.

DUTCH BUY SUBMARINES.

Take Over One Interned British Boat and One German.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The Dutch Minister of Marine, J. J. Rambonnet, says a Reuter dispatch from The Hague, announces that because naval construction has been hampered by the war, negotiations have been opened with the British and German Governments with a view to Holland taking over interned submarines.

The transfer of one British and one German submarine has thus far been arranged.

SCULLY WINS FIGHT FOR SEAT IN HOUSE

Canvassers Decide Long New Jersey Contest in Favor of Democratic Incumbent.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 8.—Thomas J. Scully, Democrat, of the Third Congressional District of this State will retain his seat in the House of Representatives, the Board of Canvassers having ordered this afternoon that a certificate of election be issued to him. Corrected returns from Middlesex, Monmouth, and Ocean Counties which make up the district gave him a majority of 202 over Robert Carson, Republican. The original count made Carson victor by eleven votes.

When the certificate of election is issued to Mr. Scully the count in the House will be Republicans, 214; Democrats, 214; independents, 2; Progressives, 2, Prohibitionists, 1 and Socialist, 1. A certificate of election is still to be issued in the Thirty-second Pennsylvania District, where Representative A. J. Barchfeld is contesting the election of Guy E. Campbell, Democrat. If the Democrats maintain their advantage in this district they will still lack three votes of a majority, the membership of the House being 435, with 218 necessary for control.

MRS. WHITRIDGE GETS ALL.

In Short Will Former 3d Av. Railroad Head Disposed of $10,000,000.

The will of Frederick Wallingford Whitridge, late President of the Third Avenue Railroad, who died Dec. 30, leaves his entire estate to his wife, Mrs. Lucy Arnold Whitridge, daughter of Matthew Arnold. The will has not yet been filed for probate, but a statement to this effect was made yesterday at the office of his law firm, Whitridge, Butler & Rice. The will is short, and in this respect and in the disposition of his property it follows the wills of E. H. Harriman and Russell Sage.

While no estimate of the value of the estate was given, it is believed to be upward of $10,000,000. Mr. Whitridge left two daughters, Miss Joan Whitridge and Eleanor, wife of Charles E. Greenough. He has one son, Captain Arnold Whitridge, now in the British Army.

ENGINEERS can estimate the horse power of a motor truck accurately; yet the merchant who actually used the horse can figure out the increase of power with even greater accuracy. Experience is a thorough teacher.

And skilled in the theoretical principles of correct construction and materials, technical men confirm the verdict of those whose appreciation of D-E WORM DRIVE MOTOR TRUCKS does come actually from practical experience: A truck of rugged strength.

SERVICEABILITY is a quality that comes from the incorporation of all that is best in truck construction: A worm drive transmitting 97% of the power developed by a magnificent motor, at the point of contact; a sturdy frame of pressed steel fabricated in an unusually large size; and a list of general specifications of peculiar excellence. These are the characteristics of D-E MOTOR TRUCKS. A phone call will bring our demonstrator to your door.

DISARM GERMANY, SAYS GEN. HUGHES

PLEDGES DOMINION'S AID

United States Will Never Lack Help in a Crisis, He Asserts at Dinner Here.

General Sir Sam Hughes, former Canadian Minister of Militia and Defense, told the Canadian Club at a dinner last night that one way in which the Kaiser could demonstrate his desire for peace would be for him to hand over to the Allies in advance the German navy as security, neutralize the Kiel Canal by leveling its fortifications, and either resign from the throne or grant to his people a limited monarchical form of government.

The speech, coupled with a characteristic message from Theodore Roosevelt and a spirited address by Controller Prendergast, stirred the patriotic ardor of the 500 guests at the dinner almost beyond the point reached at a recent dinner of the club when Premier Borden, the speaker of honor, said Canada had bled too much to accept an inconclusive peace. General Hughes made a brief reference to the controversy that led to his resignation on Nov. 13 last. In this connection he said agents in the pay of the Central Powers, desiring to cause dissension among loyal Canadians, had circulated falsehoods about him.

"There is talk of peace," he said, after he had recounted the valor and self-sacrifice of the Canadian soldiers in the field. "Canada and Britain love peace; but it must be distinctly understood that this war was not entered upon by the Allies for peace, but for human liberty. The two terms are not necessarily synonymous. The price which the Hohenzollerns must pay for peace is an assured guarantee for liberty, not alone for human mortals of the allied lands, but for the people of Germany and Austria as well.

"A free Germany and a free Austria, under limited monarchical or stable republican government, would be safeguards of great value.

"Liberty is not yet won and guaranteed. If Germany is in earnest for peace, let her in advance hand over as security to the Allies her entire navy. In fighting a rattlesnake, one should be on guard. In so far, therefore, as Canada is concerned, that our gallant lads may not have fought and fallen in vain, the object for downtrodden humanity must be attained."

Army and Navy Men Applaud.

General Hughes paused here for a moment to permit the applause, in which Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan of the National Guard, Premier Arthur Sifton of the Province of Alberta, and several American army and navy officers joined, to subside.

"There is a long list of diabolical crimes to be atoned for," continued General Hughes, "and there must be no possibility of Germany getting the Allies dissevered and then probably fighting Britain and France alone. The Hohenzollern autocracy must be overthrown. The Allies are fighting for the rights of humanity, including those of the people of Germany. They are fighting for the restoration of Belgium, Holland, and France, Poland and Rumania, Serbia and Montenegro.

"The Kiel Canal must be free to the world and unfortified. Schleswig Holstein should go to Denmark. Turkey and Persia must be free from German control, and Armenia, or what is left of it, must be placed beyond the possibility of further butcheries. Alsace and Lorraine rightly should go to France.

"The clang of the Krupps' forges must cease and the rattle of the Kaiser's sabre must no longer keep the world in terror. A power greater than the Prussian autocracy has arisen in the might of the constitutional democracies of France, Britain, and Britain's free, self-governing overseas domin on."

Before touching on possible peace and its conditions, General Hughes evoked a burst of handclapping by asserting that in the event the United States ever went to war with Germany, the Dominion would stand with this country as she has with the empire. He led up to this statement by telling of the efforts that had been made by Germany to establish herself in Brazil and to build up a colony that would be inimical to the interests of the United States. On one occasion, he said, a United States Army officer, commenting on these activities, asked him what Canada would do in case such a war was declared, and his answer had been, as repeated by him last night:

"Canada would be in the same position as Chichester was found with Dewey in Manila Bay. Right at your back. Canada will never join hands with autocratic tyranny for the overthrow of liberty."

Message from Roosevelt Cheered.

This pledge, coming after Thomas D. Neelands, President of the club and toastmaster at the dinner at the Biltmore, had read a message from Colonel Roosevelt in which Mr. Roosevelt said he was with the cause of the Allies heart and soul, and hoped the war would be continued until Germany and her allies had forever been impressed with the lesson of it, was greeted by another outburst.

The dinner was arranged to develop sentiment in the United States for preparedness, and General Hughes and other speakers all spoke in favor of universal military training.

General Hughes asserted that the United States was confronted with conditions which made it its duty to advocate such training.

"The essentials of preparedness are already at hand in the United States," he said, "as well as in Canada. First, the people are self-reliant, self-controlled, self-disciplined. They are ardent lovers of liberty, tolerant of the rights of others, independent, and each in his own sphere accustomed to battle with difficulties and to overcome them."

Calling attention to problems that might be confronted if the country was not prepared, he said that were the British fleet to be destroyed there would be little to prevent a German army landing on the shores of Canada and the United States and marching through to San Francisco and Vancouver.

General Hughes said while he was Minister of Militia he had consistently advocated the teaching of military training in the schools of the Dominion, and that he firmly believed such training would prove beneficial, even if the country never went to war.

FIND GERMAN LINES VERY THINLY HELD

British in Raid Near Arras Advance to Third Defense System with Little Opposition.

GUNS DO MUCH EXECUTION

Trenches Destroyed, Dugouts Caved In, and Wire Defenses Swept Away.

By PHILIP GIBBS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN THE FIELD, Sunday, Jan. 7, (Dispatch to The London Daily Chronicle.)—There were several unusual and rather perplexing things about the raid made by English and Scottish troops yesterday afternoon on the east side of Arras. It is unusual, for instance, to carry a raid into the third line of a complete system of German trenches involving a front of about 2,000 yards, with only a score or two of casualties all told on the British side. It is not often in the war that the British soldiers have entered the German lines so easily. It was unusual, also, that there was next to nothing of machine-gun fire—only one machine gun which fired at best twenty shots, and then was silenced. Finally, it was strange that during the attack the German barrage was erratic and feeble.

The attack stopped without retaliation. Are the Germans short of ammunition for a time or nursing it for future use? Are they holding some parts of the line so thinly and so weakly (there are boys of the 1917 class in some of their front lines) that the British troops can walk through without a fight and search around for the Germans without finding them? One would be tempted to build hopes on yesterday's experience if one had not been taught time and time again that behind the local weakness is ferocious strength.

Certainly the Germans were frightened yesterday when the British bombardment began in the morning and later, when over more than a mile-long front a smoke barrage, very dense and slow moving, rolled over the British lines toward them, mixing with the mist. It was a thick, white mist, and the day was without much light. There were red flashes of the British batteries at work, and over the German lines red flashes of bursting shells. Then all along the German front stretching east of Arras other lights glowed red through the mist and smoke, burned away like embers tinting into white and ash and rose, again scarlet as danger signals. The German infantry were sending up rockets of distress, an S O S call to the guns.

"They had the windup properly," said an officer conducting one part of the British operation. "They did not know at what point of the line they would be raided. For more than a mile British shells, screaming overhead, were bursting over their trenches in one great crash and roar. It was a few minutes after 3 o'clock in the afternoon when the Scottish and English troops went forward over No Man's Land. Overhead British aeroplanes were droning and signalling to the guns. One stopped like an eagle, then flew low, no higher than 550 yards above the German lines, searching the position. There was an uncanny lack of opposition in that position against the advancing troops. They were listening as they walked for the chatter of machine guns somewhere. It began with a quick patter of bullets. Then there was nothing more of that.

They started forward over the slime of No Man's Land for any standing wire, but the German entanglements had all been cut down by the British heavies and field guns—from ten to fifteen yards in breadth the strands had been leveled and destroyed. The men had open gates before them. The trenches had gone, too. They here smashed utterly into rubbish heaps and shell craters. Some German dead were seen, but not much sign of human life having dwelt here. The English troops on the short front of attack found themselves under a bombing fire on the flank. The German soldiers who had fled from the front line were lobbing over grenades across traverses.

When this happened one English detachment which had gone on to the second line thought it prudent to get back to the first, but the officer commanding the third detachment went on with his Sergeant and party to the third line. He pushed on, bombing two dugouts on the way, and then got up on the parapet of the third German trench to observe the surrounding country. As he could not observe any Germans, and finding nothing else to do, he came back again—the German guns were barraging their own front line—and passed his men through, lying out in shell craters till dusk before going home to tea.

A Scottish officer leading a party to the further point of the sector at his part of the German trench system had a similar experience. From first to last he saw no living German. He led his party forward through the first and second lines, which were both blown to bits, with all their entanglements. He found two dugouts undamaged, blew them up, then advanced with four men to the third line, where there were two more dugouts still existing. These he destroyed also, and then says this Scottish officer: "I sat down on the parapet for some considerable time, and smoked a cigarette."

The Germans were firing from Tilloy, but not heavily. Somewhere out in the shell craters German snipers lay firing a shot or two now and then. The officer saw no use in staying longer as the raid was not for the capture of ground. The cigarette finished, he strolled back to the second line. His men were prowling about the shell craters searching for Germans and finding some dead ones, but not many living. The Scottish officer had brought a French hunting horn with him, a queer thing to take into a fight, but quite useful. He blew on it "tantara tantara" and called off the chase.

So the raid ended and there was no retaliation yesterday or today.

continued exchange of questions and answers.

The Vorwärts believes that the dinner of the American Association on Saturday is a testimony to the existence of that confidence in American good-will which is a pre-condition to intrusting President Wilson with the mediation of such an interchange of views.

The much-discussed statement of Count Andrassy, the Hungarian leader, who was at first cited as intimating that the Central Powers had already communicated their conditions to President Wilson, confirms, the Vorwärts thinks, to a certain extent this possibility. Count Andrassy declared, according to an authoritative version, that "America would undoubtedly be in a position to communicate our terms to the Quadruple Alliance should the latter be inclined to do the same."

In conclusion, the paper says than another contribution to the peace discussions—a program drawn upon by the so-called National Committee for German Peace, headed by Prince Wedel, and including many influential friends of Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg—may be given in the future, but a peace acceptable to Germany's allies, with reference to the disposition of occupied territory, must take into consideration certain strategically necessary frontier corrections. The freedom of the seas must be established for Germany and the rest of the non-English world, particularly for Germany, and an effort must be made to obtain a war indemnity corresponding to Germany's sacrifices.

Andrassy Regrets Misinterpretation.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 8, (via London.)—The Koelnische Zeitung says that Count Julius Andrassy, the Hungarian Opposition leader, has expressed regret that his statement regarding the communication of Germany's terms to President Wilson has been misinterpreted.

Recent cable dispatches reported Andrassy as saying that the President was in a position to communicate Germany's terms to the Allies. Other dispatches made the Hungarian leader say that the President "would receive" the German terms.

RUSSIANS DRIVE AHEAD ON THE RIGA FRONT

Capture 800 Germans and 16 Cannon in Battles South of Lake Babit.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 8, (British Admiralty, per Wireless Press.)—The War Office communication issued today concerning operations on the western (Russian) front says:

> Our detachments gained possession of a village in the vicinity of the northwestern corner of the swamp of Tirul. After a stubborn struggle we captured enemy trenches north of the village of Kalnzem, and south of the western end of Lake Babit we took some prisoners, machine guns, trench mortars, and one heavy battery. All the fierce counterattacks by the enemy were repulsed.
> In the battle south of Lake Babit since the beginning of the operations on Saturday we have captured sixteen cannon and about 800 prisoners. Our troops have displayed extraordinary endurance and unrestrained bravery.
> Our aviators have dropped bombs on Kovel and in the village of Goloby, thirty versts southeast of Kovel, on the station of Zablotze, west of Brody, and on the hamlet of Jasenov, southwest of Brody.
> After artillery preparation an enemy company twice attempted an offensive against our detachments east of Perpelniki, twenty versts north of Zborow, but each time the attack was checked by our fire.
> During the night of Sunday the Germans made a gas attack on a sector in the region of the villages of Novo Selki, Soetts, and Krovo, in which they launched three gas waves, which were accompanied by a bombardment of our trenches by artillery and mine throwers. The attack was expected and measures against it were taken in time. After the last gas wave the enemy appeared in columns. He was promptly driven back into his intrenchments.

BERLIN, Jan. 8, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—The War Office made the following announcement tonight:

> It is officially reported that violent artillery duels are in progress near Riga, (northern end of the Russian front).

An earlier bulletin read:

> Front of Prince Leopold—West of the Riga-Mitau road the Russians yesterday attacked again with strong forces on a broad front. On the River Aa they succeeded in broadening somewhat the ground gained on Jan. 5. At all other points they were sanguinarily repulsed.

WARNING FROM MR. TAFT.

Failure to Protect Americans Abroad Would Be Fatal to Enterprise.

Ex-President William H. Taft, speaking last night at the Waldorf-Astoria at the seventeenth annual banquet of the Rubber Club of America, which yesterday changed its name to the Rubber Association of America, told his 700 hearers that it would be a fatal injury to American enterprise and to the great usefulness of foreign investments by American citizens if it was to be understood abroad that this country would never resort to extreme measures to protect American citizens or corporations n foreign lands against the unlawful "invasion of lawless foreign Governments." Mr. Taft's remarks were interpreted as referring to present conditions in Mexico as well as to contingencies which might arise in other foreign countries.

Harvey S. Firestone, President of the association, presided. With him at the guests' table were Mr. Taft, Ernesto C. Perez, Argentine Consul General in New York; H. C. de Martine Pinheiro, Brazilian Consul General; the Right Rev. Frank Du Moulin, Coadjutor Bishop of Ohio; Collector of the Port Dudley Field Malone, Colonel Charles Clifton, Colonel Samuel P. Colt, A. O. Bourn, F. H. Appleton, George B. Hodgeman, W. T. Cole, and John J. Voorhees. Among the diners were the leading tire manufacturers of the country. In his introductory remarks President Firestone stated that the organization now had a membership of 465, and that the factory output of rubber in the United States during 1917 would amount to $600,000,000.

Mr. Taft, who was the first speaker, emphasized the important part played by rubber in war, and urged the importance of cultivating the product in Texas and other sections of this country in order to place the nation in a secure position in case of attack. He cited the shortage in Germany, rubber in that country recently selling at $6 a pound, while here its price was but 50 cents.

MORE GERMANS DESERTING.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. — Dispatches received in Washington say that the number of deserters entering Holland from the German Army is increasing. A year ago, an authority said, there were only a comparatively few stragglers fleeing Germany's war camps. It was said the present number of desertions, while not serious, was indicative of an increasing unrest among the German troops.

Reports from Germany reveal a serious shortage of food. Diplomatic advices assert that the grain and other food supplies included in the Rumanian spoils afforded appreciable relief to the situation, but that these supplies are being quickly consumed, and that hunger among the civilian population promises to become acute.

AWARDS $20,000 TO LOEWE.

Supreme Court Gives Him Interest on Danbury Hatters' Deposits.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—In a new phase of the old "Danbury Hatters'" case the Supreme Court today decided that Dietrich E. Loewe, Danbury hat manufacturer, and not the United Hatters' Union, was entitled to $20,000 in interest accrued on union hatters' savings bank deposits attached toward satisfying Loewe's $253,000 judgment secured under the Sherman law for union boycotting in 1903.

This is the third time this phase of the case has been decided in favor of D. E. Loewe & Co. Judge E. S. Thomas, in the Federal District Court of Connecticut, gave the first decision, which was followed, on July 7, 1916, by that of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

DIES ON AN ENGLISH TRAIN.

American, Possibly Patrick Cotter of New York, Expires Abroad.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, Dec. 9.—The Daily Chronicle says a smartly dressed man, evidently an American, was found dead in a compartment of the night express which reached Carlisle yesterday. Among the articles in his possession were a railway ticket from Liverpool to Glasgow and a letter which, from instructions on the envelope, apparently had been handed to him as he embarked from New York on Dec. 30. The envelope bore the following address:

"Mr. Patrick Cotter, care of the American Steamship Company, Pier 62 North River, New York City."

A large sum of money was found in his pockets. The man was slightly over 5 feet in height. He wore a dark overcoat, a dark suit, and a Derby hat. His hair was almost gray.

U-BOAT TO BRING DIAMONDS.

Germans Will Ship More Than a Million Marks' Worth Here.

AMSTERDAM, Tuesday, Jan. 9, (via London.)—According to the Handelsblad, more than 1,000,000 marks' worth of German cut diamonds will be shipped at an early date to America by a German submarine freighter.

A combination of German underwriters has agreed to insure the shipment at 8 per cent. "free of capture" or 11 per cent. against capture.

FOKSHANI CAPTURED WITH 3,910 SOLDIERS

Teutons in Wallachia Drive Russians and Rumanians Back Toward the Sereth.

STORM BORDER DEFENSES

Occupy Main Mass of Mount Odobechti, on the Moldavian Line, and Press On in Oituz Region.

BERLIN, Jan. 8, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—The Russians and Rumanians were dislodged yesterday from strongly fortified positions over a considerable front in Southern Moldavia, the War Office announces. The important Rumanian town of Fokshani has been captured and nearly 4,000 prisoners taken. Russian troops made another attack with strong forces on the northern end of the Russo-Galician front, near the Gulf of Riga. They succeeded in gaining more ground on the Aa River, but elsewhere were repulsed. Following is the text of the official bulletin issued today:

> Front of Archduke Joseph—Despite a snowstorm and severe cold weather, we again pushed back the enemy between the Putna and Oituz Valleys.
> Army Group of Field Marshal von Mackensen—Jan. 7 brought another great success to the Ninth Army, especially to the victorious German and Austro-Hungarian troops of Generals Krafft von Dellmenfingen and von Morgen. They threw back the Rumanians and Russians from the strongly fortified main mass of Mount Odobechti to the Putna.
> Further south, the Milcovu position, which had been constructed in October and was now tenaciously defended, was captured by storm and in hand-to-hand fighting. Pushing behind, we gave the enemy no time to settle himself in his second line, on the canal between Fokshani and Yarestea. This position also was pierced, and, pressing further behind, we crossed the road from Fokshani to Bolotesti.
> This morning Fokshani was captured. From the captured fortifications 3,910 prisoners, 3 cannon, and several machine guns were brought in.

A later bulletin issued tonight says:

> The Russians defeated near Fokshani are being pursued.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 8, (British Admiralty, per Wireless Press.)—The War Office communication issued today dealing with the campaign in Rumania reports the repulse of a Teutonic allied attack northwest of Fokshani, in which the invaders left a large number of dead and wounded on the field. Attacks along the Sereth were also repulsed. The statement says:

> Rumanian Front—After strong artillery preparation, the enemy in the morning assumed the offensive in the region of Petzesch, northwest of Fokshani, and pressed back the Rumanians. Further movements by the enemy, however, were stopped by the arrival of our reserves.
> The enemy, in close formation, took the offensive on sectors of our position in the region of Pontichescht, northwest of Fokshani. Being met by our heavy fire, they fell back, leaving a great number of killed or wounded.
> Enemy attacks north of Cloneska Ukota and at Ali, on the River Sereth, eight versts east of the mouth of the Buzeu, were also completely unsuccessful.

LONDON, Tuesday, Jan. 9.—The capture of Fokshani, the western bastion of the fortified Sereth line, by the Teutonic allies is commented on here as rendering graver the situation of Rumania. The fact that the capture of the town was not mentioned in the latest Russian official communication is regarded as probably being explainable by the Russian communication being of an earlier date than that of the German War Office.

The consensus of opinion is that the loss of Fokshani is a serious menace to the whole Sereth position. The Times goes as far as to say:

"It means that the Sereth lines are turned, and that our allies must now fall back once more. There is no sign of slackening in the enemy's determination, and it may well be, as our correspondent at Jassy, the new Rumanian capital, suggests, that he designs the complete subjugation of Rumanian territory."

The Times pays tribute to the great efforts Russia put forth in Rumania's behalf, saying:

"Her attempt to hold the Sereth lines has failed, as the attempt to save Bucharest failed; but she has delayed the Germans for weeks and made them pay a heavy price for their successes. The main brunt of the recent defensive has fallen on Russia, for the bulk of the Rumanian Army has been withdrawn behind the Russian lines to be refitted and reorganized. Russia could hardly have hoped to do more than delay the enemy's advance. Field Marshal von Mackensen has three large armies at his disposal, and, we may be sure, a useful superiority in big guns.

"With both their extremities now in the enemy's hands, the Sereth lines, so far as they run west of the river, are useless. No doubt the Russians are on their way by this time to their next main defensive position, the River Sereth itself. Behind that line again is the formidable river line of the Pruth. Von Mackensen is now almost within striking distance of Russian territory, but he must either attempt a passage of the Danube from Dobrudja or must force the river positions of the Sereth and Pruth before he can set foot on it."

Not an Offer to Compromise.

John Hays Hammond sent to THE TIMES last night a statement correcting a dispatch from Baltimore printed yesterday morning in which it was inferred that he had offered $123,755 in compromise of a judgment of $238,750 returned against him in favor of Addison G. De Bois by a Maryland jury. Mr. Hammond pointed out that Judge Gorter of Maryland reduced the amount of the judgment from the larger to the smaller sum named, and said that he was as much at a loss to understand how the recent figure was arrived at as he had been to understand the original judgment. He defended his position, and said that he would take the case to the Court of Appeals.

VILLA AND BAND FLEE SOUTH INTO DURANGO

Carranzista Troops Occupy Parral, Jimenez, and Santa Rosalia —Quit Durango City.

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 8.—Carranza forces now occupy Jimenez, Santa Rosalia, and Parral, while Francisco Villa and his staff have fled to the State of Durango over the branch railroad from Parral to El Oro.

Government agents here finally admitted today that the battle of Jimenez ended in a complete repulse of the Villa forces, and one high Government official said he had information which led him to believe that the Government forces had won "a sweeping victory over Villa."

General José Carlos Murguia, commander of the Juarez garrison, received a message today, dated Parral, from his brother, General Francisco Murguia, confirming the occupation of Parral by the de facto Government forces. Government agents obtained information in Juarez that sixty-seven Carranza officers were wounded in the battle of Jimenez, and several high officers killed. It was said thirteen telegraph operators with Villa's command were captured and executed with a majority of the 500 Villista prisoners taken at Jimenez.

DEMOCRATS URGE ECONOMY.

Senate Caucus Fails to Agree on Legislative Program.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—A caucus of Democratic Senators, held tonight for the purpose of deciding upon an order of business for the rest of the life of this Congress, which will end by constitutional limitation on March 4, did not result in the adoption of a legislative program. Another caucus will be held to determine what measures shall be considered and the order in which they shall be taken up. Tonight's discussion emphasized chiefly the need for Congressional economy in the present session.

A resolution was adopted which says that it is the "sense of the Democratic conference that the committees in charge of appropriations shall be supported in their efforts to prevent increases in appropriation bills and if possible to reduce appropriations." It was decided to make every effort to discourage amendments on the floor which would involve additions to necessary appropriations.

Congress is now faced with the task of finding ways to meet a probable deficit of $200,000,000, and the Senate leaders are determined to use every means possible to cut down new expenditures.

Three measures were discussed informally as taking precedence over other pending legislation, the General Leasing bill, which includes the Phelan oil lands amendment; the Myers Water Power bill, which provides for the leasing of hydro-electric power on public domains, and the Corrupt Practices act. It was decided to take up the Water Power bill tomorrow. Railroad legislation was not discussed, as the Interstate Commerce Committee has not yet reported, and the possibilities of an extra session were not mentioned, it was said.

BIG WELCOME TO CUMMINS.

Special to The New York Times.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 8.—With the annual Jackson ball taking place tonight—the biggest social function of the season in Nashville—many of the leading citizens turned out to welcome William J. Cummins back to his home city and to assure him of the respect and confidence of his townspeople. Nearly 400 persons sat down with him at a banquet given as a public tribute to him and as a thanksgiving to Governor Whitman for releasing him from prison. The social clubs, business organizations, the bench, and bar, the financiers, and the members of the State Legislature who signed petitions for Mr. Cummins two years ago were represented at the dinner.

Mr. Cummins was prevailed upon to tell something of his experiences. He said that the Carnegie Trust Company was rotten when he went into it; that he tried to save it, and that more than once he could have got out of it with large profits, but that he could not forsake the friends who had followed him into it. He therefore sayed, he said, in an effort to save it. He thanked his fellow-prisoners for their efforts in his behalf, and gave them the chief credit for his pardon. They were all his friends, he said, and his future efforts would be directed largely to ameliorating the condition of convicts.

NEW SHIPS TO THE ORIENT.

Cunard Line Plans a Regular Service, Shanghai Reports.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 6, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—It is reported that the Cunard Line has two ships under construction in England which will be put in service between Vancouver and the Orient within a year. The new ships are reported to be larger and faster than the Empress of Asia and the Empress of Russia, the two chief steamships of the Canadian Pacific Line now operating between Vancouver and the Far East.

The steamships which are reported to be building are said to be intended for practically the same route in the Far East now covered by the Toyen Kisen Kaisha ships and the Pacific Mail ships operating out of San Francisco. That is, stops will be made at Yokohama, Nagasaki, Shanghai, Hongkong and Manila.

MAUD POWELL IN NOVELTY.

Violinist Gives "Popular" Numbers —Shattuck and Schkolnik Play.

Mme. Maud Powell, who played her annual recital of music with a forward look for the more critical fraternity earlier this season, was a pioneer in a new line at Carnegie Hall last evening, when she frankly went back to the most popular favorites for the violin and all who play that instrument, from the groundlings up. Her program's seventeen numbers duplicated her own "most popular" on the talking machines. It took a clever woman to think of that, and already today a man, the dean of American concert singers, has copied the idea for a fortnight hence, with due courtesy to its originator.

Mme. Powell was herself in rare form for De Beriot's concerto No. 7, the first of its kind to be recorded entire, so that, as last night's audience heard it from by the banks of the Hudson, the same performance without the actual player could have been given in Central Africa or on the upper Amazon, or by the far Yang-tse-Kiang. Arthur Loesser assisted in the concerto, and Harry Gilbert, organ, and Joseph Vito, harp, in later airs, including arrangements of melodies that are as household words, and whose setting for violin was Powell's own. If this was playing to the gallery, the upper parts of the hall paid the compliment back by thunderous applause.

Arthur Shattuck, who comes to New York from the West as a pianist, as he has come before, played in Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon. His program had a delightful beginning in three preludes and fugues from the first book of Bach's "Well-Tempered Clavier," pieces whose freshness and charm are unstaled. He played them as he played the rest of his program, in an unaffected style, with a technique of suitable clearness which would have had a better effect through a more judicious use of the pedal. But Mr. Shattuck has not much poetical feeling or much penetration below the surface of things; and the quality of his tone, which is monotonous and lacking in color, gives him the effect of working in black and white. Liszt's B minor sonata can be made to sound much more plausible as a musical expression than he made it sound.

Mr. Shattuck played also d'Albert's arrangement of Bach's F major organ toccata, five preludes, and the A flat Ballade by Chopin, and Liszt's "Légende" about St. François de Paul walking on the waves.

Ilja Schkolnik, who gave his violin recital in Aeolian Hall last night without a precious Guarneri fiddle that admirers in Berlin secured for him at Christmas time, disclosed abilities on the instrument he played with a considerable range of tone "color" and even more of brilliancy. Following Tartini's concerto in D minor, he gave with Miss Marguerite Valentine a suite in A minor by Sinding, filled with the suppressed fire and vigor of the North. Among other pieces was a caprice by one Pichl, new to programs here, as well as part of a concerto by Ernst and arrangements by Burmester and Thomson.

ALVINA REPORTED SOLD.

Yacht Sails for England, Possibly for British Patrol Service.

The American steam yacht Alvina was cleared at the Custom House yesterday and sailed for Liverpool via the Azores. According to the yachting register she is owned by Thomas F. Cole of Duluth, and was built at Wilmington, Del., in 1901.

It was rumored in yachting circles last night that the Alvina had been sold to the British Government, and was to be fitted up as a patrol boat for duty in the English Channel. The Alvina is registered at 318 tons, yacht measurement, and is 214 feet long, 26 feet 6 inches beam and 16 feet 11 inches depth of hold.

Mme. Sembrich Gives Up Recitals.

Numberless of her admirers will deeply regret the announcement that Mme. Marcella Sembrich is so indisposed as to be unable to give the other three of her series of "historical song recitals," begun last week in Aeolian Hall. They were to be given on the remaining Thursdays in January, and were to cover and illustrate in a comprehensive way the history of the art song, the first having been devoted to folk song.

F. von Frantzius Dies; Left $11,250,000.

Marie Tempest and Browne Aid Revival of Thomas Comedy.

"Her Husband's Wife," a farcical comedy originally produced in May of 1910 at the Garrick by Henry Miller, was revived last night on the stage of the Lyceum by the same producer. Last Fall Mr. Miller presented the comedy in London, and when it ran upward of a hundred performances he became convinced that the brevity of its first engagement here was due to the lateness of the season.

"Her Husband's Wife" is a conventional, transparent, and rather thin comedy. London has sent scores of the same sort here in seasons past, so it is small wonder her playgoers were kind to it. The best excuses for its repetition at this time are that it is moderately amusing throughout its course, with a few occasions in the last act for hilarity and that it gives Marie Tempest another chance to demonstrate how irresistible is her combination of personal charm and skill as a comedienne. Miss Tempest fairly breezed away with the performance.

Laura Hope Crews was again the hypochondriac wife, a rôle she created. Eugene O'Brien acted the rôle in which Orme Caldara was originally seen, and Henry Kolker played the part Mr. Miller reserved for himself when the play was young. W. Graham Browne, in the character originally impersonated by Robert Warwick, perhaps should be added to the comedy's reasons for being in 1917. Mr. Browne's impersonation of a drunken man in the last act was the most laughable bit of stage inebriety seen and heard here in recent seasons. It is barely possible that this Piccadilly pickle or Bloomsbury bun of Mr. Browne's creation may bring Mr. Thomas's play the popularity formerly denied it.

Strauss's "Der Rosenkavalier" Sung

With the Metropolitan opera season one-third completed last evening, Richard Strauss's "Der Rosenkavalier" opened the ninth week before a Monday audience notably brilliant in the parterre boxes, and numerous on all floors, as usual for this most modern musical score. In the familiar cast were Frieda Hempel, soon leaving this year, and Mme. Ober, Miss Mason, Mr. Goritz, and others, who will remain. Mr. Bodanzky conducted.

PINCHOT DENOUNCES OLD GUARD OF G. O. P.

Says Reactionaries Caused the Party's Defeat in Last Two Presidential Elections.

WILL KEEP IT IN MINORITY

The Nation Through with That Sort of Leadership, He Tells the Young Republican Club.

The Old Guard of the Republican Party was denounced last night by Gifford Pinchot, one of the founders and still an unreconstructed member of the Progressive Party, in an address delivered before the New York Young Republican Club at its annual meeting in the Republican Club, 54 West Fortieth Street. He said the Old Guard alone was responsible for the defeat of the party in the recent Presidential elections. Mr. Pinchot asserted, amid applause, that the G. O. P. would continue to be a minority party in national affairs until its members realized that the people were through with this kind of leadership.

"For the second time within five years, the Old Guard has cost the Republican Party a national election," he said. "In 1912 the Old Guard forced upon the insurgents a choice between loyalty to principle and loyalty to the regular organization. The Progressives stood by their principles, while the Old Guard clung to their personal organization. Thereby the Old Guard threw away the election. Again, in 1916, the Progressives, looking over and beyond all smaller differences and issues, set the safety and honor of the nation first, and proved the sincerity of their stand by withdrawing their ticket.

"The Old Guard, having learned nothing and forgotten nothing, once more wholly failed to understand the mind of the nation.

"It is true that the Progressives were given representation on the National Campaign Committee; but the Old Guard, in national, State, and county organizations, commonly treated the Progressives as delinquents, grudgingly admitted their right to vote the Republican ticket and nothing more, befogged the national issue in the smoke of petty factional politics, made their own continued control the issue in the minds of thousands of Progressives, and once more threw away the election.

"It was clear before the break of 1912, as it has become clear to us again today, that the Progressives who hope to achieve positive results through party affiliation must work with the Republicans rather than with the Democrats. But it must be made possible for them to do so without sacrifice of principle or loss of self-respect. They cannot, they will not, and they should not, work under the domination of the Old Guard.'

Turning to the subject of conservation, with which he said he had long been identified, the speaker assailed what he called the present tendency in Congress to give up our natural resources to private interests, instead of preserving them for the use of the people. He attacked especially two bills now pending, which, he declared, would give away the vast water power resources of the country to private interests. Another bill was now pending, Mr. Pinchot said, which would turn into private hands all the petroleum reserves set aside at one time by proclamation for the use of the navy.

"I sincerely hope the American people will not be so foolish as to give up these great natural resources," he said. "There is a bare possibility that the bills will not pass, but we should do everything possible to prevent them from becoming laws."

Mr. Pinchot left immediately after his speech, which was applauded throughout. A resolution of thanks was passed by the club.

Alexander V. Campbell, a member of the Executive Committee of the Republican Club, who was present as a guest, took exception to Mr. Pinchot's speech, asserting that the Republican Party had been progressive long before 1912 and would continue to be so for a generation to come. In a brief speech Mr. Campbell said those who advocated the ideas laid down by Mr. Pinchot had no place in the Republican Party or in a Republican Club.

John H. Iselin, a member of the Young Republican Club, took issue with Mr. Campbell, asserting that Mr. Pinchot had been correct in placing the blame on the Old Guard.

GIFTS MADE TO COLUMBIA.

Mrs. William D. Sloane Adds $75,000 to Endowment of Hospital.

These gifts to Columbia University were announced at a meeting of its Trustees yesterday: Seventy-five thousand dollars from Mrs. William Douglas Sloane, as additional endowment for the Sloane Hospital for Women; $15,000 from Mrs. George C. De Witt, for a scholarship in the Law School in memory of her husband; $6,000 from the estate of Alexander Saunders, for a college scholarship; $3,000 from the American Road and Machinery Company, for instruction in highway engineering; $1,450 from anonymous donors for salaries in the Department of Philosophy; $1,500 for instruction in practical penal problems, from Adolph Lewisohn, Henry F. Sharpe, George W. Perkins, Mrs. Eldridge M. Fowler, and Herbert Parsons; $500 from an anonymous donor through the Poetry Society of America, as a prize for the best book of poetry published this year.

The Trustees, by unanimous vote, suspended their rules and conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws immediately upon George L. Rives, who yesterday because of ill-health resigned as the seventh Chairman of the board since its organization. He had been a Trustee since 1882. It was decided to postpone the erection of the building for the School of Business because of the present high cost of building.

NEWS STOLEN, SAYS ASSOCIATED PRESS

Asks Court for Order Restraining International News Service.

BRIBERY, TOO, IS CHARGED

Concern Controlled by W. R. Hearst Accused of Selling Matter Collected by Associated Press.

The Associated Press, through Melville E. Stone, its Secretary and General Manager, applied yesterday to Judge A. N. Hand of the Federal District Court for an order permanently restraining the International News Service, which is controlled by William R. Hearst, from using in any way any news gathered by The Associated Press for the sole use of its members. In his affidavit filed with the court Mr. Stone called attention to the fact that the Governments of England, France, and Canada had expelled the International News. Since its expulsion, he alleged, it had been helping itself to news gathered by the plaintiff, sometimes at an expense as high as a dollar a word.

Mr. Stone made the charge that the International News Service had obtained some of The Associated Press news by the "bribery of employes and through other wrongful and illegal methods." The news so obtained, the affidavit said, was delivered to newspapers that were not members of The Associated Press at a less price than it cost to gather it, thus inflicting financial injury on the plaintiff.

Efforts to discover where the leaks came from resulted in the information, Mr. Stone said, that some of the news came out of the office of one of its members, a newspaper in Cleveland, and found its way into the possession of the International. To sustain this statement, Mr. Stone inserts in his application to the court a letter or memorandum alleged to have been written by Barry Farris, manager of the New York office of the International Service, to F. H. Ward, its representative in Cleveland. The Associated Press will contend that the letter was written for the purpose of instructing Mr. Ward as to the methods employed by the International News Service in obtaining the news of The Associated Press. The letter is dated Nov. 25, 1916, and reads in part:

> Agnew had an arrangement somewhere in the Cleveland office whereby he could tip us off on big news stories that the A. P. was carrying. I wish you would find out from him just what this connection was and if you can make use of it. It proves very valuable to receive a tip on what the A. P. is carrying as soon as it puts it on the wire. Don't mention the A. P. in any messages of that kind, but simply say, "Ansonia carrying fifty dead, Pennsylvania wreck near Pittsburgh," or whatever it may be.

Mr. Stone referred in his application to an Associated Press cable from London on Nov. 28, telling of a Zeppelin raid on the northeast coast of England. This cable, he said, appeared in a Washington newspaper, The Herald, which was not a member of The Associated Press Another news story gathered by The Associated Press told of the torpedoing of the steamship Chemung, and contained some remarks made by Captain Duffy of the ship. This story appeared, Mr. Stone declared, in The Evening Journal, The Washington Herald, and The Rochsetr Herald, together with the remarks of Captain Duffy These newspapers are not members of The Associated Press.

Judge Hand ordered the International News Service to show cause at 10:30 A. M. tomorrow why it should not be permanently enjoined from selling news collected by the plaintiff. The order was served on Solomon S. Carvalho, President of the International News Service, at his home in the Bronx. The law firm of Stetson, Jennings & Russell represents The Associated Press.

Fred J. Wilson, General Manager of the International News Service, said last night that the suit was "just another chapter in the long and unsuccessful attempt by The Associated Press to destroy its chief rival and to fasten its monopoly of news upon the reading people of this country." He added that the suit would be fought.

CAST VOTE FOR HUGHES.

Electoral College Formally Records the State Result.

ALBANY, Jan. 8.—New York's forty-five electoral votes were cast for Hughes and Fairbanks today. The Electoral College met in the Senate Chamber, and after perfecting organization by electing George Eastman of Rochester President, cast its ballots for the Republican national candidates.

Louis I. Waldman of Albany was elected messenger to carry the official announcement of the result to Washington.

Secretary of State Hugo occupied the chair until the college elected its President. In opening the proceedings he said:

"Since 1856, the year of the birth of the Republican Party, no election has gone in favor of a party that has not carried New York, with the exception of 1868, 1876, and 1916."

Police Trying to Recover Jewelry Claimed by Wrong Woman.

Police and private detectives are endeavoring to recover jewelry valued at $10,000 lost in front of the Waldorf Thursday afternoon by Mrs. David L. Werthheimer, wife of a Salt Lake City wholesale grocer. Mrs. Wertheimer, who is staying at the Hotel Majestic, went shopping Thursday, and when passing the Waldorf a clasp of the bag in which she carried the jewelry gave way. A woman who found the bag took it with her to a department store, and while walking toward Sixth Avenue another woman approached her, exclaiming that it was her bag. Without asking any questions the finder turned it over to the claimant.

Meanwhile Mrs. Werthheimer had hurried back to the Waldorf, only to learn that the bag was gone. The finder later realized her mistake and gave to the detectives a good description of the woman to whom she gave the bag. The jewels lost were a diamond necklace, a diamond brooch, a diamond lorgnette, four diamond rings, a watch, a bracelet, and a pearl pin.

EXPLAINS HIGHER SHIP FARES

Holland-America Agents Say Liners Have to Travel Further.

Agents of the Holland-America line, explaining the increase in fares between New York and Falmouth and Rotterdam, said yesterday that it was made because the voyage between New York and Rotterdam takes eight days longer via the west of Ireland and the north of Scotland than it did when the liners went direct by the English Channel and the North Sea.

By the new route, it was said, the liners have to travel 1,400 miles out of their regular course, and the passengers have to be kept on board and fed for these extra eight days, with the additional increase in the consumption of coal.

One of the officials of the line said that, although the Nieuw Amsterdam, which sailed on Sunday night, carried 166 first cabin, fifty-two second and twenty-eight third class passengers, a total of 266, they did not pay expenses. Freight profits only, he added, enabled the company to operate the passenger service.

More Money to Hospital Fund.

At the annual meeting of the United Hospital Fund yesterday Charles Lanier of 59 Cedar Street, Treasurer, reported that the receipts from collections to date amounted to $37,765, an increase of $4,065 over last year's receipts. The following were elected new members of the Board of Trustees: Frank R. Chambers, Ivy L. Lee, George McAneny, Henry M. Toch, and Thomas F. Vietor.

SHOW DEEP INTEREST IN AID OF WAR BLIND

Nearly All Orchestra Seats for "The Century Girl" Benefit Performance Sold.

FRANK TINNEY AUCTIONEER

Comedian to Dispose of Souvenirs Made by the Sightless—Work of Paris Lighthouse.

Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt, who has been directing preparations for the benefit performance of the "Century Girl," which is to be given tonight in the Century Theatre in behalf of the French war blind, announced yesterday that in addition to the regular performance, Frank Tinney would act as auctioneer in disposing of articles made by the sightless soldiers. With a few exceptions, all of the orchestra seats, specially priced at $6 each, have been disposed of, and the amount to be forwarded to Miss Winifred Holt to be used in her work at the "Lighthouse" in Paris, probably will be greater than first anticipated.

The sale of souvenirs, programs and flowers also will add to the fund, and among the souvenirs will be an autographed photograph of Miss Elsie Janis, with verses written for the occasion by Dr. John S. Finley, State Superintendent of Education, and entitled "La Gardienne du Phare."

Mrs. Hewitt and Miss Holt both have recently returned from Paris, bringing with them many of the articles to be disposed of tonight. Mrs. Hewitt, at her home, 11 Lexington Avenue, yesterday spoke of the work being done by the Committee for Men Blinded in Battle, of which she is a member. There are now about 1,700 blind soldiers in France, and though the Government is training the less intellectual of them in cobbling, caning and similar "finger" trades, the more mentally advanced are being taught professions at the "Lighthouse." But the present facilities of the institution, said Mrs. Hewitt, are not large enough. Only a short time ago, while Mrs. Hewitt was going through the building in Paris, she came to a room where sat twelve men learning the touch system of typewriting. There was only one instructor, and, of course, only one man could be taught at a time; the others had to sit sightless and helpless, listening until their turn came.

The "Lighthouse," by the way, is not like most of the war blind institutions which plan to keep within their walls until death the soldiers now being cared for. Just as soon as Miss Holt's guests are fitted to earn a living "by touch" they will return to their families. This, said Mrs. Hewitt, bouys up the men and is an inspiration to them.

Tonight the French Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand will be the guests of Mrs. Hewitt, and will occupy her bax at the Century. Special features of the program—or as many as Mrs. Hewitt thought she could disclose without taking away the "surprise" element of the show—will be the recital of "The Battle of the Marne" by Gilda Darthy of the Théâtre Français, and the singing of the "Marseillaise" by Mme. Povla Frijsh, a Danish soprano.

The boxholders are Mrs. Nicholas F. Brady, Joseph H. Choate, Bernard Gunther, Mrs. Cass Ledyard, Thomas Ryan, Mrs. F. S. Smithers, and Mrs. Rutherford Stuyvesant. Among those giving theatre parties are Mrs. George F. Baker, Jr., Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden, Mrs. Paul Cravath, Mrs. R. Fulton Cutting, Mrs. Hamilton Carey, Mrs. F. A. de Peyster, Willard V. King, Mrs. Seth Low, Mrs. Nicholas Murray Butler, Mrs. Charles Steele, Herbert Satterlee, Mrs. John T. Terry, Mrs. J. Todhunter Thompson, and Arthur Williams.

ASK MILLION FOR PENSIONS.

Bishops of Episcopal Church Will Preach in Aid of Fund.

The Church Pension Fund, of which J. Pierpont Morgan is Treasurer, and which seeks to provide annuities for aged and incapacitated clergymen, announced yesterday that a general collection would be taken in all of the Episcopal churches of the nation on Quinquagesima Sunday, Feb. 18, to complete the $5,000,000 fund needed to carry through the undertaking. Bishop William Lawrence of Massachusetts has asked each of the Bishops to help develop interest in his respective diocese by preaching a sermon on the fund, preferably on the Sunday previous to the collection.

Bishop Lawrence announced last week that $4,000,000 of the necessary amount had been pledged, but that it could not be redeemed unless that other $1,000,000 were raised.

"We have undertaken to raise this additional $1,000,000 by March 1 of this year," Bishop Lawrence said yesterday. "Our campaign from the start has been a personal one. We want gifts from all, small gifts as well as large."

Reductions Averaging from 20 to 50 Per Cent.

These annual reductions are essential in keeping stocks always clear, and in maintaining the position of leadership occupied by this house.

The original retail prices of the house are always low, owing to the fact that we are manufacturers, supplying a wide, national demand.

The important remaining assortments of rich Silver Fox, Cross Fox and Blue Fox, perfectly matched skins, are offered at a reduction of one-third.

There are beautiful Hudson Seal Coats in the collection now priced as low as $100; and a large selection of coats in all fashionable furs at prices not heretofore available, and not likely to be again.

There are innumerable sets, lately priced at $65, $100 and $150, now offered at similar reductions—a range in keeping with the character of the house.

Those who have not been customers of the house are cordially invited to the store during this sale—an occasion which should give the establishment a much wider circle of friends.

The Feature of the Show

The Studebaker GOLD CAR

At the Grand Central Palace

WOMEN IN THRONGS AT THE AUTO SHOW

THEIR TASTES CONSULTED

Latest Machines Have Features Especially Designed to Interest the Sex in Motoring.

Women nearly captured the National Automobile Show at Grand Central Palace yesterday. At certain hours of the day there were more women present than men, and at all times the increased proportion of women in the crowds was noticed and commented on with much satisfaction by automobile men as proof that the automobile had won its way as a woman's vehicle as well as a man's.

After the electric starter had been added and other refinements had been made in the handling of automobiles, a persistent effort was made to interest women in motoring. Wherever an accessory could be added that would attract women, this was done. In the choice of the upholstery, in installing toilet cases in the tonneau of the closed cars, and in other matters women's taste was considered.

Women not only crowded around the exhibits yesterday, asking questions about matters naturally interesting to their sex, such as upholstery, but many were interested inquirers about the mechanical parts and construction of the various cars. One demonstrator grew weary trying to make clear the mysteries of the "differential."

Driving a car, it is asserted by automobile salesmen, is the best of exercise for women. The assertion has been made that it is the greatest steadier of women's nerves known and that it disciplines self-control.

Many Cars Sold Already.

A good many sales of cars were reported yesterday, but buying hardly ever gets brisk before the third day of the show. Indications are, however, this show will make a new record in the number of cars disposed of. A majority of those who buy cars are asking for immediate deliveries, instead of April, as formerly.

Of the new makes of cars shown, the Doble steam car is attracting much interest. Steam can be got up in one minute when the car has been perfectly cold, it is asserted. The burner for the boiler is lighted by an electric spark. Kerosene is the fuel. All exhaust steam is condensed and used over, thus conserving the water supply.

A seven-passenger touring car with a pea green body and upholstery in dark green corduroy is a prominent feature of the Mitchell exhibit. A small compartment in the cowl to carry tools is a new equipment.

No tufting in the upholstery is characteristic in some of the new cars, this being observed in one seven-passenger Cadillac. The valves of the Cadillac motor have been enlarged an eighth of an inch and the wheel base lengthened to 125 inches.

A new cream-colored Hupmobile has a centre cowl designed to take care of two auxiliary seats when not in use. A gentle push folds them forward in an instant.

Prominent in the Inter-State exhibit is a yellow roadster with a white stripe of pleasing design. The upholstery is in black leather. In stock models this car is offered in three colors—browns, grays, and blues, at $950.

In the "Hal" exhibit the eye is attracted by a touring car in gun metal, finished with gray upholstery to match, and the woodwork of Circassian walnut. The motor is a twelve-cylinder. This car is priced at $2,600.

Visitors from Many Cities at Show.

A "fleur-de-lis" roadster, so called from the arrangement of the seats, for three persons, is one of the features of the Dort display. There are handy compartments on each side of the rear back seats. The color of the body is dark green, with black leather trimmings.

A "speedster" with lines and motor power suggestive of the racing car holds a front position in the Peerless exhibit. It seats two passangers, and the eight-cylinder motor is capable of eighty horse power and a speed of eighty miles an hour. The color of the body is dragon green. This car is one added to the Peerless list this year.

There is no doubt that this show is attracting more visitors to the city than any previous one. Hotels were crowded on the day of the opening of the show, but still newcomers continued to arrive yesterday. In a report from the passenger department of the New York Central Railroad it was announced that 1,200 breakfasts were served yesterday morning on six through trains arriving in New York. To serve these meals sixteen dining cars were required, eighty-two stewards, cooks, and assistants, and 105 waiters. The business done was about 25 per cent. above normal.

Other railroads also carried an unusually large number of passengers. Even taking into consideration the large increase in passenger travel noted by the railroads for some time, only the automobile show, it was said, could explain the extraordinary business of yesterday.

Yesterday was Military and Naval Day at the show, invitations having been sent to a large number of army and navy officers in this city, Washington, and elsewhere. Prominent members of the Aero Club of America were the guests of President Alan R. Hawley, and others interested in aeronautics were present, among them a dozen or more prominent South Americans, who are working in the interests of the Pan-American Aeronautics Exposition to be held in Grand Central Palace next month. Howard E. Coffin, a member of the Naval Consulting Board, who is also working energetically on the Aero Exposition, had as his guests a number of prominent Washington persons, who are devoting their time to industrial and military preparedness.

Highest Price Paid for a Single Car $15,000, Making New Record.

Sales amounting to $210,000 since the opening of the Automobile Salon at the Hotel Astor were reported yesterday. The highest price obtained was $15,000, which made a new record for this kind for the salon. Many of the cars on exhibition have been sold, and in numerous cases duplicates have been ordered. Among well-known persons who have purchased salon cars are Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, W. C. Durant, Foxhall Keene, and L. H. Perlman.

"Cars with interiors like drawing rooms" is the latest way of describing one of the tendencies in design noted at the salon. This is carried to such an extent, a designer pointed out yesterday, that many of the limousines, laudanlets, sedans, and broughams on view "might properly be termed drawing rooms on wheels."

This effect is largely obtained through combinations of colors and materials, in connection with the skillful and artistic use of space. The seats are upholstered like chairs are in a drawing room; the floor has a rug and the ceilings, or headlinings, as the coachmakers call them, are treated in a different color from the side walls, like the ceiling of a room. Some of the wall coverings resemble tapestry.

Only two more days of the salon remain.

AN ACKNOWLEDGMENT

LIQUOR MEN LOSE IN SUPREME COURT

Webb-Kenyon Law Prohibiting Shipments Into "Dry" States Is Upheld.

DECISION IS SWEEPING

It Also Affirms West Virginia's Right to Bar Consignments for Personal Use.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—In the most sweeping of all decisions upholding prohibition laws, the Supreme Court today upheld as constitutional and valid the Webb-Kenyon law prohibiting shipments of liquor from "wet" to "dry" States. It also sustained West Virginia's recent amendment to her law prohibiting importation in interstate commerce of liquor for personal use.

After having been vetoed by President Taft, who held it unconstitutional, and having been repassed by Congress over his veto, the law was sustained by the Supreme Court by a vote of 7 to 2.

Leaders of the prohibition movement said the decision was to their fight second only in importance to the proposed constitutional amendment.

Lawyers for liquor interests who heard the decision today admitted that it upheld and applied the law in its fullest sense.

New Haven Wage Dispute Mediated

Mediation in the controversy between the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad and the Order of Railroad Telegraphers will be begun today, a Commissioner of the United States Board of Mediation and Conciliation, probably G. W. W. Hanger, acting as mediator. There are about twenty matters at issue between the union and the railroad. The principal one is that all telegraphers shall receive a 10 per cent. increase in pay.

BIGGS GOES TO INVESTIGATE.

Rockefeller Foundation Denies He Will Do Sanitary Work in France.

Dr. Hermann M. Biggs, State Commissioner of Health, is not going to France to do sanitary work in connection with the Rockefeller Foundation's inquiry into the spread of tuberculosis among noncombatants, but goes merely as an investigator. Jerome D. Greene, Secretary of the Foundation, issued this explanatory statement yesterday:

"Referring to the publication in this morning's papers of the fact that Dr. Hermann M. Biggs, State Commissioner of Health, was going to France to study the tuberculosis situation, it should be distinctly understood that Dr. Biggs has not been asked and does not intend to conduct sanitary operations in France. That is a function which necessarily devolves upon the French agencies, both Governmental and civic, which have already given a great deal of attention to this subject.

"In any comprehensive plan for combating the spread of tuberculosis there will doubtless be a large opportunity for private benevolence, and it is for the purpose of ascertaining in what way outside help can be made most welcome and effective that Dr. Biggs is being sent by the Rockefeller Foundation.

"Dr. Biggs will sail for England today on the Kroonland, accompanied by Dr. A. R. Dochez, Associate Physician of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, and by Geoffrey Atkinson of Columbia University, who will act as secretary and interpreter."

Sunday Violations Prosecuted by the State Excise Department.

Activity of agents of the State Excise Department against liquor dealers for Sunday selling was disclosed in the Supreme Court yesterday when Justice Cohalan entered judgments against eleven saloonkeepers for penalties of $1,800 each and costs.

The addresses of the defendants indicated that the campaign covered the entire city, but there wasn't one nearer Broadway than Seventh Avenue.

Announcing the New Model "G"

Many owners of the 4-cylinder Scripps-Booth roadster have found its extraordinary comfort and speed especially desirable in long-distance touring.

An additional model is therefore presented, built for just this purpose, and to withstand the hardest punishment that adverse road conditions can present.

In such service, the extra size and reserve power of Model "G" masters obstacles with certainty, which other cars fail to surmount. Priced at $935.

The exclusive appearance and performance-ability that gained instant prestige for the first Scripps-Booth are, if possible, magnified in this slightly larger model.

Scripps-Booth

Of Dealer Interest

The expansion of Scripps-Booth production facilities makes possible the allotment of cars to certain fertile territory hitherto unsupplied. And as the only car of its kind to meet a keen demand, satisfied by no other, the dealer's opportunity is obvious.

Hudson Super-Six

As Every Visitor Knows, is the Center of the Show

With the Patented Motor, Which, in One Year, Won All the Chief Laurels of Motordom

Space A-13

At last year's Show, as you remember, two new motor types appeared as successors to the light-weight Six.

One was the V-type motors—one the Hudson Super-Six.

Both were created to overcome the limitations of the Six. That is, to minimize vibration, the cause of motor wear and friction, of wasted power and short endurance.

The trend before then was to Eights and Twelves.

In the past year, the Super-Six won that contention. In a hundred tests it proved its vast supremacy. Now it appears as holder of all the worth-while records.

As the largest-selling fine car in the world.

As the conceded monarch of this field.

Some makers who, a year ago, built Eights and Twelves have quit them. The pendulum swung back to the Sixes—The Hudson Super-Six.

The Hudson Super-Six holds undisputed leadership.

The Super-Six is different from any other Six. This motor invented and patented by Hudson adds 80 per cent. to motor efficiency. That is, to power and endurance.

That is why it won every worth-while record. Why it won at Pike's Peak the world's record in hill-climbing. Why it broke the 24-hour record by 52 per cent. And why it twice broke, in one continuous round-trip, the transcontinental record.

Its double endurance won its supremacy—its freedom from friction and wear. And the feature which did that is found only in the Hudson Super-Six.

See our new gasoline saver. See our new luxury bodies.

Pride of ownership, when you buy a fine car, will bring you to the Hudson Super-Six. For what is the charm of a great car if another car is greater?

With the Hudson Super-Six you are the recognized master of every motoring situation.

It is the greatest car on exhibit. And, because of its vast superiority, it is the only permanent type we know.

There are eight beautiful open and closed body types.

(PATENTED)

THE problem of weather protection, of comfort, convenience and economy in motoring, has been solved by Detroit Weatherproof Tops. The old makeshift "winter top," the flapping side curtains in winter weather, the expense, annoyance and discomfort of the old "detachable tops"—these have been "scrapped" by scientific design and concentrated manufacture.

Each Top is individual, distinctive to that particular make of car for which it is designed.

Detroit Weatherproof Tops are the logical development of the popular demand for luxurious, yet economical motoring.

A majority of the manufacturers of motor cars believe that the convertible top which can be removed if desired—and adaptable to all weather conditions—has come into universal use.

Detroit Weatherproof Tops are designed upon that fundamental principle of universal utility. And already their tremendous demand has confirmed the soundness of that principle.

There are many sumptuous Sedans on the market. For these, too, there is an immense sale. They are luxurious motor cars designed for a class of owners to whom the expense is not vital.

Detroit Weatherproof Tops are designed and constructed for motorists who properly demand the highest quality and greatest comfort in their year-around motoring—at a fraction of the cost which these permanently closed cars exact.

Detroit Weatherproof Tops are built for motorists who do not wish to pay the additional $400 to $700 for mere weather protection—but who are willing to pay from $90.00 to $180.00 for an "All Weather Top!"

The Detroit Weatherproof Top has eliminated the hinged door, with its rattling and breaking of glass; the excessive weight, the cumbersome, permanent windows, the bad ventilation, the obscured vision, the delay in installation and the HIGH COST.

HUDSON Super Six Phaeton	CHEVROLET "Four-90" Touring Car
CHANDLER "Series 17" Touring Car	BUICK "D-45" Touring Car
CHALMERS "Six-30" Five Passenger	OVERLAND "83"

FORD 1915-16-17 Touring Car

Prices from $90.00 to $180.00

The Detroit Weatherproof Top has patented flexible sliding doors which disappear instantly into the roof, side sections, doors and quarters—which can be entirely removed in a few minutes—making your car a perfectly open touring car.

An addition of about fifty pounds to the present weight of your car with touring top! Detroit Weatherproof Tops are the lightest on the market.

Detroit Weatherproof Tops are attached to the regular body irons of your car and fit flush with the sides. There is a Patented adjustable back which allows for any variation in body lengths.

The finish and materials throughout are elegant and in the best of taste.

A Detroit Weatherproof Top can be attached in less than two hours. And what is more, it can be quickly DETACHED without marring the car's body in the least.

We work in close co-operation with the motor car manufacturers; hence Detroit Weatherproof Tops are designed to harmonize with each particular car model.

In short, the Detroit Weatherproof Top enables the discriminating owner and driver to enjoy luxurious, year-around motoring—from November to June—by instant adaptability to weather conditions.

By careful and original design, by sheer simplicity, by quantity production, by concentrated and painstaking manufacture, we have made Detroit Weatherproof Tops the most luxurious, the most convenient and the least expensive on the American market.

See us at the Show and you will get a brand-new conception of the remarkable development of the Year Around Detachable Top.

Also, you will understand why the new patented features incorporated in the Detroit Weatherproof Top are winning overwhelming popularity among manufacturers, dealers and owners.

TARDY COOK DELAYS POLICE DIET TEST

And When 10-Cent Dinner Is Finally Served the Rookies Pitch In with Avidity.

25 CENTS A DAY THE LIMIT

Commissioner Woods Said the Stew Looked Good, but He Didn't Taste It.

Twelve husky and hungry young rookies from the Police Department Training School gathered around two tables at 47 Lafayette Street last evening and began the first meal in an economic diet test, under the supervision of the Hygiene Life Extension Institute, which hopes to show that an individual can live cheaply and satisfactorily despite the present high cost of food. In the test the cost of food per man is estimated at 25 cents a day.

The cost of the dinner, which will be the heaviest meal of the daily menu, was a fraction less than 10 cents for each man. The meal last night consisted of lamb stew with vegetables, stewed apricots, bread, butter, coffee, and ginger bread. At its conclusion all of the policemen praised the quality and expressed satisfaction with the quantity of the food, and each promised faithfully not to partake of food anywhere but at the scientific diet kitchen during the next twenty days.

"That portion of the stew which just passed me on the way to the tables looks pretty good and nourishing," commented Commissioner Woods, who, however, did not partake of any. In a brief talk to the squad he advised them to carry out the test honestly by abstaining from all other food. He told them they were doing a service to the public and to the department.

It had been arranged to start the test at luncheon yesterday, but the cook who had been engaged failed to appear and the larder was empty at noon. Miss Miriam Walker of the Teachers' College, the dietician, who was supposed to attend to the purchase of the supplies, was unable to provide them at the time specified. Mrs. Eugene Lyman Fisk, wife of Dr. Fisk of the Institute, volunteered to cook the rookies' dinner.

At the last minute it was found that one of the volunteers to the squad, Matthew Skea, would not be able to take part because he is entered in a regimental athletic contest as a representative of the Police Department. When Inspector Cornelius F. Cahalane lined the squad up on the gymnasium floor at Police Headquarters, preparatory to going to the Lafayette Street diet kitchen, and called for a substitute for Skea, half a dozen men volunteered from the class of recruits. Cahalane chose Abraham Goldman of 1,251 Lincoln Place, Brooklyn.

This makes the squad consist of ten Catholics and one Jew, with no profession of faith by the twelfth man. There will be a fish or non-meat menu on Fridays, while any wishes Goldman may have on particular days will be respected.

"I think you will get all that you want," said Commissioner Woods as he glanced over the tables. "If not I would suggest that you each arrest Miss McClary on each successive day of the test until the service is satisfactory." Miss Eula McClary is the representative of the publicity department of the Life Extension Institute.

Dr. Fisk has arranged a diet which will provide each man with approximately 3,500 calories daily. This amount may be raised or slightly decreased, according to developments. During the test the members of the squad will continue their studies in the police school and keep up their daily work in the gymnasium.

"The reason we decided to make up the squad of bachelors exclusively," said Inspector Cohalane, "was due to the belief that they would be more likely to adhere to the test than married men, who might be tempted to eat between meals at their homes."

Professor Irving Fisher of Yale University and Professor Henry C. Sherman of Columbia University, Miss Mary S. Rose of the Teachers College at Columbia, and Dr. Fisk will supervise the scientific features of the test. Miss Mary McCormack will purchase the supplies.

The weights of the members of the squad have been taken for comparison during the test. Each man has been examined and found to be in perfect health.

SWANN CASE MAY GO TO BAR ASSOCIATION

WILSON OUT UNDER BAIL

Prosecutor Says He Will Summon Breckinridge Before Magistrate McAdoo This Week.

An effort to get the Bar Association to investigate charges of misconduct in office against District Attorney Swann may be made within a few days. Such a move has been under contemplation, but intimations came from the present officers of the association that they would prefer not to have the matter brought to the association's attention until new officers had been chosen at the annual election today.

If the Bar Association get the charges, or take upon its own initiative the controversy provoked by James A. Delehanty's accusation that Mr. Swann tried to dismiss indictments against labor union leaders in return for their election-time support of Tammany, the association's Grievance Committee would conduct a secret investigation. If it found merit in the charges, it would act in the nature of a prosecutor and present them before the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. The court could discipline the District Attorney if it found him guilty after a hearing. Its extreme penalty would be the disbarment of Mr. Swann, which would compel his removal by the Governor, since he could not then appear in the courts in any legal capacity.

Whether Mr. Delehanty and his allies will resist an effort to shift the scene of inquiry to the Bar Association is uncertain. Persistent rumors have come out of Albany for the last week that the Governor might himself ask the association to act.

Albert L. Wilson, who was detained in the Tombs as a material witness to Mr. Swann's countercharge that Lucian S. Breckinridge as special counsel to the District Attorney took $1,000 from manufacturers for prosecuting labor union leaders, was released on bail yesterday.

"There was a full eclipse of the moon last night," said Martin W. Littleton when asked about Wilson and his record.

Mr. Swann said yesterday that some day this week he positively would bring Mr. Breckinridge before Chief Magistrate McAdoo on a summons. He said he would present his evidence and leave the court to determine whether it appeared that a crime had been committed and a warrant should be issued. He admitted Mr. Breckenridge could defeat his effort to have a hearing of the whole matter in a court not of record by waiving examination.

"I do not care, as I do not myself want such a hearing," he explained. "I only proposed it so that Mr. Breckinridge might be dealt with openly and fairly."

We were the first manufacturers of eight cylinder cars to combine large size and tremendous power with light weight and economy of operation.

The famous chassis on which all Cole models are mounted is the largest, but relatively the lightest Eight built

Last year we introduced the Springfield Type Body with such sweeping success that it was later adopted by the builder of practically every well-known car.

The Toursedan and Tourcoupé are essentially and unmistakably Cole, even to their names—as well as in details of construction.

These were the first permanent, all-season cars—The first eight cylinder automobiles to offer equal comfort and convenience, both winter and summer, all in one and the same unit, at a single price.

In these, as in many other important and fundamental advanced features, the Cole Eight leads.

All Cole models will be shown at the automobile show. Be sure to see them.

The TRANSMISSION— and YOUR NEW CAR

How Specialization and Unusual Care in Manufacture of this Important Unit Has Made for Increased Safety and Greater Efficiency in Automobiles.

HOW well informed are you, Mr. Car Buyer, on the important subject of automobile transmissions? Have you ever seen a transmission built? Do you know why one is better, safer than another?

If you are like the average car buyer your knowledge of the subject, undoubtedly, is very limited. You are not likely to give it a second thought in buying a car. The chances are you will never stop to consider how well—or how poorly—the transmission in your car may serve you—in an emergency, for instance.

Don't just buy your car and leave the matter of transmission solely to the car builder.

That's the way folks used to buy cars before they knew much of anything about them. Then, as knowledge of cars increased, frequently through costly experience, the wiser ones began to look for certain points in a car as indicating superior quality. First, it was the motor; then, the axle; the springs; the top; and so on.

For the past year or more buyers have been demanding the right transmission as an essential of an otherwise good car. Some forty wide-awake manufacturers have already anticipated this demand. They have eliminated all possibility of an unfavorable opinion against their car as a whole by buyers who have become transmission-wise, through the use of what they found to be the best transmission.

Their wide search for this transmission brought these car manufacturers to Cleveland. They went no farther—realized it was needless—after what they found.

Here is what they found:

What Car Builders Found

The largest plant in the world devoted exclusively to the manufacture of automobile transmissions, headed by a group of transmission specialists specializing on transmission building.

A plant which, because of this specialization and the resulting excellence of its product, has grown in four years from an annual production of 6,000 transmissions in its first year to 75,000 this year—with an ultimate production of 100,000 or more transmissions a year, when additions contemplated and in process of erection are completed.

A plant with trained employes imbued with the spirit that their work is more than a mere "job"; employes who actually vie with each other in trying to improve their ability—and the finished product. Employes who are guided daily by foremen and department heads who for more than four years have devoted their entire time to the perfection of an organization with a common understanding of every detail; an organization whose watchword is "Quality."

INSPECTING FACE OF TRANSMISSION FLANGE
PHANTOM VIEW OF GRANT-LEES TRANSMISSION

The plant is that of The Grant-Lees Gear Company, and the product the world-famous Grant-Lees transmission. If you are posted in automobile mechanics, the name of the company and the product are not unfamiliar.

A First Impression

The first point that appeals to you as a car buyer when you see the Grant-Lees transmission, even though you know nothing much about transmissions, is its neatness, compactness and cleanliness.

Being of the ball and socket type of control, it is out of the way—doesn't take up any unnecessary space in the front of the car.

And with both the emergency brake and control levers pivoted on the same center, there's no chance for dirt to gather, or dust from the road to get up through the usual long slot in the floorboard common to other types of transmissions.

Then again, in the Grant-Lees transmission you'll find no unsightly accumulation of oil or grease on top of the transmission case after you have removed the floor-board. The special construction of the spiral lead end plates in the transmission case keeps the oil and grease where it belongs—inside the case.

More Than Appearance

But the secret of Grant-Lees transmission superiority is not confined to these points. It does lie in the quality of materials, the strength of design, and the care exercised throughout every step in the process of manufacture; also the elimination to the last iota of the possibility of failure through the human element in attaining that accuracy essential to uniform perfection.

The services of Mr. Robert Abbott, recognized as the country's foremost practical metallurgical engineer, and the laboratories of Case School of Applied Science combine to insure uniform quality in the highest grade materials used in Grant-Lees transmissions.

The mountings are on imported double row annular ball bearings, put on by a method distinctly characteristic to The Grant-Lees Gear Company, by selected employes in a dust-proof room. Gear cutting is done on the most modern type of gear cutting machines.

Each Grant-Lees gear is individually tested. After special heat treatment, it is mounted by hand with special tools that eliminate all chances of the usual distortion. All gears are then fitted so as to do away with any possible shaking or rattle, even under the hardest service.

Assembling is sub-divided into a half dozen minor assemblies, each of which goes under the trained eyes and ears of experts before the final inspection of the finished product.

Nowhere is dirt more carefully guarded against than in these various assembling processes, as the smallest amount, if allowed to settle in assembling, would cause endless trouble.

Safety a Big Factor

Then there is the safety factor. Never thought of it, perhaps, in a transmission, did you? But The Grant-Lees Gear Company have.

In the Grant-Lees transmission the interlocking pin fits in grooves. These grooves prevent one rod from moving while another is out of neutral, in forward or reverse positions. This insures against accidental engagement of two gears at the same time.

But the Grant-Lees obligation does not rest with the manufacture of the best transmissions. It extends to the all-important point of prompt delivery to the car manufacturer and of prompt service.

Insurance of both these points—prompt delivery to car maker and service—is found in the fact that the company carries in stock at all times parts for 6,000 completed transmissions, and the further fact that Grant-Lees transmissions are standardized products of uniformity and interchangeability.

The Obvious Result

Small wonder, then, that Grant-Lees transmissions should be the choice of more than forty manufacturers of high grade cars and of thousands of "knowing" car buyers.

Briefly, the fact that a car is equipped with this famous transmission is in itself a type of guarantee of quality for the remainder of the car.

For the fact that a manufacturer is so particular about the transmission feature, even at a probably increased cost, is prima facie evidence that he is making an honest effort to build real value into his entire car.

For this reason, we say, that if this article has set you to thinking to the extent of selecting a Grant-Lees transmission-equipped car, we feel sure it will have served you well in insuring for you a better, more satisfactory automobile than if you had neglected this important point.—(Advt.)

HOTEL CLERK AGAIN TRIED FOR PERJURY

Safford, Who Swore James W. Osborne Was "Elusive Oliver," Is Accused.

WAX NOT IN THE COURTROOM

Wily Adventurer Who Was Friend of Rae Tanzer Will Testify Later, Lawyer Says.

Before Judge Learned Hand and a jury in the United States District Court, Franklin D. Safford, former clerk at the Kensington Hotel in Plainfield, was placed on trial for perjury yesterday, and another chapter was opened in the legal tangle that was begun when Rae Tanzer filed suit against James W. Osborne, the lawyer, charging him with being the Oliver Osborne who won her favor. Safford is 60 years old.

To the crowd that clamored for admission into the courtroom the white-haired defendant held little interest. They wanted to see the Government's principal witness, Charles H. Wax, self-confessed Oliver Osborne. Those who wanted to see "Oliver Osborne" confront Miss Tanzer for the first time since he was brought back from Chicago were disappointed. None of the principals was in court.

Safford, once convicted of perjury, but released by a decision of the Court of Appeals, is charged with having made a wilfully false statement when he identified James W. Osborne as the man who came to the Plainfield hotel with Rae Tanzer on Oct. 18, 1914, and registered as "O. Osborne, New York." He made this statement at Rae Tanzer's trial on March 19, 1915. His is the first of a series of trials that grew out of the tangle that Rae Tanzer wove when she wrote to James W. Osborne accusing him of being her admirer. It will be the first time, also, when the Government will be able to answer in court the question that has been asked of the prosecution ever since the case began: "Where is Oliver Osborne?"

Before the work of selecting the jury, Judge Hand permitted only those having business in court to be admitted.

Little time was lost in getting a jury, and when the morning session was over the jury box was filled. The jury as finally constituted was as follows:

GEORGE A. WAGNER, retired, Middletown, Orange County.
JOSEPH H. FINK, diamonds, White Plains.
GERSON STEIN, retired, 530 West 125th Street.
WALTER L. LASCELLES, merchant, 131 Riverside Drive.
JOHN L. ADAMS, spices, 462 East 183d Street.
MALCOLM LAIDLAW, broker, 257 West 72d Street.

Wax was in the corridor in charge of a United States Deputy Marshal, and William Rand, Jr., the prosecutor, wanted him admitted to the trial. To this Benjamin Slade, for Safford, objected. He said the defense desired Wax brought in when it came time for him to testify. After a debate, it was decided by Judge Hand that the principal witness against Safford should be excluded from the room until it was time for him to take the stand.

"We will produce as an exhibit in this case the real Oliver Osborne, the man who knew Rae Tanzer," said Samuel Hershenstein, Assistant United States District Attorney. "We will produce the man who was with Rae Tanzer and who went with her to the hotel."

With the calling of Commissioner Houghton, the first witness for the prosecution, there was introduced into evidence the original complaint against Miss Tanzer, in which James W. Osborne charged her with being in a scheme to defraud. The Commissioner told of the hearing and recited how Safford had pointed out James W. Osborne in the courtroom and positively identified him as Miss Tanzer's companion on the visit to Plainfield.

The afternoon session was held in a courtroom on another floor in the Federal Building. It was in this room that Safford is alleged to have committed perjury, and it was thought best to use the identical room during the taking of some of the testimony. After the jury was excused for the day Mr. Slade made a motion for the dismissal of the indictment against his client, on the ground that Commissioner Houghton had no jurisdiction to hear testimony or administer the oath. Judge Hand took the matter under advisement. The case will be continued at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

ROBERT HOE GETS DIVORCE.

Said Wife Was Student of "New Thought" and Had No Affection for Him.

RENO, Nev., Jan. 8.—Robert Hoe, manufacturer of printing presses and son of the inventor, received a decree of divorce in the District Court here this afternoon on grounds of cruelty and desertion. Hoe said his wife told him she did not want to be bothered with married life and had no affection for him. She was a student, he said, of "modern philosophy" and "new thought."

Mrs. Hoe did not contest the case. They were married in New York, Nov. 1, 1900.

See the New Mitchell Junior with Hundreds of Mitchell Extras

Now we invite you to see Mitchell Junior. A somewhat smaller Mitchell—a $310 lower price than the 7-passenger Mitchell. But with generous size and ample power for a 5-passenger car. And with all the exclusive Mitchell attractions, due to John W. Bate.

Another step in Mitchell efficiency appears in the new Mitchell Junior. We urge you to come and see it.

A 7-passenger car, to have ample power and ample room, can't be smaller than the $1460 Mitchell, which has won for itself one of the envied places in the motor world. But 40 horsepower is enough for a 5-passenger car. And a 120-inch wheelbase gives room enough—more than most cars give.

So the Mitchell factory this year brings out Mitchell Junior. Not a new type—simply a size reduction. So a man who buys a Mitchell can get the size he wants.

Thousands of these new cars have been run for months, on every sort of road. And they have proved themselves as perfect as the 7-passenger Mitchell car itself.

See the New Extras

In both Mitchell models there are hundreds of extra features. They give you at least 20 per cent extra value over any other car in this class.

These extras—most of them exclusive to Mitchells—are paid for by factory savings. They are the result of efficiency methods, applied by John W. Bate.

This great efficiency engineer built and equipped this whole plant. Every method and machine is adapted to producing this car economically. These methods have cut our factory cost in two. Nowhere else is a car of this class built anywhere near so low.

You will be amazed to see how many extras these new-day methods pay for.

Double-Strong Parts

One result is the Mitchell standard of 100 per cent over-strength. That is, every vital part is twice as strong as need be.

The Mitchell standard used to be 50 per cent over-strength. That itself was extreme. The Mitchell car has always been a marvel of endurance.

But, in the past two years, we have doubled this standard to give you a lifetime car. That fact is announced for the first time in the models now on show.

Over 440 parts are built of toughened steel. All parts which get a major strain are built of Chrome-Vanadium, and built oversize. We pay for steels in the Mitchell as high as 15 cents per pound.

31 Unique Features

There are also 31 extra features in Mitchells. That is, features which nearly all cars omit. Things like a power tire pump, reversible headlights, ball-bearing steering gear and never-broken springs.

These extras alone, on this year's output, will cost over $4,000,000. But all are paid for by these factory savings.

Many New Luxuries

Our new body plant gives us for this year another enormous saving. All Mitchell bodies, open and enclosed, will be built in our own shops.

This saving enables us to add 24 per cent to the cost of finish, upholstery and trimmings. The finish coats are now heat-fixed. A rare-grade leather is employed. A hundred new touches make today's Mitchell the handsomest car in its class.

Every Mitchell extra is something that you want. Nearly all are things you don't find in other like-class cars. They are things which can't be given without added price, save under Mitchell methods.

Come and see them. Judge for yourself what they mean to you. And see which size you like best.

THIS IS THE REAL STORY OF HOW EDWARD S. JORDAN AND CARL H. PAGE GOT TOGETHER

Edward S. Jordan

Carl H. Page

ONE year ago today I stood on the corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-second street and watched the motor cars go by.

Not a single car selling below $2,000 was distinctive and individual in appearance.

All medium priced cars were funereal in color. Every car of each individual make looked just like every other car of the same make.

One year ago not a single motor car had been built in America to sell below $2,000, except on a competitive price basis. No manufacturer had yet thought of including in a standard chassis the one best unit produced by the one leading manufacturer in each department of parts specialization, not leaving out a single high-grade unit.

One car featured a motor. Another car a body. This one an axle. That one a starting system.

But not a single car in America selling below $2,000 had been distinguished by a series of custom style bodies.

I knew that the day must soon come when all people of good judgment would prefer to buy a high-grade standard chassis complete in its equipment and superior in the quality of its units.

I knew that a car, to be distinctive, must be distinctive not only in appearance, but in quality of finish. Distinctive not only in comfort, but in detailed workmanship.

In short, I knew that people would soon see the folly of buying automobiles on price alone or because of any single mechanical feature.

I realized they would soon buy automobiles that were complete in every detail of quality, not only in body but chassis.

That day I decided to build the Jordan.

The market was filled with cars. How could I hope to build a motor car of quality, assemble it carefully, inspect it as it should be inspected, and give the customer the service to which he is entitled and put more money into that car than any car selling at a similar price?

I decided that I could do it only provided that, first, the car could be made so good that it would sell itself, thereby saving the factory selling cost.

Next, I determined that the car must be so carefully built and inspected that the enormous service expense common to ordinary cars would be entirely eliminated, making another big saving.

So I concluded to put these big savings into the units, into the body, into the equipment, into the owner's value, rather than into the pockets of the salesmen and the repair men.

The company was organized.

Then 2,600 dealers made application for the line.

The Jordan standard chassis to-day is nearer than that of any other car I know to the complete Society of Automobile Engineers standard specifications.

Twenty New York dealers made application for the line when the announcement first appeared.

Carl H. Page, whom I consider the livest dealer in New York City, was engaged in selling another car at the time. Two weeks ago I found it was possible to get him as our New York distributor. His judgment of motor cars is final.

He will now sell Jordan cars to the people of New York who know best what a motor car should be.

He will sell what I know positively to be the finest automobile that has been produced in America since the inception of the industry, to sell for less than $2,000.

I know that the bulk of our output will be sold to men who have had long experience with other cars.

In short, the Jordan is intended for the man who, if he could afford it, would build a car to suit himself.

The price of the car is no indication of its great value. It simply means that we have been satisfied to take seven per cent profit.

The great overhead that usually goes into big salaries, excess service expense and experiments is in the car.

Edward S. Jordan

ONE day last August we dealers in New York heard of a car of startling value—the new Luxury Jordan.

Most of us were interested.

I certainly was.

I knew the Jordan chassis contained more nearly the complete Society of Automobile Engineers' standard specifications than any car built.

I knew that the New York public wanted also, above everything else, style bodies.

For certain reasons, I could not be anything more than interested at that time.

Soon after I found that many of my dealer friends in Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Chicago—all over the country—were after the Jordan Agency. Then I communicated from time to time with those who got it and found they were meeting with marked success.

The cars had a peculiar appeal and dignity as well as individuality, which made them marked among motor cars.

Of course, I regretted not being able to get in on this good thing.

Then we began to hear more and more Jordan talk.

Salesmen began to say:

"Why don't our cars have Bosch D U Six Ignition?"

"Why don't our cars have Bijur Starting and Lighting?"

"Why don't our cars have Timken axles and bearings?"

"Why don't our cars have a tire pump?"

"Why don't our cars have motometers?"

"Why don't our cars have the Jordan body finish, with the hood the same color as the body?"

"Why don't our cars have 48-inch rear seat and real leather?"

"Why does our body have such cheap binding?"

"Why is our car so cheap in little details?"

"Why is it that Jordan has all of these features when we have only one or two, and Jordan sells at virtually the same price?"

Little by little this talk grew in the trade, among people in the know. Finally the public got it.

Just before Thanksgiving I was taken ill and have been confined at home nearly ever since.

My automobile friends came to call one me. Always the conversation got around to Jordan. Then the suggestion was made: "Why don't you try and get the Jordan for New York?"

Finally one night while I was thinking, as business men do think over their affairs in the middle of the night, I decided to call Mr. Jordan on the phone.

The next morning I called him on the wire in Cleveland and asked him if he would consider getting together with me.

He said: "In another day or two I would have been in New York to talk to you."

There must have been some mental telepathy between us that night. So I got out of bed, took a doctor and a trained nurse, went out to Cleveland, saw the cars, saw the factory, saw the organization and decided I would not go back to New York without the contract.

So I took rooms and stayed there until I got the contract.

Although I have been ill in bed ever since, I have gotten together an organization of men who were enthusiastic about the Jordan car, heard of my connection with it and came and asked the privilege of working with me.

I confess that since closing the deal some of my most conservative friends have said: "Carl, how did an old stager like you happen to take up a new car?"

I replied: "I grant you that the name is new, but in every other sense of the word the car is as old as the industry. It is the only car that I have ever known in all of my experience in which there is not one single new, untried, untested, unproved unit or part.

"Not one which has not commanded for years the respect and confidence of the entire industry.

"One car may have a well-known motor. Another may have a well-known axle. Another may have something else that is well known. The Jordan has every part that is good and well known."

I know that hundreds of Jordan cars have been sold throughout the country. Through correspondence with dealers and owners I have learned that the Jordan Company has yet to send out a service man to repair a car.

Because I have been and am still ill in bed I have been obliged to take temporary salesrooms at 1848 Broadway, corner 61st street, where the complete line of Jordan cars is on view. We have also an exhibition on the third floor of the Palace Show.

The public know that I would not sign an advertisement that is not truthful—and I intend to sign this one.

I know that if every man in New York who is going to buy a car could sit down quietly with me and hear the interesting Jordan story—the factory output would hardly take care of New York alone.

I will be back in harness in a few days.

I will put my time against that of any man.

MRS. SANGER'S AID IS FOUND GUILTY

Mrs. Byrne Convicted on Technicality in First of Birth Control Trials.

WOMEN NOISY IN COURT

Defendants Bring Before Justices a Mother and Her Six Children as a "Demonstration."

The first step of the Sanger fight against the New York law prohibiting dissemination of information on the subject of birth control came to an end yesterday with the conviction of Mrs. Ethel Byrne, Mrs. Margaret Sanger's sister, on a charge of selling articles prohibited by law. Mrs. Byrne's was the first of the so-called "Sanger cases" brought to trial, and was heard before the Court of Special Sessions in Brooklyn.

The effort of the defense in the trial was to prove the law—section 1,142 of the State Penal Law—to be unconstitutional and arbitrary, and to this end the fact that Mrs. Byrne had assisted her sister in conducting the "birth control clinic" which was raided in Brownsville, Brooklyn, last Autumn, was admitted. Special Sessions passed the question up to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, to which Jonah J. Goldstein, attorney for Mrs. Byrne and the other two involved, said that he would take an immediate appeal. Meantime Justice Garvin deferred passing sentence until Jan. 22.

The trials of Mrs. Sanger herself and of Miss Fannie Mindell, another of her former assistants, were then set for Jan. 29.

Mrs. Amos Pinchot, Mrs. Ralph Rainsford, Mrs. Harry L. Blume, Mrs. Frank Cothren and other prominent women who have championed the birth control fight were among the spectators in court yesterday. There was also a poorly clad woman with six children ranging in age from sixteen months to ten years, who said she was Mrs. Rose Halpern of 375 Bradford Street, Brooklyn, and that she had come as a "demonstration" of the need of information on birth control among the poor. Her husband was a garment worker and made only $17 a week to support this large family, she said.

"Disorder" in the form of violent handclapping by the women present, of whom there were nearly a hundred, interrupted the proceedings at one time. This was while Mr. Goldstein was arguing on the constitutionality of Section 1,142. He said that it was not birth elimination that was sought, but the legalizing of making motherhood voluntary.

EMMA GOLDMAN ACQUITTED.

Court Finds She Did Not Circulate Birth Control Information.

Emma Goldman, the anarchist, was acquitted yesterday by Justices McInerney, Freschi, and Collins in Special Sessions of a charge of circulating birth control information at a meeting held last May in Union Square, at which Bolton Hall, lawyer and sociologist, presided. Miss Goldman, who acted as her own attorney, produced witnesses who testified that while she had spoken in advocacy of the birth-control theory she had not distributed any pamphlets.

14,016 PLANTS IN GARDEN.

Dr. Brittan Reviews Botanical Work for 1916 in His Report.

Visitors to the New York Botanical Garden can see 14,016 kinds of living plants, the annual report of Dr. N. L. Brittan, Director in Chief, has disclosed. It was read at a meeting of the Board of Managers yesterday. More than 5,000 of the plants are outdoor specimens.

Dr. Brittan took up each of the departments of the garden and told how it had been developed in 1916. During the year the garden received $8,400 from 108 of its members, and some of this money was spent in developing a 140-acre tract added by the city to the garden reservation. One of the undertakings on this tract is the planting of a garden that will serve as an out-of-door convention hall for the Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists when they meet next Summer. Dr. Gilman Thompson was re-elected President of the garden, as were the following officers; Andrew Carnegie and Francis Lynde Stetson, Vice Presidents; James A. Scrymser, Treasurer, and Dr. N. L. Brittan, Director in Chief.

"There must be money in Flowers, Jim. I wish the hat business would support a $5,000 craft like that."

"Ha, ha! That's good. I bet Henry Ford would give today's profits of a quarter of a million to hear someone class his car as a '$5,000 craft.'"

"Gee! There is something strangely familiar about that hood and rear axle. It's a Ford, all right. But certainly Ford never built that panelled coach body. And do you get the wheel base? It's 130 inches at least. What's the trick?"

"That's one of Hayes-Diefenderfer's creations. They have a patented way of lengthening and strengthening a Ford chassis and then mounting on it a body built specially for each particular line of business."

"But is the Ford up to the work?"

"Why not? 90% of all merchandise is bulky rather than heavy. A thousand pounds of your hats would fill a freight car. Same with flowers, furniture, laundry or groceries. Why, they make an undertaker's car that beats anything else on the market, and an ambulance that makes you want to get hurt so you can ride in it! One of these Hayes-Diefenderfer rigs will do the work of a heavy, costly truck for any of these lines of business with upkeep costs of a Ford pleasure car. First cost is only about $658."

"That settles it. You'll see my name in fancy gold leaf on one of them in a day or so."

"No hill too steep—No sand too deep"

With a bore of 3 inches and a stroke of 3½ inches it has a piston displacement of 198 cubic inches, and on block tests and road tests shows more power per cubic inch of piston displacement than any other motor ever built.

Its A.L.A.M. rating is 28 h.p. It exhibits on tests over 50 horsepower.

This motor with its enclosed overhead valves will throttle down to a snail's pace and yet it will instantly jump into a burst of speed. It establishes entirely new ideals in the matter of vibrationless performance. This is largely due to its rigid construction.

It is efficiently lubricated—and you know the importance of reliable, and ample lubrication for the bearings and all working parts of a high speed motor.

To further emphasize its power, its flexibility, its snap, its economy is literally to "gild refined gold"—you will find one demonstration convincing.

THE ADAMSON LEGISLATION.

When the Adamson legislation is perfected, or at least completed, it will be fair to criticise or to praise it as the case may call for. So long as it is subject to alterations and additions according to afterthoughts which ought to have been forethoughts, encouragement should be given to the disposition to learn by experience if not from counsel. The proposal now to limit the working hours of the trainmen to eight might better have been made originally, if the intent of the bill was then what it is now said to be by its friends. The omission to limit the hours of work, if the object was to allow men leisure with their families and to increase the safety of the traveling public, was remarked when the bill was introduced. The criticism that the bill was a bill to raise wages and not to limit hours was so fatal that it now is met by a proposal which will suit nobody, and which will weaken the bill with those whom it is the object of the bill to please and a great many others. If the trainmen are to be forbidden to work more than eight hours without the permission of a Government bureau, others are in danger of the same sort of limitation upon their efforts to improve their position in the world. Legislation suitable for women and children is not suitable for men of exceptional physical capacity. It is to the credit of the trainmen that they will have none of that sort of protection.

Representative ADAMSON is quoted as saying that the railways "lie" about the measure, and that they are in "collusion" with the trainmen to make an eight-hour law appear impracticable in the railway business. The author of the law regards it as so entirely practical that he loses patience with those who doubt it. All that is necessary is to put fewer cars behind the engines and speed up the trains so as to make the ten-hour mileage in eight. It is just as practical to order the trains to increase their speed as it is to order the men not to work more than eight hours. The railways cannot hurry their trains by ordering it. It requires billions of capital to flatten grades, strengthen bridges, improve terminals, and generally provide the plant necessary to do the work. Billions have been spent for that purpose while rates were being reduced and wages raised. No return has been paid on those billions until this year. More billions will not be spent in that manner while legislation like the Adamson bill is pending.

THE OMNIBUS.

The Hon. FRANK CLARK of Florida, Chairman of the House Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, informs The Sun that the Omnibus Pork bill "will pass and become a law without "material amendment." Evidently Mr. McADOO was in error in not adding its $35,000,000 or $39,000,000 or paltry $28,000,000, as its own mathematicians reckon, to the $379,000,000 Treasury deficit foreseen for June 30, 1918. A deficit of over $400,000,000 would be such an attractive Democratic campaign argument, and Mr. CLARK is so tenderly attached to the old method of parceling the pork. Evidently, too, Mr. WILSON was in error in believing that he would veto the Omnibus Pork bill if it came to him, and in insisting on a rational system of deciding upon appropriations for public building, river and harbor reclamation, flood control, and so on.

Mr. CLARK is whistling to keep up his courage. The condition of the Treasury, the awakening of public opinion to the abuses of the omnibus public building grabs, the warnings given last year and this by Mr. WILSON and unheeded by Mr. CLARK and his committee, assure the smashing of the 1916 pork bill, assure or bring near the beginning of a system under which each project will be considered on its merits or its necessity by a nonpartisan expert body, and be treated as a national, and not a local and political, matter.

What sort of commission should be established to investigate and report upon applications for Government buildings has yet to be determined and should not be determined hastily. It is permitted to doubt, for instance, the effectiveness of a Public Building Commission composed of the Secretary of the Treasury, the Postmaster General, and the Attorney General, as proposed by Representative FREAR of Wisconsin, whose analysis of the Public Buildings bills of 1913 and 1916 is a notable public service. These officials have plenty to do already. Into whose hands would the work of the proposed commission fall? Nor can they always divest themselves of political intentions. Moreover, Mr. FREAR's commission "may provide rules concern-"ing the size of communities, Post "Office receipts, and rental paid by "the Government in determining "where public buildings are to be "erected." Rules have been made and violated; and in some of them there is no reason. The question of the cost of rental of sufficient accommodations, as compared with cost and upkeep of a Government building, should be foremost. The $10,000 limit of Post Office receipts is merely an excuse for giving hamlets a chance to get a "Government monument," and the Public Buildings Committee doesn't stick to it. The Postmaster General favors a $15,000 limit, the Treasury a $25,000 limit. There can be no sound general rule. As Mr. FREAR himself says, "the matter of local "receipts as a measure of Govern-"ment needs has no relation to the "subject. Each project should be "judged independently and individu-"ally." Mr. McADOO has the right idea about that.

THE UNCHANGED KAISER.

Of course the Kaiser's utterances are approved in Germany. To disapprove them would be sedition and lèse-majesté, and would be attended with discomfort and danger. Still, if there are silent Germans who had begun to distrust the righteousness of his cause, his latest sayings will do nothing to change their minds. For it is exactly the same song, without the change of a note, that he sang at the beginning of the war; the same call, in the same voice, in the same manner.

"The sword is being forced into our hand," said he from the balcony of the palace on July 31, 1914. "Our "enemies did not want the under-"standing offered by me," he says in his new order to the army and navy. "It has become necessary to protect "our most sacred possessions, the "Fatherland, our very hearths against "ruthless destruction," read his proclamation to the army and navy on Aug. 6, 1914. "Their hunger for "power desires Germany's destruc-"tion," reads his new order to them. "In the midst of perfect peace the "enemy surprises us; therefore to "arms!" read another of his proclamations on Aug. 6, 1914. "With "justified indignation at our ene-"mies' arrogant crime," is the way he phrases it today. "To be or not "to be—German power and German "existence!" said the proclamation. "With determination to defend our "holiest possessions and secure for "the Fatherland a happy future, you "will become as steel," says the 1917 order. "You are my guarantee that I can dictate peace to my enemies," he told the First Regiment of Foot Guards at Potsdam. "With GOD's help our arms will enforce it," (the peace he seeks to dictate,) concludes the 1917 order.

Not the change of an idea, or of the fraction of an idea; not a word of argument with the questioning spirit that is slowly beginning to awake in Germany. Yet the Kaiser's order has its value. Taking it and the Entente note answering his peace offer together, the case is made up. The Entente note arraigns Germany for the spirit of militarism, aggression, conquest, the defiance of human rights; and the Kaiser immediately issues an order illustrating the spirit which they thus arraign. The note and the order make a picture, a picture of the issue in this war, of the spirit of militarism and aggression that must be destroyed in the peace that the arms of the Allies will bring to the world it has stricken.

AMERICANIZATION.

Mr. SAMUEL STRAUSS revealed his possession of a good share of constructive patriotism in his address before the Educational Alliance last Sunday. For twenty-five years the Alliance has been working for the Americanization of Jewish immigrants. "Americanization," Mr. STRAUSS declared, means both allegiance and obedience. The immigrant fit to be an American citizen "may have no polit-"ical bond whatsoever, either in "thought, in word, or in deed, with "any land but America."

> His love for father and mother left behind in a fatherland of pleasant associations, his love for art, even his religion, may hold a place in some country other than this, but his political allegiance must be confined to the land of his adoption; his love for her and her institutions must be marked with the zeal of the convert. Either that, or this is not his home.

This is good doctrine, and it is bettered by the orator's explanation of what he means by obedience in citizenship. He holds it to be one of the great tasks of the Educational Alliance to lead newcomers to a realization of the fact that in a free country they must consider duties rather than rights:

> A democracy is sometimes a terrible tyrant and always a difficult master. Liberty, freedom—whatever we call it that brought them to these shores—are not all receipt and no payment, all profit and no sacrifice. Tyranny means obedience, but liberty means obligation. This is not a land where men are free, but a land where men are free to serve, and woe to the individual or the group of individuals that does not learn this far-reaching truth in time!

There is no doubt that any immigrant who conducts himself according to this doctrine will be a good citizen, as worthy of his place in the Republic as any descendant of Pilgrims or Huguenots. He will serve his country as well as it can be served, and he will think of it at all times as his own country, not the land of his adoption. In regard to the Jew, there is always the question what relation his citizenship bears to his Judaism. Mr. STRAUSS indicated that the fulfillment of Judaism may be through the way of true democracy. The Jewish citizen must not at any time let his Americanism seem doubtful:

> He must convince his neighbors beyond any lurking doubts. For he is not an American all by himself; he is an American in relation to millions of others, and that relation is not the bond of formal citizenship, but the bond of common and general understanding.

This clear affirmation of the qualities that the adopted citizen should possess is particularly gratifying and encouraging in an hour of many bewilderments. If all our immigrants could be thus trained to a comprehension of the duties of citizenship, our outlook for the future would be bright.

TIMELY DISCUSSIONS.

What is the proportion of income-tax dodging in the United States? What are the dangers of the fact that our gold supply is now tenfold what it was in 1875 for each of us? How are the belligerent nations dealing with their deficiency of gold? What is the relation between our domestic and foreign trade under conditions never before existent in our national experience? How is labor affected by a prosperity without parallel in the history of the world? It would take a book to answer these questions, and such a book is the Annual Review this week by THE ANNALIST. The answers are not final, but they are authoritative. Among those who discuss them are Treasury officials and university professors, who are particularly charged with the administration and study of these topics, and many others similar.

It is gratifying to find that Assistant Secretary of the Treasury MALBURN doubts that income-tax dodging is as flagrant as some have thought the records show. Mr. MILLER of the Federal Reserve Board discusses the conditions arising from the increase of our gold by a billion dollars within a year. It is a new and singular "yellow peril," uncontrolled and needing control. Banks are tempted to put the idle treasure to use, individuals are tempted to extravagance and speculation, and there is danger of waste of such an opportunity as never before was offered any country. It is one of the singularities of the situation that the belligerent nations have more gold in their banks than before it began to come to us in such a flood. The explanation is simple. The belligerents are using ten billions of substitutes for gold. It gorges the banks abroad because the people have no use for it and are making patriotic sacrifices. The economic, financial, and commercial consequences are occupying the attention of all interested, that is, of every trader. Millions more than those are not aware how they are concerned in the matter. They are not doing themselves justice when they neglect the opportunity of hearing professors of such subjects think aloud, as they may in THE ANNALIST.

The United States Commissioner of Labor Statistics thinks that labor's interest lies in the fact that prices rose faster than wages. He finds compensation for wage earners in the other fact that the increase of employment filled the gap and that the net income of workers was greater than ever. There have been many similar publications, as is the habit since the custom was started, but it would be difficult to name a better selection of topics, or more authoritative treatment by more competent writers.

EVIL IN SOUTH DAKOTA.

> South Dakota defeated woman suffrage by about 10,000 and adopted the prohibitory amendment by 12,000, while Iowa defeated equal suffrage by 10,000.—Des Moines Register.

Whence The Register seeks to get a line on the attitude of Iowa toward the prohibition amendment. Is there not a sinister meaning in the South Dakota figures? The woman suffrage leaders have seldom failed to explain defeats of the Cause as due in part to "the forces of evil." "The forces opposed to woman suffrage include," says Mrs. IDA HUSTED HARPER, "the liquor and vice interests of the country." If South Dakota voted for prohibition and against woman suffrage, is not that fact prima facie, not to say Bible truth, evidence that the liquor and vice interests tampered with the returns of the suffrage amendment vote? Must not South Dakota be one of the five, and perhaps more, States of which Mrs. CATT, President of the National American Suffrage Association, says the suffragists were cheated "by willful "fraud, or fraud perpetrated within "the law"?

For prohibition, against suffrage? It cannot lawfully or honestly be. The forces of evil in South Dakota may have consented to prohibition, which is relative, but to woman suffrage, which is absolute, they could not consent. There must have been election frauds. It is constructive fraud upon our suffrage friends for a State to vote Dry and Anti on the same day. It is, besides, a loss with injury. It shatters a hallowed tradition, upsets a beloved argument.

Was woman suffrage in Iowa beaten by the forces of evil last year? The vote on prohibition will show.

THE LETTERS OF "COSMOS."

The letters of "Cosmos," recently printed in THE TIMES, in which the conditions of permanent peace after the end of the European war were presented and discussed, have attracted such wide attention and been read with such general interest that we have received many letters inquiring whether the series would be published in permanent form. In answer to these inquiries, it is a pleasure to say that the "Cosmos" letters will be published in pamphlet form by Charles Scribner's Sons at the price of 30 cents a copy. We are informed that the pamphlet is ready for immediate issue.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Red Cross Funds Exhausted. It is not to depreciate any of the many appeals for money that come daily from agencies of relief managed in ways and by persons assuring a proper use of the funds contributed to say that none of the others quite equals in force the one made by President WILSON as head of the American Red Cross in behalf of that magnificent organization. Its labors since the European war began have been in many fields, covering practically the whole of Europe and extending into both Asia and Africa. The only claim required for obtaining its attention and its services has been the need of them and the possibility of rendering them, for the Red Cross knows nothing of races or of nationalities.

The calls upon its resources have been so many, however, that they are now nearly exhausted, and the continuance of its work in the several theatres of war depends on the immediate refilling of its treasury. "We find ourselves," writes the President in his letter to the American public, > at the point where activities must be seriously curtailed and we must turn away from the heartbreaking appeals brought by every European mail, unless by your contribution you help us to continue.

> It is for you to decide whether the most prosperous nation in the world will allow its national relief organization to keep up its work or withdraw from a field where there exists the greatest need ever recorded in history. We leave the decision in your hands, confident of its outcome.

As shown by the statement of Red Cross expenditures and receipts made by ex-President TAFT, contributors can, if they choose, name the use to be made of the money they give, in full assurance that no other employment of it will be made. If they prefer, they can leave its disposition to the judgment of the Red Cross officials, and be equally confident that the need most pressing at the moment will determine its disposition.

The organization, too, can utilize personal services, especially those of nurses and doctors who are willing to work for small remuneration or none, and some of its most valued benefactions have thus been made possible.

Surely the response to the President's appeal will be prompt and generous. National honor requires that, and it is one way of answering to some degree America's many critics.

New York at Last Well Ruled. That "vice" has not been abolished in this city is admitted in the annual report of the Bureau of Social Hygiene. That, however, is only saying that the millennium has not yet arrived, and the report, far from expressing the discouragement that would have followed a futile struggle, proclaims the achievement of a substantial victory over the powers of evil. There are still vicious people in New York, but whereas a few years ago "commercialized vice was open, organized, aggressive, and prosperous, in 1916 it is furtive, disorganized, precarious, and unsuccessful." For once, "reform" has not been a spasm of virtue, and the "reformers" have shown themselves persistent and efficient as well as enthusiastic.

For the improvements in local conditions that have been effected the bureau credits many influences and organizations, with special words of commendation for the Committee of Fourteen, the District Attorney's office, and the Criminal Court, but most of all does its grateful recognition go to the Mayor, JOHN PURROY MITCHEL, and to the Police Commissioner, ARTHUR WOODS. It is a pleasing novelty to read such hearty approval of municipal officials as these two receive in the bureau's report, for during many a weary year most of them have been the objects of constant and bitter criticism, and so often has this been with more or less justice that New Yorkers had come to accept as deserved the charge of their neighbors that they were incompetent to conduct their public affairs either honestly or well.

That feeling has passed away under the present administration. According to all unprejudiced judges, it is the best administration New York has had in the memory of men now alive, for though there have been others with intentions presumably as good, none of the others demonstrated the same continuous practicality in well-doing. And, close beside the Mayor in public esteem, as in the bureau's report, stands Commissioner WOODS. Of his exceptional qualifications for the most difficult of municipal positions—the position for the filling of which more than one good and able man has proved inadequate—there is no longer reasonable or honest question, in or out of the department which he has governed so well and raised so high in both character and repute.

Examples Chosen Unhappily. A British scientist, Professor KILBURN SCOTT, is quoted in one of THE TIMES special cable dispatches from London as having in a recent public address mentioned three things as the chief achievements of science in relation to the war. First on the list he put the success of Germany in supplying from the air its need for nitrogen, the second was the same nation's destruction through Zeppelin raids of Great Britain's insularity, and the third was the gyroscopic compass.

This enumeration is a surprising one. As a matter of fact, though it may be that the Germans have drawn much nitrogen from the air, the assertion that they thus have supplied all their needs for that substance is a wild exaggeration. The state of their crops shows that, if nothing else did. And it is news indeed that Great Britain has lost her insularity because of the Zeppelin. It is much nearer the truth to say that the only efficiency of the Zeppelins has been in exciting deserved criticism all over the world against their users. What military service, if any, they have rendered is yet to be revealed. As for the gyroscopic compass, it is much older than the war, and it is far from having replaced the "needle" which is supposed to be so faithful to the pole, though its fidelity is of a lamentably wavering and uncertain kind.

Professor SCOTT confesses too much—for a Briton mysteriously much—and as an advertiser of science he is not a brilliant success.

"COSMOS" REPLIES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The letter signed J. J. Bisgood, addressed to you from London under date of Dec. 12, 1916, and printed in your paper of Dec. 30, invites reply. The writer vigorously attacks the suggestion contained in my fifth article that private property at sea not contraband must be made immune from capture or destruction as a condition of durable peace.

Mr. Bisgood obviously speaks for that body of opinion which, in England, as in every other country, makes difficult, if not impossible, international agreement to diminish the likelihood of war, by taking an attitude which is quite as extreme and quite as indefensible as the analogous attitude so sharply attacked when taken by Germany. Mr. Bisgood's slighting reference to Viscount Grey may be passed by with the remark that history is certain to do justice to that statesman's noteworthy administration of the British Foreign Office, as well as to his high-minded patriotism and his sound liberalism in thought and in policy. Mr. Bisgood asks me to read what he describes as "that wonderful book" by Thomas Gibson Bowles entitled "Sea Law and Sea Power," which, he tells us, "destroyed the Declaration of London." I am familiar with this book by Mr. Bowles, but cannot regard it as anything more than a bit of vigorous and chauvinistic pamphleteering. In the precincts of St. Stephen's its author is not known as Thomas Gibson Bowles, Esq., M. P., but as "Tommy" Bowles, who sat for King's Lynn on opposite sides of the House in quick succession. This particular book, which is but one of several by Mr. Bowles on similar topics, is, to speak frankly, a partisan and narrow-minded attack upon the work of the second Hague Conference of 1907 and upon the London Naval Conference of 1909. The work of the British delegates to these two important gatherings is included in the scope of Mr. Bowles's animadversions.

I prefer to find the voice of liberal, progressive, and peace-loving England in the book entitled "Capture at Sea," written in 1913 by Earl Loreburn, who, after a most brilliant career at the bar and in Parliament, became Lord Chancellor in 1905, and served in that great post until his retirement in 1912. Whereas the final chapter of Mr. Bowles's book is entitled "Keep the Sword Sharp," the principle upon which Lord Loreburn's argument proceeds is that "at sea, as on land, unoffending private individuals should be unmolested either in person or in property except from imperative military necessity. * * * The proposal is that unoffending commerce shall not be interfered with and that war shall not be directed against an unoffending population."

I venture to set these two points of view and these two expressions of policy in contrast, and let public opinion decide whether the proposals of Mr. "Tommy" Bowles or those of Earl Loreburn, supported as they are by the unanimous action of the Council of the London Chamber of Commerce, which I quoted in my original article on this subject, are more likely to assist in maintaining the peace of the world. Lord Loreburn would have Great Britain assent to the position which the Government of the United States has maintained throughout its history.

AN AQUEDUCT MEMORIAL.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The greatest single piece of construction work that has ever been carried out by a municipality is unobtrusively but triumphantly nearing its end. The Catskill Aqueduct, which in places runs 400 feet below the surface, and is to deliver billions of gallons of water to our city daily, will be completed early next Spring.

A project which almost equals the Panama Canal in administrative problems and excels it in engineering difficulties will be finished before the estimated time and within the estimated cost. Our very life and health, and in great part the protection of our property, will be wholly dependent upon this new water supply. The Mayor has realized the importance of the successful termination of this great work, and has appointed a representative committee to arrange for a celebration befitting an event of such material and historical significance to the future welfare of our city.

In addition, may I suggest that in co-operation with this committee a memorial of a permanent nature be planned? It seems to be peculiarly fitting to erect a great monumental fountain, of such architectural and sculptural beauty as to mark worthily the importance of the occasion, the dignity of our great city, and the appreciation of our people. It could be located in one of our plazas, or in some conspicuous part of Central Park. Perhaps the site of the present reservoir would be found suitable. The water would be partly arched over, forming a large plaza, while open spaces spanned by bridges would enhance the general effect. Broad approaches would give interesting points of vantage from which to view a work of art which should add to the glory of our city. This great new plaza would provide additional recreation space for the multitudes who would gather from far and wide.

The cost of the monument would preferably be defrayed by public subscription. European cities, like Rome, Munich, Marseilles, and many others, have such monuments, which they point out to visitors with just pride. Let this great metropolis prove that it has interests other than purely material ones, and with a spirit of civic pride show that we have aspirations as high as any of the cities of the old world.

MORTIMER J. FOX.
New York, Jan. 6, 1917.

PERKINS WILL MEET FOOD COMMITTEES

Governor, Mayor, and Experts from All New England to be Dinner Guests.

FAVORS CONTROL BY STATE

Financier Wants Assemblage to Consider the Situation Along Northeastern Seaboard.

In order to consider the food supply situation in the northeastern seaboard States George W. Perkins will give a dinner in honor of Governor Whitman and Mayor Mitchel at the Biltmore Hotel on Thursday evening. Governor-elect Walter Edge of New Jersey will be one of the guests. Other guests will include members of Governor Whitman's Market Commission, the Eexcutive Committee of Mayor Mitchel's Food Supply Committe and the Wicks Legislative Committee, who recently joined in a report to Governor Whitman recommending the creation in this State of a market department empowered to promote the better handling of the food supply of New York.

Others who will attend include similar committees which have been appointed by the Governors of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Vermont to study the situation in those States and also in its interstate relationship.

"The appointment of committees in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Vermont to study this question is an important step forward," said Mr. Perkins last night. "Governor Whitman took the lead in this matter, and under his leadership I am very hopeful that something practical and constructive can be worked out.

"All these States have Public Service Commissions to look after the people's interests in the matter of transportation, yet it is estimated that only ten per cent of the average man's income goes for transportation while upwards of 40 per cent. of his income goes for food.

"We have been careful to regulate our transportation service in the interests of the public, but as yet practically nothing has been done in the regulation of our food supply in the interest of the people. Because of the lack of proper market departments the people's interests in this all-important matter have been left almost wholly in private hands.

"If experience has shown that the public's interests in the matter of health, education and transportation need to be safeguarded by the State, through supervision and regulation, does it not follow that in the all-important matter of their food supply the people's interests should also be safeguarded by the State in a similar manner?

"I am hopeful that the dinner on Thursday evening will provoke discussion which will enable all of us to get a clearer understanding of the problem and a better insight into the remedies which must be applied if it is to be solved."

TALKS OF DILLON REMOVAL.

Governor, However, Refuses to Confirm Report as to Perkins.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 8.—Governor Whitman tonight refused to confirm the story published in New York that he was contemplating removing Commissioner John J. Dillon of Foods and Markets, replacing him in a reorganized department by George W. Perkins.

"I would say, at least," said the Governor, "that it is a little premature to announce the appointment of a man to a position which does not yet exist. The law under which a Commissioner of Markets will be named has not as yet even been introduced in the Legislature. I will say, however, that I would gladly appoint Mr. Perkins to any position as responsible as this new place would be if he would accept it."

It is understood here that while the Governor would like to see Mr. Perkins in the office when it is created, and that Mr. Dillon would not object to yielding to him, yet Mr. Perkins has said that he has too much work to attend to to permit him to give all his time to the place.

TRAVIS ASSAILS FISKE.

Controller Incidentally Defends Report on Mt. Vernon Finances.

ALBANY, Jan. 8.—Controller Eugene M. Travis has sent a letter to Mayor Edwin W. Fiske of Mount Vernon, criticising that official for the attitude which Mr. Fiske has assumed over the examination conducted into the financial affairs of Mount Vernon by examiners of the Controller's office. In the report, which was submitted to Mayor Fiske some time ago, the Controller made certain recommendations. In his letter Mr. Travis says:

"Supplementing previous correspondence on the subject of the finances of the city of Mount Vernon, permit me to say that you appear neither to appreciate the purpose of the examination nor the benefits which may be derived from a careful study of the report, followed by affirmative, corrective methods of administration.

"I realized that the facts reported did not reflect credit upon those responsible for them, but believed many of the unbusinesslike, irregular, and illegal acts to be unintentional—the result of ignorance, established custom, and obsolete charter provisions. The eagerness which you display in attempting to explain, to justify, to extenuate, and to defend an administration notable only for its lack of business methods, its extravagance of expenditure, and its disregard for legal procedure, impels me to admit that I reasoned from false premises.

"I have again reviewed the report, my letters to you, and your several communications, but fail to see where I should subtract anything from the facts set forth in the report or detract from the observations incorporated in my letters. If I erred, it was in the use of moderate language where blunter statements and stronger, more energetic words should have been employed."

Needs Funds for New Assay Office.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—W. G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, sent a memorandum to the Senate today containing the information that, because of the increased cost of building materials and labor, it would be necessary for Congress to make an additional appropriation of $200,000 in order to erect the new Assay Office in New York City authorized two years ago. The original appropriation was $607,408. Senator O'Gorman has framed a bill providing for increasing the amount to $807,408 in order to carry out the Government's original plan.

INVICTUS.

Who sang "Invictus" loud and long—and fell—
Doubt not thou sangest well!
For there are those who had not known that song
But for thy chanted word,
Which they, despairing, heard
And rose and triumphed; passing it along
Wave after wave in ever-widening arc
Until the far reverberance of the strain
Comes back to thee again
Across the world; and mark,
O thou of mighty will,
Unconquered and unconquerable still,
Above the flesh that fails
The spirit still prevails,
And 'tis thine own first song that lifteth thee
To final victory!
Early or late
Thou rulest still thy fate,
Despite all winds or tides through all eternity.

M. E. BUHLER.

OPPOSES AN ENLISTED ARMY

Major Harlee Would Leave Men Free to Quit the Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Widely divergent views as to the proper military policy for the United States were laid before the Senate Sub-Committee on Universal Service today by two of the Government's military officers, Captain George V. H. Mosely of the General Staff of the Army and Major William G. Harlee of the Marine Corps. The committee heard also urgent recommendations that universal military training be enacted from a score of surgeons and physicians representing the important medical associations of the country.

Major Harlee disapproved of all universal service proposals. "The oath of enlistment is an oath of bondage," he said. "It brands the man who takes it as of a lower caste. I am opposed to any service except that rendered by willing men."

The Major proposed that no enlistments be required and that the men trained annually be permitted to leave the service at will.

Captain Mosely explained the purposes of his bill, already before the committee, to provide for the training annually of a million boys 19 years old. He said thirty-six training divisions, properly distributed through the country, should be created as permanent training factories. In case of war each of these would constitute an army division with the regiments raised to war strength by summoning back to the colors the last two classes graduated.

Dr. Lucien Howe of Buffalo, President of the American Medical Association, heading the delegation of medical men, told the committee that military training would go far toward correcting the alarming increase in physical defectives in the United States which is now physically a sub-standard nation with the highest middle age death rate in the world, due to preventable ailments.

NO DAMAGES FOR CHALONER

But Supreme Court Gives Him Hope of Quashing Lunacy Charges.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—What the plaintiff in error regards as his "first line of attack" was completed today in the long-drawn-out litigation over the right of John Armstrong Chaloner to exercise possession of his property in the State of New York. The United States Supreme Court decided that the action in trover for damages for withholding from him income from securities and moneys was completely met by the orders of the New York Supreme Court appointing a committee to take charge of Chaloner's estate, and that those orders were not only not void, but not subject to collateral attack.

"If the orders ought to be set aside," said Justice Brandeis, who rendered the opinion, "because they were entered corruptly, irregularly, or inadvertently, or because, owing to a change in the plaintiff's condition, a committee is no longer needed, the remedy must be sought in direct proceedings to that end. There is no evidence of an attempt made to vacate or modify the orders."

The action thus decided today was brought in 1904 in the Circuit Court for the Southern District of New York and transferred under the judicial code in 1912 to the United States District Court. The aim was to set aside two orders by the New York Supreme Court appointing W. A. Butler as a committee to take charge of Chaloner's estate, and later substituting Thomas T. Sherman for Mr. Butler.

Mr. Chaloner was in court when today's decision was rendered, and later gave out a statement indicating his satisfaction with suggestions in the opinion that proper proceedings might now be taken in the New York courts to set aside or modify the order appointing the committee on the ground that the order was improvidently entered, or that the necessity for a committee no longer existed.

TO CURB SUPREME COURT.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Senator Owen introduced in the Senate today a joint resolution designed to take away from the United States Supreme Court the right to declare an act of Congress unconstitutional. The assumption of this power by the Federal courts, Senator Owen declared, "interferes with the reasonable exercise of the sovereignty of the people of the United States and diverts it from the hands of the people, in Congress assembled, to a tribunal appointed for life and subject to no review and to no control by the people of the United States, and is therefore against wise public policy." It is understood that the introduction of the resolution at this time was suggested by the litigation over the constitutionality of the Adamson law, now before the Supreme Court.

"In the Constitutional Convention in which the Constitution of the United States was framed," says the resolution, "the motion was three times made to give to the Supreme Court in some mild form the right to express an opinion upon the constitutionality of acts of Congress, and was three times overwhelmingly rejected."

then characterizes as a usurpation of power the declaration by a Judge that the acts of Congress are unconstitutional, and provides that any Judge who makes such a declaration shall be adjudged guilty of violating the constitutional requirement of good behavior, and his office shall be vacated.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS NAMED.

Mayor Mitchel Appoints Commissioners, Including Negro.

Mayor Mitchel announced yesterday the appointment of twelve Commissioners of Education. Four of the present members are reappointed; five of the new members have been appointed for a full term of five years and three for unexpired terms to fill vacancies. Five of the present board were not reappointed. As foretold on Sunday, one of the new members is a negro, Dr. E. P. Roberts of 242 West Fifty-third Street, who receives a full five-year term. The other appointees are:

Manhattan—Isadore M. Levy, reappointed; Cornelius J. Sullivan, reappointed; Joseph P. Brennan, 68 East Ninety-third Street, appointed for five-year term; Mrs. Irma B. Levy, 2 East Fifty-fifth Street, appointed to succeed George J. Gillespie, resigned, whose term expires Dec. 31, 1917.

Brooklyn—Joseph Barondess, reappointed; James H. Post, 88 Remsen Street, member of the firm of B. H. Howell, Son & Co., and President of the National Sugar Refining Company of New Jersey, appointed for five-year term; George F. Allison, 265 Clinton Avenue, lawyer, appointed to succeed Miss Mary E. Drier, resigned, whose term expires Dec. 31, 1919.

The Bronx—Elisha Harris Janes, 2,205 Sedgwick Avenue, architect, appointed for five-year term; William J. Weber, 800 Fairmont Place, printing business, appointed for a term of four years to succeed Thomas J. Carroll, deceased, (term expires Dec. 31, 1920.)

Richmond—John Martin, reappointed.

Those whose terms expired and were not reappointed are Thomas M. De Laney, D. J. McDonald, M. D., Morton Stein, Rupert B. Thomas, and Frank D. Wilsey.

SERBIAN ENVOY DUE TODAY.

Minister Mihailovitch the First to Represent His Government Here.

Ljubomir Mihailovitch, Serbia's first Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States, will arrive today from Paris on the American Line steamship St. Paul. He was formerly Chargé at Rome and later Minister to Montenegro, resident in Paris.

M. Mihailovitch is 45 years old, and educated in Serbian universities and in Paris, and is unmarried. Accompanying him is Alexandre Georgevitch, first Secretary of the new legation.

The announcement of M. Mihailovitch's appointment was made in Washington on Nov. 18, 1916, when word was received from George L. Lorillard, special agent of the State Department with the Serbian Government in Corfu, Greece.

PRESBYTERY MOVES FOR UNITED CHURCH

New York Body Votes for Consolidation of North and South Divisions.

UP TO GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Overture Is Aimed to Wipe Out Misunderstanding of Civil War Days.

A move to unite the Presbyterian Church North with the Presbyterian Church South, which have been separated since civil war days, was made yesterday at a meeting of the New York Presbytery held in the First Presbyterian Church, Twelfth Street and Fifth Avenue. The motion was introduced by the Rev. William Payson Merrill, pastor of the Brick Church, and was carried unanimously. It will come up for final action at the North Church General Assembly in May at Dallas, Texas, and if the vote is accepted a committee will be formed to consult with the Church South.

Such a consolidation would give the Presbyterian Church a united membership of more than 2,000,000 and would result in a co-ordination of effort that would greatly stimulate foreign missionary work. A like step has for some time been agitated in the Methodist Church, which also split in 1861.

In introducing his motion, Dr. Merrill said that he did so in the belief that it was the only way in which the misunderstandings of past years could be wiped out. Dr. J. F. Forbes, Stated Clerk of the Presbytery, said the introduction of the motion marked an epoch in Presbyterian history. The motion, officially termed an overture, follows:

> The Presbytery of New York hereby overtures the General Assembly in session at Dallas, Texas, May, 1917:
> 1. That the General Assembly expresses its fraternal affection for the Presbyterian Church in the United States and its earnest desire for reunion at the earliest time consistent with the arrangements of necessary details on the basis of our common inheritance of faith and order, and the prevalence of mutual confidence and love which are necessary to a happy union and to permanent peace and prosperity of the United Church.
> 2. That the General Assembly appoint a committee for the purpose of conferring with the representatives of the Presbyterian Church in the United States in regard to the desirability and practicability of reunion, and if, after conference and inquiry, such reunion shall seem to be desirable and practicable to suggest suitable measures for its accomplishment and report to a future assembly.

The overture was seconded by Professor William Adams Brown of Union Theological Seminary, who based his desire for unity on what he learned during his recent visit to Japan and China. There both South and North churches are represented in missionary work, which, Professor Brown said, could be better accomplished under a united direction. Dr. D. G. Wylie, Secretary of the Board of Church Erection, in favoring the adoption of the motion, said that he was thankful that it had been presented.

The Moderator of the Presbytery, Dr. H. G. Mendenhall, in supporting the measure, recalled that he had been a member of the Assembly of 1882 when reunion was almost accomplished. He said that he was proud that "as the son of a Federal officer he could extend the hand of love and peace to the sons of Confederate soldiers in the Southern Church."

The Southern Presbyterian Church separated from the Northern Presbyterian Church in 1861 on issues that grew out of the civil war. In the General Assembly of that year, which met in Philadelphia, the Rev. Dr. Gardiner Spring, pastor of the Brick Church in this city, introduced a set of resolutions which have since gone in ecclesiastical history as the Spring Resolutions. These, among other things, declared it to be the duty of the ministry and churches under its [the General Assembly's] care to do all in their power to promote and perpetuate the integrity of the United States and to strengthen and encourage the Federal Government."

The two sections of the church have at different times sought to bring about reunion, and this object was almost accomplished in 1882, when a so-called explanatory resolution, passed by the Northern Assembly, defeated the matter. The two denominations in doctrinal belief are one, as the Westminster Confession of Faith is the basis of the common faith.

PRESBYTERIAN S O S.

Adopt 'Save Our Sabbath!' as Slogan in Fight Against Sunday Movies

The wireless S O S, translated into "Save Our Sabbath," was the slogan that caused the New York Presbytery to unite against legalizing the Sunday moving pictures. The phrase was coined by the Rev. H. L. Bowlby, Secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, who said that the motion-picture interests had "loosened their torpedoes, shot from submarines, and that unless friends of the Sabbath bestir themselves the Sabbath ship will be lost to a Continental Sunday."

Dr. Bowlby reported that the movies have already taken away from the city's Presbyterian churches a third of the boys and girls. Up in the Bronx, the Rev. G. A. Gantz said, parents no longer sent their children to Sunday school, but take them to the movies instead. A resolution was accepted whereby every church will send protests to Albany.

MUST DEFEND PROGRESS.

Government's Imperative Duty, Gov. Johnson Says in Farewell Address.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 8.—In a farewell address to the California Legislature, Governor Hiram W. Johnson, United States Senator-elect, today reviewed progress in this State during the last six years under his administration, and asserted that Government achievements could be maintained only by ability to defend them.

"We have learned," Governor Johnson said, "that the first obligation and duty of Government are to its men and its women and its children. Six years ago California was one of the most backward States in the nation; today it is the most advanced State where democracy obtains. Recent world-wide events, the brief military operations of our own nation, have brought the sorrowful realization that we may only maintain and preserve our Governmental advance and achievements by our ability to defend them."

He called attention to the New York law for the physical training of school children.

CANADA TO REFINE METALS.

Plan Suggested Where U. S. Would Lose More War Business.

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—Another step in the process of transferring from the United States to Canada the business of munition making for the Entente Allies will be taken at the approaching session of the Dominion Parliament, it was indicated here today by Finance Minister White.

It is expected that a Government bill will be introduced which will provide aid by bounty or tariff for the refining of lead, copper, and zinc in Canada.

Great supplies of metals required for shell manufacturing exist in the ore in the Dominion, but most of the refining of it is done in the United States. The proposed plan of Government encouragement is attributed to the increasing volume of the munition business in Canada.

DEMOCRACY REBELS AT PRINCETON CLUBS

Grover Cleveland's Son Leads Movement for New Social Standards at University.

THE FACULTY IN SYMPATHY

Sophomore Protestants Would Have All Students Dine at Commons in Equality.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 8.—Students and members of the faculty of Princeton believe the fate of the Princeton system of dining clubs may be determined by the attack made by a group of sophomores of which Richard F. Cleveland, a son of Grover Cleveland, is a prominent member.

The dining club system, which began in 1878, two years after the abolition of secret societies, is confined to the two upper classes at Princeton, and the seventeen dining clubs have 85 per cent. of the two upper classes for members. The existence of the clubs was threatened when Woodrow Wilson was President of Princeton, but they survived when his efforts to establish a "quad" system failed.

The present attack is the first serious movement started from within the ranks of the students themselves. It was launched openly in a letter in today's Princetonian written by young Cleveland and four others, arraigning the alleged undemocratic tendencies of the clubs.

Dr. John Grier Hibben, President of the university, issued a statement commending the movement. Princeton professors said today that the majority of the Faculty was in sympathy with the attack. Several prominent seniors, including George W. Perkins, Jr., all of whom are members of clubs, signed a letter to The Princetonian today, expressing sympathy with the stand taken by Cleveland and his associates.

The five signers of the sophomore letter of protest were D. K. E. Bruce of Baltimore, R. F. Cleveland of Princeton, S. Lloyd, Jr., of New York; J. S. Schmalz of Buffalo, and H. H. Strater of Louisville. Other members of the original group of ten which started the movement are H. D. Knower of Cincinnati, Duncan M. McCulloch of Baltimore, K. B. and R. Z. Mickey of Cleveland, R. C. Sailer of Englewood, and W. M. Fletcher, Jr., of Ivy Depot, Va.

These sophomores have announced that they would not accept nomination to any of the dining clubs which select their new members in March each year. About ten others joined in promising to refuse invitations. Richard Cleveland, a big, yellow-haired young fellow, refused today to make any prediction of the number of sophomores who would pledge themselves to board during the next two years at the commons. If a considerable body of sophomores agree to remain out of the dining clubs, some of the seventeen will necessarily go to the wall next year for lack of financial support.

President Hibben told a NEW YORK TIMES reporter today that the main fault of the club system was that, since 85 per cent. of the students were members, the few who because of lack of money, or for other reasons, did not belong were marked in a disagreeable way.

A commons was established for the freshmen in 1906 and one for the sophomores in 1908. New buildings have been erected for this purpose, and President Hibben announced in his statement today that upper classmen who wished to board at the new commons building, which will be opened next term, would have that privilege.

While this movement and that led by President Wilson during his last years at Princeton both contemplated the abolition of the dining clubs, their other objects are entirely different. Under President Wilson's "quad" system, the students would have boarded as well as lodged in separate buildings. The insurgent sophomores of today, however, want the clubs abolished so that all the students will dine at commons.

Cleveland and his associates expect that, even if the plan is successful, the forcing out of the clubs will be a gradual process. The property of the seventeen clubs is worth considerably more than $1,000,000, and the question of finding other uses for it would be serious. Only graduate members living at Princeton, or who make visits here, are allowed to make the clubs their homes, as the students all live in the university dormitories. In the letter setting forth their position, the five sophomores said:

"In a small college such as Princeton, cut off from the outside world, conditions are most favorable for democracy, but the clubs, by setting up false standards, oppose this democracy. Making a club is usually considered the most important event in college life. Not to make a club constitutes failure; and a man's success is measured by the prestige of the club to which he is elected. In order to achieve this success, a man must repress his individuality enough to conform to the standards which upper classmen may determine."

Other arguments in the letter are that, if the clubs did not exist, it might be presumed that the large sums which the alumni now contribute to them would go to the university for broader uses and that, after the new commons are erected, there will be no necessity for the clubs, considered as eating houses.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., has sent out invitations for a supper and dance which she is to give on Monday night, Jan. 15, at her house, 666 Fifth Avenue, for Miss Flora Whitney, the débutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Whitney.

Mrs. William Pierson Hamilton is the hostess tonight for the dance at the Colony Club, to be held in aid of the New York City Visiting Committee. Many dinners will precede the dance. One for the younger set will be held at the club by Miss Isabel Stettinius.

Miss Helen Fiske, daughter of Haley Fiske, and the Rev. Edward D. Evans of Baltimore, Md., are to be married at 10 o'clock this morning in the Church of St. Mary the Virgin. A reception and breakfast will follow at the bride's home, 39 Riverside Drive.

The wedding of Miss Leila B. Larendon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Washington Larendon, and Ezra Hunt Dyer of St. Louis will take place at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, 311 Riverside Drive.

Mrs. Henry M. Tilford is to hold a large dance tonight at Sherry's for her two daughters, Mrs. David Wagstaff and Mrs. Stanley G. Mortimer. The guests will be chiefly the young married set.

Mrs. Joseph Flannery entertained with a small dance last evening at her home, 612 Fifth Avenue, for Miss Viola Flannery and Miss Honor Henry, both débutantes.

Southland Ball on Thursday Night.

The Southland ball, the annual charity ball which is given under the auspices of the New York Southern Society, will be held on Thursday evening at the Hotel Astor. One of the chief features of the ball will be a Japanese garden and lake in the centre of the ballroom. The music will be furnished by a Russian, a Guatemalan, and a Southern orchestra.

The proceeds from the affair will be devoted to the fund for the destitute Southerners in New York. The fund now exceeds $30,000, and the income from it has been used for the relief work for several years.

McQuillen-Martinez Engagement.

Mrs. Robert C. McQuillen of Cambridge, Mass., announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Catherine McQuillen to Edward L. Martinez, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Miguel R. Martinez (Maria de la C. Varela) of 50 East Fifty-eighth Street, this city. Mr. Martinez was graduated from Williams College in 1915. He is a member of the Seawanhaka Yacht Club and Squadron A. John M. R. Martinez is his brother.

Miss Knauth to Wed H. F. Dunbar.

Mrs. Antonio Knauth of 321 West Ninety-second Street and Lake George has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Ilse Knauth, to Henry Fowler Dunbar, son of the late Judge James R. Dunbar and Mrs. Dunbar of Brookline, Mass. Miss Knauth is a student at Bryn Mawr College. Mr. Dunbar, who was graduated from Harvard in 1913, is now taking a course at Columbia University. No date has been set for the wedding.

Col. Cody Told His Death Is Near.

DENVER, Col., Jan. 8.—The condition of Colonel William F. Cody, known best as "Buffalo Bill," was improved slightly today, and he sent for cards and played for a time with members of his family. He also discussed with them plans for reorganizing his Wild West show. Later in the day he sent for Dr. J. H. East, his physician, and asked what was his chance for life. Dr. East told him that his death was but a matter of a short time, and afterward said that the old scout would die within thirty-six hours. Buffalo Bill took the bad news with his accustomed stoicism and began making his final arrangements.

Automobiles on Time Payments

Buy a Standard Car On the Guaranty Plan

Of course you would not buy a car on any haphazard time-payment arrangement. If you are entitled to credit you have the right to buy a car on the Guaranty Plan. It assures you of business-like terms and courteous treatment.

When you buy a car on the Guaranty Plan you avoid the red-tape, delays, uncertainty, legal complications, exorbitant charges and publicity that go with the average time-payment arrangement. Your note is put in the safety deposit vault of our trust company. It is not hawked about in payment of other people's debts.

You choose from any one of 23 recognized makes. Guaranty Recognition implies that a car is a standard product made by an established organization that renders service.

You pay for the car just as you might pay for a house—a small sum down and the balance in equal monthly amounts, like rent.

Thousands of the best people all over this country and Canada are enjoying cars bought on the Guaranty Plan. During the past few months we have financed over $26,000,000 worth of cars.

There is every reason why you should own a car, provided you are entitled to credit. We shall welcome the opportunity of facilitating your purchase. We cordially invite you to visit us in the Equitable Building, or to mail us your name and address. We will explain the Guaranty Plan in detail and put you in touch with a responsible dealer.

Invitation to Visiting and Resident Dealers

Sixty-four per cent of the purchasers on the Guaranty Plan were introduced to dealers by us. Wouldn't you like to have purchasers introduced to you?

This is the only time-payment plan that costs you absolutely nothing. Use it and you will get every cent of your cash-sale profit on time sales. The Guaranty Plan opens up a big new field of desirable purchasers and links them to you through its advertising. You would not bother with an unadvertised motor car. Why use an unknown, unstandardized, unadvertised time-payment arrangement?

We shall be glad to meet you in person at our office or to hear from you through the mail.

Invitation to Visiting Manufacturers and their Representatives

Manufacturers and their representatives are cordially invited to visit us while in New York for the Shows. We will be glad to talk with them regarding the details of the Guaranty Plan for financing dealers, as well as time-payment sales at retail. We suggest telephone appointments. Our number is Rector 7580.

Miss Eliza Haynes Gave Bulk of It for Memorial to Mother.

The New York Magdalen Society of Inwood is the chief legatee under the will of Miss Eliza Jane Haynes, who leaves her residuary estate, understood to be between $50,000 and $100,000, to erect the Eliza H. Haynes Memorial on the property in honor of the decedent's mother, who died on Dec. 15. Miss Haynes gave her valuable collection of paintings to the Metropolitan Museum of Art. She left $5,000 to the Convent of Mount St. Ursula at Bedford Park, and $2,000 each to the Door of Hope, Tappan, N. Y.; St. Mary's Free Hospital for Crippled Children, Harvard Mission and Home for Little Wanderers, Washington Square Home for Friendless Girls, and the Society of Helpers of the Holy Soul. The Bide-a-Wee Home for Animals received $1,000.

Miss Haynes left the income of $20,000 to her friend, Lulu Leah Getz, and on her death the principal is to be distributed in sums of $5,000 each to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, St. Barnabas House, Servants for Relief of Incurable Cancer, and House of Mercy. She distributed a collection of jewelry among friends by a paper she left which is independent of her will.

Charles D. Baker.

Charles D. Baker, a member of the editorial staff of The Brooklyn Daily Eagle, and prior to that for several years with The Brooklyn Daily Times, died on Sunday night in a drug store at Coney Island Avenue and Church Street, Brooklyn, where he was taken after being stricken in the street while waiting for a street car to take him to his home, 633 Decatur Street. Mr. Baker was born in Brooklyn seventy years ago, and in 1877 began the publication of an illustrated monthly called "Our Neighborhood." Later he became an editorial writer on The Standard Union. Mr. Baker was for three terms President of the Suffolk County Association.

Admiral Warrender Dead.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Vice Admiral Sir George John Scott Warrender died here today in his sixty-seventh year. He was appointed to the command of the Plymouth Naval Station on Jan. 20, 1916, previously being in command of the Second Battle Squadron.

Admiral Warrender was the seventh Baronet of Lochend, East Lothian, Scotland, and was born in Scotland. He entered the Royal Navy in 1873 as a cadet, becoming a Commander in 1893, a Captain in 1899 and a Rear Admiral in 1908. Twice he saw active service on land, the first time during the Zulu war of 1879, and then during the China war of 1900, when he was a Flag Captain to the Rear Admiral of the China Squadron.

J. Finlayson, Explorer, Dies at 105.

WRANGELL, Alaska, Jan. 8.—John Finlayson, an explorer, for whom Finlayson River and Finlayson Lake in Yukon territory were named, died today, aged 105 years. Finlayson was a native of Scotland. He prospected and mined gold in California and Oregon until he was 86 years old and then went to British Columbia and Yukon territory, where he explored large areas in which white men had never penetrated.

Col. Sage, Ex-Warden of Sing Sing.

CATSKILL, N. Y., Jan. 8.—Colonel Omar V. Sage, warden of Sing Sing Prison from 1894 to 1901, died at his home here last night, aged 82 years. Heart disease and other ailments attendant upon old age caused his death. After resigning the Sing Sing wardenship Colonel Sage was appointed Superintendent of the House of Refuge, Randall's Island, New York City, where he remained six years. Previous to his appointment to Sing Sing Colonel Sage had been County Clerk and member of the Assembly from Greene County.

SEAMANS ESTATE $467,520.

Typewriter Maker's Bequests Scaled After Appraisal.

Through the appraisal of his estate filed yesterday with the Brooklyn Surrogate, it was learned that Clarence W. Seamans of the Remington Typewriter Company, Ilion, N. Y., who died on May 30, 1915, left $903,412.45 gross, and debts of $435,892.16, a net estate of $467,520.29.

The bequests to his widow, Mrs. Ida Gertrude Seamans, who takes the home of the decedent at 789 St. Mark's Avenue, valued at $150,000, include a life interest in $65,000, and personalty of $18,446.50. After the appraisal had shown that payment in full to the widow would prevent payments of $50,000 each to Mabel G. L. Seamans and Dorothy Seamans, daughters, their portions were cut to $28,707 apiece. A life interest in $32,560 willed to each of them was allowed to stand.

Similarly a bequest of $35,000 to the decedent's sister, Cornelia Seamans of Ilion, was scaled down to $20,095, while a brother, Francis Marion Seamans, gets $28,707, instead of $50,000.

The estate's realty holdings amount to $280,250 and include a $50,000 farm at Glen Cove, L. I. Mr. Seamans's holdings in the Remington Company were appraised at $309,620.

Is Your Son Successful at School?

Failure in his studies will shake his confidence in himself and make him less fitted mentally and morally to enter the larger struggle. Let us teach him to CONCENTRATE, as we have many boys and girls who had been unsuccessful at "large class" schools. The Clark Method of constant individual encouragement and examination by teachers who KNOW their subjects and who teach almost wholly without text books, engenders quiet, concentrated effort on the part of the student. A long record of remarkable results has established the great value of Clark methods for either the "slow," normal, or brilliant student. Glance over the following

TYPICAL CLARK-CONCENTRATION SUCCESS

English and Composition	45	Virgil and Sight Reading	30
Literature	50	Elementary German	53
Latin Grammar	45	Algebra	25
Elementary Latin Composition	15	Plane Geometry	33
Chemistry	39

The foregoing was the report given by the College Entrance Board to a student who had spent four years in another preparatory school in this city. The same student, after taking our concentration courses for 9 months, passed the College Entrance Examination Board recently in the following subjects:—

English Grammar and Composition	60	American History	60
English Literature	74	Elementary Algebra, Complete	66
Elementary German	63	Chemistry	60
Advanced German	60	*Cicero and Sight Reading	75
Elementary French	65	*Virgil and Sight Reading	75
Plane Geometry	67	*Advanced Latin Composition	75

*For Harvard.

Details of above and many similar cases shown on request. WRITE for Booklet. 'PHONE Columbus 744. CALL between 10 and 12 or 2 and 5.

The 2nd Series of ten lectures on APPLIED CONCENTRATION, of interest to professional and business men, will be given in the State Apartment of the WALDORF-ASTORIA HOTEL, every Thursday evening beginning Thursday, February 1st, at 8 P. M.

'THE LODGER' PROVES HIGHLY AMUSING

Beryl Mercer Makes Off with the Honors of a New English Comedy.

ONE OF ANNESLEY VACHELL'S

With Lionel Atwill Hammering in an Insufficient Imitation of Henry Ainley.

THE LODGER.—A comedy in three acts, by Horace Annesley Vachell, from the novel of the same name by Mrs. Belloc Lowndes, At the Maxine Elliott Theatre.

Mrs. Bunting	Beryl Mercer
Mr. Bunting	Harry Ashford
Irene Harding	Phyllis Relph
Tom Bunting	Harold Becker
The Lodger	Lionel Atwill
Prentiss	Frederick Annerley
Inspector Stone	Frank Howson
Policemen	Morgan Kelly and Charles Phillips

Most of the English plays brought here this season have been ghastly failures, but the one presented unostentatiously at the Maxine Elliott Theatre last evening came honestly by the plentiful laughter of genuine amusement which greeted it. This is "The Lodger," a pleasant, somewhat repetitious, but quite diverting comedy by that busy playwright, Horace Annesley Vachell. Under the name of "Who Is He?" and enriched by the presumably skillful performance of Henry Ainley, it ran its brief course at the Haymarket in London a season or so ago. Mr. Ainley, unfortunately, is not in the present company, which includes, however, a capital actress named Beryl Mercer, who calmly made off with all the honors of the first night.

"The Lodger," which, as the theatrefolk say, came into New York "on rubbers," is a dramatization of a novel of the same name by Mrs. Belloc Lowndes. It concerns the distracting adventures of an agreeable young eccentric, Lord Twyford of Twyford, who, plunged into morose melancholy when the lady of his heart jilts him, drops out of sight and takes up lodgings under an assumed name in a shabby lodging house. There his discarded heart is picked up by a pretty girl in hard luck, but their romance develops under the oppressive difficulties caused by the fact that his landlady and her stepson suspect the mysterious lodger of being The Avenger, a sensational murderer very much at large just then in 'orrified Bloomsbury.

All this is entertainingly unfolded and well enough played, except by one Lionel Atwill and one Phyllis Relph, who, for reasons not yet apparent, are presented on the programs as stars. Of these two inconspicuous players, Miss Relph is a youthful Lillah McCarthy and Mr. Atwill, in this rôle, at least, is an insufficient imitation of Henry Ainley, one of several brilliant English actors who, by keeping close to the Strand, prevent their country from being as ably represented here as it might be. Mr. Atwill is pleasant in person and possesses a fine, dynamic vitality, but he drives in his every point as if he were bound that no defective in the last row of the gallery should miss one of them. It is acting of the hammer-and-tongs school, which raises havoc with a play of such slight stuff as "The Lodger."

Mr. Atwill took last evening the curtain calls evidently intended by the audience for Miss Mercer, who has always amused New York playgoers, and who is enormously laughable as the tender-hearted but suspicious landlady. Harry Ashford and Harold Becker also help along the humors of a comedy which puts to blush most of the pieces England has sent us since the war began.

WISE AGAIN AS FALSTAFF.

He Returns in "The Merry Wives of Windsor" at the Park.

Thomas A. Wise returned to the local stage as the fat knight of Shakespeare's comedy, "The Merry Wives of Windsor," last night at the Park Theatre. It was at the Criterion last Spring that the chance of impersonating Sir John Falstaff, a character he had longed to play for many years, came to Mr. Wise, an opportunity brought about by the illness of James K. Hackett on the eve of his revival of the comedy.

Too few theatregoers saw how completely Mr. Wise realized his great expectation, since the engagement was a brief one. His impersonation of Falstaff is a fine bit of character delineation—a portrait worthy of a place in the actors' hall of fame of this or any other generation. Silvio Hein, who is responsible for the present revival, has surrounded the star with a splendid cast. Constance Collier plays the rôle of Mistress Ford, a part in which she was seen to advantage in Sir Herbert Tree's revival at the New Amsterdam last Spring, and Isabel Irving is the Mistress Page. Auriol Lee is the Mistress Quickly, W. Lawson Butt the Mr. Ford, and Gordon Burby the Mr. Page. Then there are Vera Fuller Mellish, Fuller Mellish, Robert Mantell, Jr., David Lindsay, Robert Craig, and Marcel Rousseau in other rôles.

The beautiful settings Josef Urban provided for Mr. Hackett's production have given way to a more conventional mis-en-scene from the studios of Joseph Physioc.

'The Master' Moves to the Bandbox.

Arnold Daly transferred "The Master" from the stage of the Fulton to that of the Bandbox last night to see whether the drama, which is an adaptation of the German original of Hermann Bahr and is essentially Teutonic in spirit in spite of the veneer of an American locale, might not thrive better in a theatre more closely identified with the German drama and in a neighborhood having a strong German strain. Mr. Daly has kept the original company practically intact for his experiment.

TWO BILLIARDISTS FACE PRO CHARGES

Charles Heddon and Corwin Huston Accused Before National Amateur Body.

At the annual meeting of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players held last night at the Amateur Billiard Club, charges of professionalism were made against Corwin Huston of Detroit and Charles Heddon of Dowagiac, Mich., two of the most proficient balkline experts in the Middle West. Both have several times been contenders for the national Class A championship, Heddon being a contestant a year ago. Huston made his last appearance two years ago at the tournament in Philadelphia.

Whether the charges will be substantiated or not remains with the Executive Committee of the association. The delegates last night voted to leave the decision to that body. It is alleged that Heddon and Huston are financially interested in the Sweeney-Huston billiard room in Chicago.

Under the amateur rule of the billiard association the charge that the two men are interested in the room is sufficient evidence to cause an investigation. On the other hand it is not absolutely binding that the men be declared professionals even though their connection with the room is proved. That is a discretionary power lodged in the Executive Committee in this case. It was said last night that in several letters sent by Heddon to members of the Executive Committee there was sufficient evidence by his own admissions to cause a charge of professionalism. A recent letter from Heddon, who had then learned of the probability of a charge being made against him, asked that he be allowed the privilege of resigning from the association if it was felt that he had transgressed the laws of the governing body.

Heddon was in the East a short time ago, and arrangements were made to have him meet the Executive Committee of the billiard association at a dinner, so that there might be a discussion of his case. He telegraphed at the last moment, saying that he would not be present, but that he would be in the city the following day. It was possible then for only J. Ferdinand Poggenburg to meet him, and, as Mr. Poggenburg died before he had an opportunity to put his report in writing, the billiard association has no record of the proceeding.

Huston, it is said, has once before been under the ban, being what is known as a reinstated player. While he was studying at the University of Michigan he worked at his brother's billiard room, and he was barred from the amateur ranks. At the solicitation of Heddon he was reinstated. The clauses of the amateur rule which particularly refers to the case of the two men read:

"Financial interest in billiard rooms, hotels, or clubs shall not constitute per se professionalism, but such interest may be considered as competent evidence bearing on a man's amateur standing.

"This definition shall be interpreted to exclude from the competitions under the jurisdiction of this association, room keepers or room employes."

Heddon & Huston are presumed to be back of the movement to launch an amateur billiard association which shall rival the control of the N. A. A. B. P. The action last night is taken to be the answer of the Eastern men.

On the other hand, one action taken last night tended to indicate that a compromise might be effected. A committee was appointed to go over the constitution, by-laws, and rules of the association and make such changes as were desirable. Several have been proposed by Heddon, and these may be incorporated, particularly one of them demanding shorter games in Class A, and another permitting amateurs to play with professionals even where gate receipts are charged.

George T. Moon, Jr., was elected President of the association to succeed Louis Reusche, who declined re-election. However, he accepted the position of Vice President. Walter C. Douglas was re-elected Secretary, and G. O. Rudolphy remains as Treasurer. The new Executive Committee is composed of Frank Airy, James Pryor Allen, Francis S. Appleby, Louis A. Servatius, and Robert Weld.

PENN CREWS CALLED OUT.

Coach Wright Issues Order to Oarsmen to Report Today.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Jan. 8.—All belief among undergraduates at the University of Pennsylvania that Joe Wright would be unable to coach the Red and Blue crews this season vanished this afternoon when the Canadian rowing mentor appeared in the Athletic Association quarters and issued a call for crew candidates to report in Weightman Hall tomorrow.

Coach Wright arrived in town at noon and immediately began active preparations to drill the oarsmen. Since last Autumn there had been some question whether Wright would be at Penn this Winter and Spring, because he is in the Government service in Canada, and it was feared he would not succeed in obtaining a furlough.

In letters to the athletic authorities at Penn Wright said he would do all in his power to coach the crews this season. His appearance today, therefore, brought joy to rowing enthusiasts at Penn. Beginning tomorrow, the candidates will practice on the machines daily until weather permits rowing on the Schuylkill.

Candidates for the track team have also been called out by Coach Lawton Robertson. As a majority of last year's star trackmen have been lost to the Red and Blue by graduation, Coach Robertson will have a difficult time in rounding out a 'Varsity team. He has, however, the best material for the freshman team that has reported in years.

STUYVESANT WINS IN POOL.

Garrigus Lowers Interscholastic 50-Yard Swimming Record.

The Stuyvesant High School swimming team added another victory to its long list yesterday in defeating the New Utrecht High School team at the Sixtieth Street baths by a score of 47 to 19. Stuyvesant took first place in all six events. Paul Garrigus again won the 50-yard swim in record time. Three watches were held on him, and the slowest recorded 0:26 4-5, which betters the interscholastic record. This mark will not stand, however, as it must be made in championship competition.

Garrigus also won the 220-yard swim. Kun of Stuyvesant won the fancy diving contest with 33 points, with McKee of New Utrecht second with 31.5. Spickel of Stuyvesant was first in the plunge for distance, with a plunge of sixty feet. De Brull of Stuyvesant won the 100-yard swim.

St. Ann's Quintet is Victor.

The St. Ann's Academy basket ball quintet defeated the Manhattan Prep. School five by a score of 25 to 15 yesterday afternoon on the courts of De La Salle Institute. The feature of the game was the accurate passing and clever floorwork of the winners.

SALM WINS AT PINEHURST.

Rapid Progress Made on First Day of Midwinter Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 8.—Although thirty-one players took part in the opening rounds of the annual midwinter tennis tournament at Pinehurst today, the first two rounds in the men's singles were disposed of and the women's singles were brought down to the semifinals. The luck of the draw scattered the leaders among the men players in different frames, and consequently today's matches aroused relatively little interest.

Count Otto Salm of the West Side Tennis Club, winner of the Maine championship at Bar Harbor, was pitted against Harlow Pearson, who is still very young for tournament tennis, and won by a margin of eleven games without exerting himself. Count Salm is not expected to have much trouble with Frank C. Lewis of the Norfolk Country Club, whom he meets tomorrow, although Lewis defeated J. H. Chandler of the New Casino Club today by 6—1, 6—2. Count Salm is expected to come through to the final.

J. D. E. Jones of the Agawam Hunt, Providence, several times Rhode Island champion, also had an easy time so far, and is saving himself for the later contests. Jones has two legs on the Midwinter Cup, and came within an ace of securing permanent possession thereof last season when he won two successive sets against Harold Throckmorton, the interscholastic champion, in the final, only to lose in the end. It is taken for granted here that Jones will come through to the final, and Pinehurst is looking forward to an exciting contest between Jones and Count Salm as finalists.

In the women's singles, Miss Florence Ballin, champion of the West Side Club, defeated Miss Esther Tufts of Boston and Miss Erna Wood of Brooklyn in succession, the score being 6—1, 6—1 in each instance. She will meet Miss Dorothy Brown of Montclair in the semi-finals. The other semi-finalists are Mrs. P. N. Davidson of Washington and Miss E. M. Cohen of Philadelphia.

GRADS OUTCLASS STUDENTS

Yale Club Squash Men Defeat Undergraduates in Straight Sets.

The Yale University squash tennis players were turned back to New Haven yesterday without having won a game in the match against the Yale Club, of this city, in a contest on the latter's courts. Six contests were played and in all except one of these the Yale Club men were the victors in straight games. The extra game contest was that in which R. Abbott of the Yale Club defeated T. Coward of the undergraduate team. Coward was easily outplayed in the first set, but in the second showed unexpected strength and wrested the honors from his older rival at 15—10. The third game also was a hard fought contest, but in this Abbott asserted his superiority, at 15—12.

The summaries:

H. W. Carhart, Yale Club, defeated W. Wright, Yale University, 15—2, 18—15; Dr. C. J. Maguire, Yale Club, defeated H. Carter, Yale University, 15—6, 18—15; O. Guernsey, Yale Club, defeated S. S. Walker, Yale University, 15—10, 15—12; E. R. Hudson, Yale Club, defeated W. Adams, Yale University, 15—2, 15—10; S. Wainwright, Yale Club, defeated S. Guryee, Yale University, 15—9, 15—7; R. Abbott, Yale Club, defeated T. Coward, Yale University, 15—4, 10—15, 15—12.

KING SMITH ADVANCES.

Reaches Third Round in Seventh Regiment Tennis Tourney.

The Seventh Regiment Tennis Club has started its annual tournament, the Class A division of which will determine the club champion of the year. The present holder of the title is King Smith. After drawing a first round bye he competed against J. L. Anderson in the second round and showed marked skill in banishing his rival by a score of 6—2, 7—5. Arthur S. Cragin, another of the prominent contenders, won a three set first round match from G. G. Grenz, with the score 6—3, 3—6, 6—4. He also came through the second round, but this advance was made by reason of the default of P. M. Hall.

The summaries:

Second Round—King Smith defeated J. L. Anderson, 6—2, 7—5; A. S. Cragin won from P. M. Hall by default; W. B. Cragin defeated T. A. Bruno, 6—0, 6—1.

Class B.—First Round—H. J. Robinson, Jr., defeated L. S. Lestrade, 6—4, 6—3; H. L. Follett defeated F. E. Acker, 6—2, 6—3; A. C. Postley defeated T. A. Bruno, 6—4, 6—3. Second Round—H. R. Houghton defeated J. L. Anderson, 7—5, 6—3.

Victory May Give Minnesotan a Chance to Box Jess Willard.

The first important boxing bout of the week will be staged at the Broadway Sporting Club of Brooklyn this evening, when Tom Cowler, the English heavyweight, and Fred Fulton of Rochester, Minn., meet for ten rounds. This contest has attracted considerable attention, and the outcome will be watched eagerly. Fulton's name has been mentioned frequently when talk of a match with Jess Willard has been revived, and upon the result of tonight's bout depends largely whether he is to receive further consideration as a possible contender for Willard's crown. Cowler also has considerable at stake in tonight's affair, for he has been going along at a fairly successful pace of late, and seems to have developed some promise.

Yale Club Makes Squash Entries.

Announcement was made yesterday of the entrants from the Yale Club for the Class B national squash tennis championship which will start Saturday. Twelve men are entered for the event: Dr. C. J. Maguire, L. Bradford, H. V. Crawford, H. I. Stern, H. W. Carhart, O. Guernsey, D. C. Malcolm, L. Platt, A. Corey, J. Ford Johnson, J. G. Tomlinson, Jr., and S. Wainwright.

HOCKEY MEN CLAIM MISTAKEN IDENTITY

Wellington and Bawlf Aver Their Brothers Are Pros—Sequin and Whitten Cleared.

It will not be known until after 6 o'clock this evening whether or not the Irish-American A. C. in its opening game of the Amateur Hockey League season at St. Nicholas Rink tonight will be permitted to play two of its best players, Duke Wellington and Tom Bawlf, who, according to Secretary R. L. Von Bernuth, are protested on the grounds of non-residence and professionalism.

The Executive Committee of the league held an exhaustive secret meeting at the rink last night, and heard testimony for and against the four protested members of the Irish seven. Patsy Sequin, the centre, was charged with being a professional because, it was alleged, he was employed by the rink in the capacity of skate sharpener. It was shown to the satisfaction of the committee that the protest, as charged against the player by the Hockey Club, was groundless, and the charge was dismissed.

The same action was taken in the case of Ray Whitten, the Boston player, who is now a member of the Irish-American A. C. team. The allegations against Whitten were lodged by the Boston A. A., but as the charges were not specific enough in their nature they were dismissed.

Much testimony was heard in the case against Bawlf and Whitten. A telegram was received from Thomas Ross, manager of the Pittsburgh A. A. team, who stated that while they played for that organization both of these players were amateurs. H. P. Miller of the Duquesne Garden of Pittsburgh was also at the rink to testify in the players' favor, but the committee did not call upon him.

Secretary Von Bernuth said that the cases of Wellington and Bawlf were pending, as the committee was waiting for further evidence from Canada. It is charged that both of these men played hockey in Winnipeg and Port Arthur, and the committee has wired to ascertain if they belonged to amateur or professional teams. Both players maintain that they have brothers playing on Canadian professional teams and that the charges against them are the result of a mix-up in identity.

PRO-OUIMET TICKET NAMED.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 8.—A pro-Ouimet ticket, admittedly pledged to bring about the reinstatement of the Woodland Golf Club's ineligibles, Francis Ouimet, Paul Tewksbury, and Jack Sullivan, has been filed in opposition to the regular list of nominations for officers and other members of the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Golf Association, to be acted upon at the annual meeting of the association Jan. 17. It is understood that Webster Thayer of Worcester has been named for President, Ralph Alden of Springfield for Vice President, Walter Clark of Wollaston for Treasurer, and B. K. Stephenson of Winchester for Secretary, and that Henry H. Wilder of the Country Club and L. B. Paton of Homestead are two of those named for the Executive Committee.

The regular nominations, made some time ago by a committee composed of E. A. Wilkie, R. A. Hale, and F. F. Cutler, are:

President—Henry H. Wilder, the Country Club; Vice President—Paul R. Clay; Merrimack Valley Country Club; Treasurer—Joseph B. Russell, Jr., Dedham Country and Polo Club; Secretary—B. K. Stephenson, Winchester Country Club; Executive Committee—Rodney W. Brown, Meadow Brook Golf Club; J. B. Chase, Woodland Golf Club; A. D. Locke, Brae-Burn Country Club; J. C. T. Baldwin, Chestnut Hill Golf Club, and S. K. Sterne, Worcester Country Club.

BROWN HOLDS ROBINSON.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 8.—Edward N. Robinson of Boston today renewed his contract with the Brown Athletic Association, and will continue to coach the Brown football elevens for the next three years.

Robinson has been coaching at Brown since 1900, with the exception of two breaks of two years each. In 1902 and 1903 he coached at Nebraska, and in 1908 and 1909 he coached the Tufts eleven. Previous to coming to Brown he coached at Exeter during the time that Tad Jones was a student at that school. Later he put in a year at the University of Maine, in charge of football and baseball.

Robinson was graduated from Brown in 1896, and during his college days won his letter in both baseball and football. He has been extremely successful with his Brown elevens, the climax coming this last Fall, when he developed the best team that ever represented the Providence institution, a team that went to the last game before having its goal line crossed.

Losing only five men from his squad of sixty, the prospects for the coming year are the brightest in the history of football at Brown. Robinson is a lawyer, practicing in Boston. The assistant coach has not yet been chosen. Earl Sprackling, the all-American back, who has filled that position for the last three years, may not be able to accept again on account of business.

Abe Attell Takes the Count.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 8.—Phil Virgets of New Orleans knocked out Abe Ateell, one-time featherweight champion, in the fourth of a scheduled ten-round bout here tonight. Attell was unconscious for five minutes.

YALE DEFEATS ST. JOHN'S.

Yale University's basket ball team interrupted the home winning streak of the St. John's College of Brooklyn five last night, when the Eli representatives triumphed in the annual tilt between the institutions on the Brooklyn court by a score of 35 to 25, in a keenly contested game. A large crowd witnessed the contest, every available nook of the gymnasium holding its seated or standing basket ball enthusiasts. When the final whistle was blown, with the count posted on the walls of the gymnasium showing the New Haven five the victors with a ten-point advantage, there were mingled expressions of chagrin over the loss of the game and praise for the plucky fight the Brooklyn five had made to down their more prominent rivals.

Both teams showed interesting play, and there were many spectacular moments, but a final rally in the second half, when Yale managed to chalk up a lead of four points, which gradually grew to the ten-point mark shortly before the final whistle, gave the Eli five the honors of the game despite the gallant battle of the St. John's five. In the opening half the play was closest, the whistle finding both teams locked at 15 points. In the second half the Brooklyn team remained on even terms with the Yale players until the latter's spurt, which carried victory with it. The all-around playing of Mallon, Yale's left guard, stood out as the feature. He also aided materially in is team's score, caging five goals from the field. For St. John's College Nicklas played a good game, and scored four times from the floor.

Yale, (35.)	Position.	St. John's, (25.)
Kinney	R. F.	Murphy
Olson	L. F.	Mahony
Garfield	C.	Farrell
Taft	R. G.	Barry
Mallon	L. G.	Goette

Goals from the field—Kinney, 5; Olson, 2; Taft, 2; Mallon, 5; Murphy, 1; Mahony, 1; Farrell, 3; Goette, 1; Lizzoli, 1; Nicklas, 4. Goals from foul—Kinney, 7; Murphy, 2; Nicklas, 1. Substitutions: For St. John's College—Lizzoli for Murphy, Nicklas for Goette. Referee—Ed Thorp, De La Salle Institute. Umpire—Mr. Deering, Manhattan. Time of halves—Twenty minutes.

OLSON TO QUIT DODGERS.

Shortstop Wants to Manage Coast Club—Other Baseball News.

Ivan Olson, the shortstop of the Brooklyn Club, will probably not be seen with the Dodgers during the coming season, as he is anxious to quit major league baseball and take the management of the Vernon Club of the Pacific Coast League. Manager Robinson is anxious to land a new shortstop, but he was going to hold Olson until he got a better player for the position. As Olson is so anxious to go to the Coast, however, Manager Robinson has decided not to stand in his way.

Waivers have been asked on Olson's services, and if all the clubs consent, the shortstop will take the Vernon job next season. President Charles H. Ebbets of the Dodgers will leave today for Hot Springs, Ark., to inspect the Brooklyn Club's training camp. The management will send out contracts this week. The players whose contracts hold over for another season are Pitchers Coombs, Marquard, and Cheney, Daubert, Merkle, and Outfielder Jimmy Johnston. Manager Robinson will take thirty players on the training trip.

President David L. Fultz of the Players' Fraternity would make no comment yesterday on the signing of contracts by Slim Sallee and Bill Ritter of the Giants. Both players are enrolled in the organization, each member of which received notice from the Executive Board some time ago not to sign his contract until the demands of the minor league players had been granted. Mr. Fultz said that he would give out a statement just as soon as he was certain that both of the Giants' players had signed. There is no doubt about the players having signed, as their contracts were filed at National League headquarters here yesterday.

The National Commission handed down a decision yesterday in the case of the Muscatine, Iowa, Club of the Central Association in which it is held that the only test that should be applied in the engagement of a minor league player is his willingness to play for a salary within the prescribed limit of the club desiring his services. Any other restrictions imposed by minor league legislation is declared null and void and against the national agreement rights.

The Muscatine Club complained that the Central Association had thrown out some of its victories because the club had violated a league rule which prohibited the employment of more than five veteran players on a club. The commission ruled that the association had no right to impose such a rule.

MINORS FACE EXTINCTION.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—A. R. Tearney, President of the Three I League, tonight invited President E. W. Dickerson of the Central League, F. C. Zehrung of the Western League, M. E. Justice of the Central Association, and James T. Hayes, owner of the Dapenport club of the Three I League, to meet in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Jan. 10 for a conference regarding internal affairs within their organizations.

Mr. Tearney is convinced that some of the minor leagues in the Central West face a further financial loss and possibly extinction unless radical changes are made before the start of the 1917 season. He hopes to bring about a re-districting of territory in the four leagues. He contends that at least one, and possibly two, of the leagues will not be able to start the season unless changes are made. There is to be a meeting of the Central Association club owners in Cedar Rapids on the date of the proposed conference.

Moore Wins at Three Cushions.

George Moore, three-cushion billiard champion, who is playing a series of exhibition matches at Doyle's Billiard Academy, defeated Albert G. Cutler in the initial match last night by a score of 40 to 31 in sixty-one innings. Moore's best run was 6, while Cutler's best effort netted him 5. Moore will meet Richard Soudder in his second exhibition tonight.

Six-Day Race in Chicago Feb. 11.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—Chicago's third annual six-day bicycle race will be held Feb. 11 to 17, it was announced today. Twenty-two riders, among them the stars of the sport, have been entered.

In January some folks might think a good stock of Summer things a white elephant—

But then they're forgetting the folks who flock south.

To be complete outfitters we must be just as ready with straw hats, white flannels and such like as we are with warm Winter suits and overcoats for the most of us who stay north.

Everything men and boys wear irrespective of seasons.

SYRACUSE TO PLAY BROWN.

Orange Eleven Gets Date Between Harvard and Yale Games.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 8.—Brown is to play Syracuse in this city on Saturday, Nov. 3. Coming between the Harvard and Yale games, which are to be played at Cambridge and New Haven as usual, it should provide a strong home attraction, something that was lacking in the tentative schedule as first announced. Brown played Syracuse two years ago on Andrews Field in this city, and Syracuse won by a score of 6 to 0. It is understood that a two-year agreement has been signed, but that the game to be played next year at Syracuse will come at a much earlier date, probably on one of the first Saturdays in October.

This past season Syracuse's New England game was with the Dartmouth eleven at Springfield. The big intercollegiate game at Springfield this year is to be between Dartmouth and Brown, these two colleges having patched up their athletic differences.

One more game has been added to the Brown schedule for next Fall. Middlebury is to play here on Saturday, Oct. 13, the day following the game with Holy Cross at Worcester. Two games on successive days will be somewhat of an innovation for a Brown eleven, but with a big squad no trouble is anticipated.

YALE STARS MAY ORGANIZE.

Plan to Form Club of "Y" Men at Football Celebration Jan. 19.

An elaborate entertainment has been arranged by the Yale Club for Tad Jones and his victorious Eli football stars, who will be guests of the club on Jan. 19. The festivities will open with a reception and will be followed by a dinner at the club. This dinner has been arranged by former 'Varsity men who have won their "Y" in football, baseball, track, or crew.

After the dinner the athletes and their hosts will journey to the Century Theatre to witness a performance of "The Century Girl." A notable feature of this part of the celebration is that the entire allotment of seats for the theatre on this night has been made to the Yale Club and will be sold to Yale men only. Following the theatrical performance another dinner will be served at the club.

This celebration will mark the first reunion of "Y" men, and it is expected that something more than a complimentary celebration of the visiting squad will be evolved out of the occasion. There is a plan to organize a permanent Yale 'Varsity Club, of which every "Y" man, past, present, and future, will become automatically a member upon earning his "Y." An invitation has been extended to all "Y" men who are not members of the Yale Club to participate in the celebration, to whom the privileges of the club have been extended.

Announcements of the celebration have been mailed to 4,000 Yale graduates. Special invitations have been extended to Professor William Howard Taft of Yale, former President of the United States; to President Arthur Twining Hadley of Yale, and to Frank H. Platt, President of the Yale Club.

The members of the committee in charge are: Noble Foster Hoggson, '88 S; George Townsend Adee, '95; Mortimer Norton Buckner, '95; John Watson Dixon, '95, and George Sheppard Chappell, '90.

Among the "Y" men who are arranging the dinner to the football squad are:

T. De W. Cuyler, '74; H. W. Cushing, '91; M. L. McBride, '00; J. W. Curtiss, '79; G. B. Case, '94; Burnside Winslow, '04; H. S. Brooks, '85; G. T. Adee, '95; A. L. Corey, '11; Wyllys Terry, '85; F. S. Butterworth, '95; J. A. Reilly, '12, S.; R. N. Corwin, '87; W. F. Carter, '95; D. M. Bomeisler, '13; J. A. Hartwell, '89; F. A. Hinckey, '95; J. T. Blossom, '14; C. H. Sherrill, '89; G. C. Greenway, Jr., '98, S.; J. S. Spraker, '15; F. W. Wallace, '89; James W. Wadsworth, '98; W. M. Oler, Jr., '16; A. B. Coxe, '87; F. W. Allen, '00; A. D. Sturdevant, '16, S.

49 IN BELMONT STAKES.

Final Declarations for Withers Event Also Announced.

Final declarations for the Withers and Belmont Stakes of 1917, which were due on Jan. 1, were announced yesterday by Secretary Earlocker of the Westchester Racing Association. These races are for three-year-olds exclusively, and the withdrawals show that few horses of importance have been taken out. Harry Payne Whitney has decided that seven of his richly bred youngsters did not do well enough in thei rtwo-year-old form to warrant their being continued as contenders for these stakes. Consequently the pen has been run through the names of Hard Cash, Cudgel, Bullion, Clean Up, Vivid, Bonnie Witch, and Bubble. August Belmont has declared Almondite, Sandusky, and Rockport out of both events, and among the declarations from the Belmont is James Butler's Bally, which showed fair racing ability as a two-year-old.

R. T. Wilson, Jr., has declared Navarre, Mannchen, and Firing Line out of the Withers, and in addition to these has taken the imuorted horse Glananty out of the Belmont. In all the Withers, which had an original entry of 161, has been depleted so that now only 65 are eligible. The Belmont had an entry of 96, and is now reduced to a total of 49.

QUAKERS TO MEET ARMY ON GRIDIRON

May Play Return Game in Philadelphia in 1918—Navy Game at the Polo Grounds.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Jan. 8.—Important announcements were made today in connection with the publication of the Army's football schedule for next Fall. Chief among the new features will be a game at West Point with the University of Pennsylvania on Oct. 6. Only the Quakers of the big Eastern teams responded to the Army's invitation to come to West Point for a game this year. Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Cornell, Syracuse, Dartmouth and Colgate were all asked for a meeting, but without success.

Penn has been here only once before. In 1901 the Army played the Quakers on the "plains" and trounced them soundly by the score of 24 to 0. Charley Daly, now head coach of the Army eleven, was quarter back on the cadets' team that year.

It was also announced that a home-and-home contest with one of the big Eastern universities would be an annual feature of Army football in the future. Permission has been granted to the cadets to go away every year for a game in another city. As Penn is the first to respond to the Army's invitation, it is likely that the soldiers will go to Franklin Field for a game with Bob Folwell's pupils in 1918. A similar arrangement will be sought by the West Point management for return games with Harvard, Yale, Princeton or Cornell.

It is the Army's turn this year to choose a site for the Navy game, by terms of the agreement with the Annapolis football authorities, and the West Pointers will name the Polo Grounds in New York for next Fall's Army-Navy battle.

The schedule follows:

Sept. 29, Holy Cross; Oct. 6, University of Pennsylvania; 13, University of West Virginia; 20, Springfield Y. M. C. A. College; 27, Villanova; Nov. 3, Notre Dame University; 10, University of Maine; 17, Bowdoin; 24, Navy at New York.

WHITE OWLS VICTORIOUS.

Conquer Brooklyn Quartet at Indoor Polo by 9 1-2 to 6.

The White Owls, a team composed of members of the Central Park Riding Academy, defeated the Lavenders, a combination representing the Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club, by a score of 9½ goals to 6 in an indoor polo match last night at Durland's Riding Academy. The White Owls conceded three goals by handicap. The accurate driving of J. Breen of the winning team was materially responsible for the victory of the White Owls. The line-up of the teams:

Central Park White Owls—1, J. Schwigert; 2, J. Breen; 3, Otis Coleman. Handicap, 6.

Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club.—1, V. Spence; 2, R. Kily; 3, W. Kopke. Handicap, 9.

Individual goals—Kopke, 4; Coleman, 3; Schwigert, 2; Breen, 2; Kiley, 2. Penalty—Foul against Schwigert. Referee—Archer Kinney. Timer—Dr. E. Bier. Scorer—H. W. Rose.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Prices Irregular in Dull Market—Money's Increasing Ease.

If all the dealings on the Stock Exchange represented outright purchases and sales, transactions in the neighborhood of 600,000 shares would represent a very large business. As things are, trading in about that number of shares yesterday was commented upon as being a small day's work. And so it was by contrast with the much larger scale of dealings to which the Street was recently accustomed. At the moment the market reflects much uncertainty, and to all appearances it is being left almost altogether in the hands of those who trade in stocks just as other people follow their trades and professions.

Among these traders the question of how much substance there may be in the present agitation for peace is the one which they feel is the most important to have answered. They are trying to accommodate themselves to the ultimate answer to that question by market operations which are bringing changing and more or less meaningless fluctuations. Later on the public, and no doubt professional traders along with it, will attempt to gauge market values on the basis of things as they will be when peace has been restored, but their main thought at the moment is whether or not the war is to go on indefinitely. Those whose judgment on the matter is most respected in Wall Street express the belief that it will end some time before the year is over, but they hardly venture a more definite opinion than that.

Peace is certainly not near enough, according to any present appearance, to warrant the assumption that there will be no more war financing in this country. The suggestion that Germany has borrowed a large amount here privately is borne out neither by inquiry in quarters most likely to be well informed on the subject nor by known facts bearing on the matter. Certainly the movement in the Teutonic exchanges does not reflect the granting of large credits in this market to Germany. That would tend to improve the rate on Berlin and it has been moving in just the opposite direction. Private borrowing here may have been by bankers, but bankers say that it must have been on a very small scale measured by the standards which have been adopted in international financing since the outbreak of the war.

If nothing else stood in the way of an unsecured German issue here the recent statement of the Federal Reserve Board in regard to foreign loans would, bankers believe, serve as a barrier against such a loan. It is now being taken for granted that any new financing to be done in the near future will be done against collateral. Specifically, this is expected to be so in the case of the British financing to which the banking community has for some time been looking forward. Large as the recent gold inflow has been, and it was augmented yesterday by another $25,000,000, it is not believed to be sufficient to provide all the money which will be needed by the Allies here within a relatively short time. This, it is thought, makes it practically certain that further resort will be had to the mobilized securities, of which many hundreds of millions are deposited in this country for use in further financing of this sort.

The way for such an operation is certainly being made smoother by the increased ease of the money situation, thanks to the conditions which within recent weeks have brought about a greatly improved reserve position. The further gold which is coming in should help to accentuate this tendency toward a new superabundance of loanable funds at this centre. This is a condition which also favors the bond market, and that market is in fact showing evidence of the availability of a large amount of money for investment.

GENERAL MOTORS DIVIDEND.

Payments of 1% on Common and 1 1-2% on Preferred Feb. 1.

The General Motors Corporation, successor to the General Motors Company, yesterday declared quarterly dividends of 1 per cent. on the common and 1½ per cent. on the preferred stocks, both being initial payments. The disbursements will be made Feb. 1 to stockholders of record Jan. 20.

When the corporation was formed last Summer, holders of General Motors Company common stock were given the privilege of exchanging their shares for new stock on the basis of five new for each old share. The [illegible] dividend of 5 per cent. on the [illegible] common stock outstanding [illegible] payable Feb. 1.

LONDON MARKET IS QUIET.

New War Loan Is the Only Issue Dealt In to Any Extent.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Money was harder today owing to the supplies being taken off the market. Discount rates were nominal.

The stock market was quiet. High-class investment stocks were slightly larger and a large business was done in the war loan, but there was little doing otherwise. American securities were only fractionally changed under light dealings.

Evidently inspired articles are appearing in all the papers regarding the new loan and the duty of every one to support it, but no official details have been published.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Loan Negotiations in the Offing.

The financial district continues to discuss the forthcoming British loan without waiting for the beginning of negotiations between the British authorities and the American group. The latter have been waiting for word from London, and hoping that it would not come until the atmosphere has been cleared of the effects of the peace talk muddle. Given time, it is said, the situation will improve soon so that a new loan can be brought out, but investment bankers are inclined to minimize the size of the next offering. Some of them said yesterday that they expected to see two collateral loans, totaling perhaps $300,000,000 or $400,000,000, rather than one big loan, the investment demand having proved in the past easily satiated with foreign bonds.

American Bankers in Berlin.

The wireless report of the dinner tendered to Ambassador Gerard in Berlin, published yesterday, referred to a recent visit of American financiers who "had come to Germany to study the investment possibilities of the German war loans." In Wall Street banking circles nothing is known of any group that recently visited Berlin, and it was suggested that the possibilities of the German war loans were quite familiar to bankers here, and needed no special inquiry. The only banker who has gone to Germany since the war is Alexander J. Hemphill, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Guaranty Trust Company. He made a trip last June, but his mission was in connection with the Belgium Relief Commission, and although he conversed with his old banking friends in Berlin his visit was not of a business nature. When seen yesterday, Mr. Hemphill said that he could not discuss his mission, but stated that he was sure he could not have been referred to by the Ambassador in the speech reported by wireless. It was suggested yesterday that perhaps the reference applied to some of the bankers less known in Wall Street circles who might have discussed German war loans with officials in Berlin.

Motor Stocks Weak.

With the greatest automobile show in history crowding war news into fewer columns the motor stocks on the Exchange were generally weak yesterday. Whether it is the thought of so much competition, which must come to every one who tries to see all of the exhibits, or the talk of higher prices for raw materials, which may reduce the profits of some manufacturers, was not explained yesterday, but sentiment was not favorable toward the motors. Declaration by the General Motors Company of a quarterly dividend of $1 on the new stock, putting it on a 4 per cent. basis, was followed by selling in that issue which carried the price down from 140 to 126¼. The close was made at 132, with a loss of 8 points. The new shares were exchanged, five for one, for the old, so that the aggregate dividend disbursement is the same as before the reorganization. Maxwell sold down from its high of 52½ to 50 and closed with a loss of 1⅜. Studebaker broke from 106½ to 104¼, closing at 104½, off 1½.

German Wool Buying.

Bankers in touch with the business undertakings of Germans in this country and South America expressed little interest yesterday in a report that a loan of $50,000,000 had been negotiated by interests in the Fatherland for the purchase of wool in South America. As in 1915, it was said, Germans last year accumulated quantities of wool from time to time in Argentina for shipment to Germany after the war, just as copper was bought and stored in this country. One banker thought that $5,000,000 would probably cover all the purchases made last year in the wool market, and it was assumed that credit arrangements with a number of local and South American institutions had been made for those transactions and others which may be pending. No loan even approaching the size of the one mentioned, $50,000,000, could be traced.

A Soft Spot.

Baldwin Locomotive shares covered a range of 4½ points from high to low, closing with a recession of 2¼ points. The ease with which the price was lowered by a little concerted selling appeared to illustrate the general lethargy of the war stocks. Buyers were scarce and the recovery afterward lacked animation. It is in indifferent markets like yesterday's that the skillful operator on the floor shines. Discovering a stock in which buying is sluggish, a few hundred shares offered rapidly downward is enough to bring a substantial decline, after which he can cover his short contracts at his leisure with a good profit.

Something to Complain About.

Traders in stocks have a serious complaint to make about the "leak" investigation in Washington—it has supplied no material which could be made use of in market operations. The professional short sellers who have followed the drift of the rumors detailed before the Congressional committee so far have not detected anything of a nature to depress prices. If some facts were to appear amid the rumors described by the witnesses there might be hope for the bears. But a watchful Wall Street has not seen anything yet in the outpouring at Washington, scandalous or of another nature, which justified the putting out of short lines of stock.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Stock Exchange yesterday elected these members to the Nominating Committee for the ensuing year: James C. Auchincloss of Auchincloss, Joost & Co.; William J. Berg of Herrick, Berg & Co.; Hamilton F. Benjamin of Benjamin, Ferguson & McMurtry; Charles M. Fair, and Lucius Wilmerding of Gray & Wilmerding.

Winslow & Co. are offering stock of the Springfield Motors Company at $10 a share.

The net income of the St. Louis, Rocky Mountain & Pacific Company for the five months ended Nov. 30, after the deduction of dividends on the preferred stock, was equivalent to 3.82 per cent. on the $10,000,000 of common. The company states that its output of coal now exceeds 6,000 tons a day.

Frank James Rascovar, formerly Vice President of Albert Frank & Co., was elected President of that corporation yesterday, succeeding his father, the late James Rascovar. Harry Rascovar, former Treasurer of the company, was elected Vice President and Treasurer. Mark [illegible] was re-elected Secretary.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

The market on the Consolidated Exchange was irregular, with an early dip in prices but a later fair recovery. Business was less active, but United States Steel continued the feature of the trading, with dealings in nearly 50,000 shares.

COTTON UP 30 POINTS ON OUTSIDE DEMAND

RENEWED FIRMNESS SHOWN

Cables Report Steady Undertone in Liverpool on Trade Calling and Continental Buying.

Although the volume of trading was only moderate, the cotton market showed renewed firmness yesterday, and advanced 30 points, closing at the top, the final quotations being nearly 2½ cents a pound above the low figure touched last month.

The market opened steady at an advance of 11 to 15 points in response to firm Liverpool cables and bullish spot advices. These features encouraged the buying movement which had developed toward the end of last week, but after showing a net gain of about 15 to 20 points the market turned easier under realizing. Prices worked back to within 2 or 3 points of last week's closing level, but later moved up again on renewed covering, a broadening outside demand, and buying by spot house brokers. Active present crop deliveries sold 28 to 30 points net higher in the late trading.

Private cables reported a very steady undertone in Liverpool on trade calling and Continental buying in the absence of important offerings. Southern spot advices created a feeling in some quarters that holders of unhedged supplies in the interior were offering little cotton, and that the situation in this respect had started buying by Southern spot shorts and exporters.

No improvement was reported in the ocean freight situation. Exports for the day were 26,848 bales, making 3,284,305 so far this season, against 2,476,015 last year.

COMMODITIES MARKETS.

WHEAT.

The wheat market was again dominated by the strength in the cash position, and prices were higher for the near months, while September was net unchanged. The visible supply of domestic wheat in the United States showed a decrease for the week of 2,598,000 bushels, which brought the total down to 56,885,900, compared with 69,826,000 last year. In the local cash market No. 2 hard Winter wheat was quoted at $2.14½; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $2.24½; No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $2.28½, all free on board New York.

CORN.

The market for corn was firm and, while late in the day there was a partial reaction under profit taking, final prices were ⅝c net higher. The May position in Chicago sold at $1.00⅝, making a new high record for the season, and the whole market was stimulated by reports of an active export demand, with sales of about 500,000 bushels. The visible supply increased 931,000 bushels, compared with an increase of 1,576,000 last year. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $1.13, prompt shipment, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was generally firm throughout the day on investment buying, in sympathy with the strength of grain and the higher hogs. There was also a fair volume of commission house buying and rather active covering at times, on expectations of further Belgian purchases in the near future. Closing prices were about top for the day. Receipts at Chicago amounted to 60,000 hogs, with 50,000 expected on Tuesday. All Western points had 171,000, including 10,000 at Kansas City and 11,000 at Omaha.

COFFEE.

A further advance during yesterday's early trading in the coffee market met considerable realizing and there were moderate reactions, with the close net 1 point lower to 3 points higher. The sales were estimated at about 50,000 bags.

The market opened unchanged to 6 points higher, and sold about 4 to 8 points above Saturday's closing figures during the early trading. A fair demand was reported in the local spot market, with quotations on the basis of 10c for Rio 7s and 11c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

The market for sugar futures opened active, unchanged to an advance of 4 points. In the early afternoon a little profit-taking caused prices to decline rapidly, catching stop orders, and at one time values showed losses of 10 to 17 points. Late in the day there was a rally on covering, and prices gained 6 to 6 points from the low point, the close showing net losses of 7 points to a net advance of 1 point, with sales for the day estimated at 15,000 tons. The market for refined sugar was steady and unchanged, at 6.75c for fine granulated. There was only a moderate inquiry reported, but local refiners are expecting a little better business in the near future. Raw sugar was firm at last paid prices, 4⅝c, cost and freight basis, with buyers of prompt Cubas at that price, but holders asking ⅛c higher. Local refiners look for an increase in the demand for granulated this week, which would cause them to enter the market for prompt sugar, and with this in view holders of Cuban raws expect full prices. Quotations follow: Centrifugal, 5.39c; molasses, 4.52c; cost and freight, 4⅝c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 7,103 packages. The very small proportion of high-grade fresh creamery enables holders to get full prices for such. The market on the secondary qualities, of which the supply largely consists, is unsettled and weak. Receivers are anxious to sell, and are making concessions. Creamery, higher scoring than extras, per lb., 41@41½c; extras, 92 score, 40@40½c; firsts, 88 to 91 score, 36½@39½c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 34½@36c; thirds, 33@34c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 42@42½c; extras, 41@41½c; firsts, 37@40c; seconds, 35@36½c; creamery, held, higher than extras, 38@38½c; extras, 37½@37¾c; firsts, 36@37c; seconds, 34½@35½c; thirds, 33@34c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 39@39½c; good to prime, 36½@38½c; common to fair, 30@36c; renovated, extras, 34½@35c; firsts, 33@34c; lower grades, 30@32½c; imitation creamery, firsts, 32@33c; ladles, current make, firsts, 30½@31c; seconds, 28½@30c; lower grades, 28@29c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 29½@30c; No. 2, 28½@29c; lower grades, 27@28c.

EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 4,717 cases. The scarcity of fresh gathered Western and Southern eggs continues unrelieved, and dealers are having difficulty in obtaining enough stock for urgent needs. Prices show further improvement and closed strong. Storage eggs are held with increased confidence, and the sales reported show some further improvement in prices. Most of the remaining stock comes in the classification of seconds, only a small proportion passing as firsts. There is a good movement at the improvement quoted. Nearby white eggs are cleaning up better and rule firmer. Two more cars of California whites were placed on the market and met a fair demand; the sales reported were chiefly at 51½c for medium quality, but some lots are held higher, and some sales of Southern white eggs of fine quality have been made up to 52c. Nearby brown and mixed eggs scarce and commanding firm prices. Fresh gathered, extra fine, per dozen, 53c; extra firsts, 51@53c; firsts, 49@50c; seconds and poorer, 43@48c; Fall gathered, poor to good, 34@40c; refrigerator, firsts, 36½@37½c; seconds, 35½@36½c; lower grades, 33@35c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 54@56c; ordinary to good, 48@53c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 48@54c; nearby pullets' eggs, whites, 42@46c; Western and Southern, gathered whites, 49@52c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby, hennery browns, 53@54c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 49@53c.

ANNUAL REPORT OF

The Mortgage-Bond Company of New York

55 LIBERTY STREET

GEORGE A. HURD, President

January 1, 1917

To The Board of Directors:

Gentlemen:—For the year 1916 The Mortgage-Bond Company of New York again reports larger earnings and a larger volume of its Bonds outstanding in the hands of investors than for any previous year. The provisions of the Trust Agreement securing its Bonds which limit the Company's loans to First Mortgages on improved business or residence property in selected American cities are of the strictest character, and account for the fact that during the eleven years of the Company's existence it has taken no property outside of New York City by foreclosure.

No new loans have been made during the year on New York City property but the Company still holds $397,500 of mortgages securing Series 1 Bonds and Mortgage-Certificates. The Company has $7,190,594.77 of mortgage loans outstanding in twenty cities of the West and South, where it has established agencies. The value of the properties covered by these mortgages aggregates $18,058,667. The loans, therefore, amount to less than 40% of the value as appraised by the Company, by contrast with the average loan of 66% of the value in New York City. Furthermore, the great majority of the Company's loans contain an obligation to make annual payments in reduction of the principal. At the present time out of 2,529 loans outstanding only nine are in process of foreclosure. The amount of interest more than thirty days delinquent is $3,009.50. The average size of the loans made is about $3,000.00, this small amount contributing both to the safety of the loan and the salability of the property, and yielding a better rate of interest than larger mortgages would in the same field.

The increased security which comes from having the Company's loans in different sections of the country is apparent at a time like the present when New York real estate values are depressed; and its record in the matter of foreclosures and delinquent interest has probably not been equalled by any company loaning exclusively in New York City.

ASSETS		LIABILITIES
Mortgages	$7,588,094.77	Capital	$2,000,000.00
Bonds	9,278.00	Surplus	500,000.00
Real Estate	62,992.86	Undivided Profits	147,811.59
Interest Receivable	158,783.36	Mortgage Bonds	5,271,400.00
Cash	218,709.99	Mortgage-Certificates	22,350.00
		Interest Payable	96,297.39
	$8,037,858.98		$8,037,858.98

The Mortgage-Bonds of the Company are its direct obligations, and are secured by the deposit of an equal amount of First Mortgages with a Trust Company as Trustee,—Series 1 with the Guaranty Trust Company, and Series 2 and Series 3 with the United States Trust Company.

These Bonds are listed on the New York Stock Exchange, and have gradually won recognition from conservative investors, many of the Bonds having been sold to such institutions as Fire and Life Insurance Companies, Trust Companies, Colleges and Universities. Of these Bonds, Series 1 and 2, amounting to $2,420,400, bear 4% interest, and Series 3, amounting to $2,851,000, bears 5% interest.

January 1, 1907	$1,274,100
January 1, 1912	2,928,200
January 1, 1917	5,271,400

The Assets of the Company during this period have shown a steady growth, as evidenced by the following table:—

TOTAL ASSETS

1907	$3,771,996
1912	6,205,512
1917	8,037,858

The Earnings and Dividends on the Company's Capital Stock of $2,000,000 since organization have been as follows:

Year.	Earnings	Dividends.
1907	5½ per cent.	3 per cent.
1908	6½ per cent.	4¾ per cent.
1909	7 per cent.	5 per cent.
1910	8 per cent.	6 per cent.
1911	8½ per cent.	6 per cent.
1912	9½ per cent.	6 per cent.
1913	9¾ per cent.	6 per cent.
1914	10 per cent.	6 per cent.
1915	10½ per cent.	7 per cent.
1916	10 2-3 per cent.	7 per cent.

The Company has pursued the conservative policy of issuing Bonds at a low rate of interest and charging off the necessary discount instead of issuing high-rate Bonds at par or a premium. This discount, amounting during the past ten years to more than $425,000, has been paid off out of the earnings of the Company. The advantages of this course will be shown in the increased earnings of the Company during each year of the life of the low-rate Bonds.

Gross Income	$545,742.14
Expenses	97,348.86
	$448,393.28
Interest on Bonds	234,429.32
Net Profits	$213,963.96

The Company is organized under the Banking Law of the State of New York, and is periodically examined by the Banking Department. It is also audited annually by Messrs. Deloitte, Plender, Griffiths & Company, Accountants and Auditors, of London and New York.

The Cities in which the Company now holds loans are:—

Atlanta, Ga.
Augusta, Ga.
Birmingham, Ala.
Charlotte, N. C.
Dallas, Texas
Des Moines, Iowa
Fort Worth, Texas
Houston, Texas
Jacksonville, Fla.
Kansas City, Mo.
Macon, Ga.
Mobile, Ala.
Montgomery, Ala.
New York, N. Y.
Omaha, Neb.
Portland, Oregon
San Antonio, Tex.
Savannah, Ga.
Seattle, Wash.
Sioux City, Iowa
Spokane, Wash.

Inactive real estate conditions throughout the United States, resulting from the European War, have had no adverse effect on the mortgage loans securing the Company's Bonds, as is shown by the excellent condition of the Company in regard to foreclosures and delinquent interest.

The Company will continue for the present to offer the unsold balance of its 5% 10-20 Year Series 3 Bonds at a price of 95 and accrued interest, thus netting the investor about 5½%.

ANNALIST REVIEWS BUSINESS OF 1916

What This Country Accomplished and the Outlook for This Year.

PROBLEMS TO BE SOLVED

"After War" and "Gold" Discussed, and How to Promote Efficiency in Foreign Trade.

The Annual Review of The Annalist, a magazine of finance, commerce and economics, published by the New York Times Company, was issued yesterday, with seventy-two pages and more than twenty-five articles dealing with many phases of the business activities and possibilities of the last year. The leading editorial article is on the subject of "Our After-War Problem," and discusses what will probably be necessary to replace "the abnormal stimulant" of the war, mentioning among other factors, co-operation that is "enlightened selfishness * * * selfishness relieved of sordidness," and national legislation designed to remove obstacles to development.

"Our Golden Problem," is an article by A. C. Miller, of the Federal Reserve Board, which deals with the dangers arising from a great inflow of gold and other factors in credit expansion, and discusses the problems in the light of what can be done to overcome them. Edward N. Hurley, Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, writes of his commission as "constructive," and shows how it seeks to promote co-operation of government and business in foreign trade and to make more efficient the handling of industry at home.

Shipbuilding, its past, present and future in the United States, is discussed by E. T. Chamberlain, United States Commissioner of Navigation. "Prosperity's Reflex on the Labor Market" is the subject of Royal Meeker, United States Commissioner of Labor Statistics.

William A. Day, President of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, writes an article on the "Progress of 'Enlightened Selfishness'" and finds that employers, discovering that group insurance more than pays for itself in good will and increased efficiency, are availing themselves of it on a vast scale. "The Future of the Jitney," is considered in an article by Harlow C. Clark, editor of Aera.

"Foreign Trade Currents" are discussed by O. P. Austin, Statistician of the Foreign Trade Department of the National City Bank, and "Peace Trade in Steel" is the subject of an article by C. B. McElhany, Vice President of the American Steel Export Company. Foreign correspondence and discussions of business in other nations are liberally included in the review.

MORE SUGAR PRODUCTION.

Yield of 4,000,000 Bags Reported by Cuban Company.

Stockholders of the Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation were informed by the management at the annual meeting yesterday that production in the current season would probably approach 4,000,000 bags of raw sugar, compared with 3,100,000 bags last season. The estimated output of the Stewart Sugar Company, recently bought, was included in the total. Albert Strauss, Chairman of the corporation, said that the surplus of last year's operations had been used to pay for the Stewart Company. The anual report of a few days ago showed that the surplus was close to $10,000,000.

The Board of Directors was reduced from twenty-four to twenty-two members. It was announced that shipping contracts at advantageous rates had been made for 2,000,000 bags of the current season's yield. The corporation, formed early last year, owns plantations in Cuba.

EXTRA 13% BANK DIVIDEND.

Fidelity Trust Co., Newark, to Distribute Public Service Shares.

The Board of Directors of the Fidelity Trust Company in Newark yesterday declared an extra dividend of 13 per cent., payable in the stock of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey. The dividend will be paid on Jan. 15 to stockholders of record Dec. 30. U. S. SECOND IN GOLD MINED.

Country's Rank Not Affected by Slight Reduction in 1916.

The slight reduction in gold production by the United States in 1916, when compared with its high record in 1915, will not change the country's rank as the world's second largest producer of gold, according to a statement given out by the Foreign Trade Department of the National City Bank of New York yesterday.

The bank's compilation shows that the United States, even at the unusually low figure of $92,000,00 now estimated for its 1916 output, still far outranks any other country of the world except the Transvaal mining region of South Africa, and that this country will still supply the normal 20 per cent. of the gold output of the world.

"Our production in the decade ending with 1916," the statement says, "was in round terms $950,000,000, or an average of $95,000,000 a year, while the output of the world in that period was about $3,420,000,000. Thus our own gold production in the decade ending with 1916 has been slightly more than 20 per cent. of the world's total for that period. There have been only a half-dozen occasions in our history in which the gold output of the country exceeded the estimate now named for 1916, the highest record in any year having been that of 1915—$101,000,000."

EMPIRE TRUST CO., NEW YORK, TRUSTEE

For details regarding these bonds and the property securing same, we refer to statement of C. B. Dunster, E. M., President of the Company, and H. B. Barling, E. M.; they summarize the salient features as follows:

LOCATION: "In the Central part of the State of Nevada, about thirteen miles southwest of Battle Mountain Station on the Southern Pacific Railway.

ORE RESERVES: "The area sampled is calculated to contain 29,800 tons, in which the gold and silver values average $9.55 per ton. Ores of similar average grade and width adjacent to the area sampled are estimated at 68,650 tons, making a total of 98,450 tons, having a gross value of $940,200.00. These ores occupy less than one-third of the length of the outcrop and to an average depth of about 400 feet, whereas the general characteristics of the vein are favorable for the continuance of the ore throughout the whole length of the outcrop and to a very great depth. It is reasonable to assume that the property will be able to produce 70,000 tons per year for a minimum of ten years. Based on an average production of 200 tons daily, it is calculated that the net earnings to the Company will amount to $3.75 per ton, $262,500 per year, making a total net earning of $2,625,000 over the ten-year period. The expectation is that the operation will produce a larger tonnage over a longer period of time.

SINKING FUND: "Under the mortgage the Company is obligated to create a sinking fund for the payment of interest and principal of these bonds. Payments into this fund are estimated to exceed, on the average, $174,000 annually."

All legal matters pertaining to this issue have been passed upon by Messrs. Katz & Sommerich of New York City. The titles have been examined and approved by George Springmeyer, Esq., of Reno, Nevada, and Messrs. Katz & Sommerich.

Based on the reports of our engineers and our knowledge of the mining business, we believe that the above statements are very conservative.

Participating interest in the stock of the Company accompanies the purchase of these bonds.

The purchasers of these bonds will find the investment an extremely profitable one.

FOR NEW TEA STANDARDS.

Samples to be Used in Preparing Them Asked by Examiner.

George F. Mitchell, Supervising Tea Examiner, has asked the co-operation of the tea trade of the country in sending to the Government samples of all imported teas for the use of the United States Board of Tea Experts in preparing the new standards for 1917. Mr. Mitchell said it was to the interest of the trade that the Government standards for the ensuing year should be representative of the teas imported.

A very large number of samples are needed, and the trade is asked earnestly by the Supervising Examiner to respond liberally. Samples are wanted as early as possible, and should be sent not later than Feb. 1, to the office of the Tea Board, Room 800, Appraiser's Stores, New York.

The Treasury Department is expected to name this year's board of experts within a few days. It will include seven merchants of wide experience representing all sections of the country. The board will meet here about the middle of next month, and spend the best part of a week testing for the new standards.

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday..3½@3¾ per cent. for the best names
Saturday...3½@3¾ " " " " "

The quotations are for six months' paper.

A Reason for Not Opening.

One of the prominent dress goods selling agents has not opened up his lines for the Fall season, and yet the entire production of his mills is sold up for several months to come. The reason he gave for not holding a formal opening was that by doing so he might displease some of his customers. By obtaining his distribution among a selected trade, he is benefited in two ways. First, the houses he sells are resonsible and may be depended upon to take what they have ordered, and, secondly, they are not of the fly-by-night sort and will remain customers when normal conditions return.

Barrel Skirt Arouses Discussion.

The latest offering of Paris for the coming Spring and Summer, the barrel skirt, finds the local garment manufacturers somewhat differently disposed concerning the chances of its success. Quite a few houses have taken up the idea, it seems, but in the main the trade is not plunging very heavily on the new model. Among the sports wear manufacturers the barrel skirt is not considered very adaptable, as the needs of the customer seem to lie in the direction of the simpler designs. With so big a sport clothes season ahead, it was said yesterday by the representative of a manufacturer that the style tendency may be confined chiefly to what is now featured in these models, leaving the barrel skirt lines for the more ornate costumes.

Fur Receipts Satisfactory.

While no definite statement could be made at the offices of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation regarding the amount of goods received for the January sale, it was estimated that the auction will show an offering equal to, if not greater than, that made last year. Yesterday was the last day for receiving furs for the sale, which will start on Jan. 22. Reports from fur collecting districts of the country agree in stating that receipts are unusually light for this period of the year. The fact, then, that the coming sale will feature the usual amount of goods was viewed with satisfaction by the officials of the company.

Willing to Pay High Prices.

Although some complaint is heard now and then against the way prices are advanced, the manufacturing clothiers as a rule have come to accept increases as a matter of course. Even when jumps of 10 and 15 cents are made on reorders, the manufacturer pays them willingly. Not a few clothiers believe that the present range of prices for men's wear fabrics is due in no small measure to the frenzied buying of dress goods by the women's garment manufacturers. The latter have never been such keen purchasers as the clothiers, and in the present situation they appear to be running up prices on woolens to the disadvantage of the clothing manufacturers.

Favor High-Priced Knitted Ties.

From certain quarters of the men's neckwear trade come reports of an increase of late in the call for the higher-priced knitted and crocheted silk scarfs in novelty patterns. Many new designs are being shown in these goods, among the newest being vertical herringbone stripes in Paisley and two-tone effects. In the latter, both bright and dark color combinations are offered. These scarfs retail at $2.50. Other novelties include new and original designs and colorings in English hand-loom crocheted scarfs. They are natty in appearance and can be retailed profitably at $2.50 to $3.

All-Silk Sweaters In Demand.

In spite of the fact that large quantities of all-silk sweaters for women have already been delivered to the leading retail shops throughout the country for Winter resort wear, makers of these goods are very busy now getting out more of them with which to meet the demands of the regular Spring trade. Those that have been featured most in the business placed to date retail at $20 to $50 each, with turquoise blue, peach, salmon, and other pastel shades in high favor. While check and block effects are liked, the bulk of the call is for solid colors. There is a tendency toward longer sweaters than has been the case, thirty inches being now the most generally accepted length for sports wear.

Little Snap to Burlap Market.

The week began with little snap to the burlap market. While some business was put through on lightweights, prices were for the most part on a nominal basis. Eight-ounce, 40-inch goods were quoted at 8.25 cents for spot shipment, while similar cloths, to arrive in the next thirty days or so, were held at 8.10 cents. Ten-ounce 40s were worth 9.50 to 9.65 cents for spots and nearbys, while 10½-ounce goods of the same width were quoted at 9.75 cents. This figure, it was thought, might be shaded a little by a good buyer. Jute remained steady at the record figure of £43.

They're Still Ahead of Time.

In spite of the efforts of the wholesale trade to get millinery seasons on an even keel again, straw hats for women are already being seen on the streets here. Not only did a number of the leading manufacturers of straw shapes try to hold the season back by agreeing to make deliveries later than has been the case in recent years, but natty silk and satin hats, or hats with straw brims and silk crowns, were offered to appease the consumers. While the silk and combination hats became popular almost at once, they were apparently not sufficient to satisfy the tastes of the woman who feels that she must wear Palm Beach millinery whether she can go there or not. The wholesalers object to the premature change from velvet to straw because they say it shortens their seasons and profits, the same being true when velvet shapes begin to appear with the thermometer at the 90-degree mark. According to one man, silk hats ought to have two brief seasons a year, and lingerie hats one. As it is now they are lucky even to get a thought.

Gray Goods Prices Stiffen.

Prices continued to firm up in the local gray goods market yesterday in spite of the fact that trading could hardly be called large. Sellers were quite generally asking 7⅝ cents for nearby 38½-inch 64-60s, while they were apparently willing to listen to bids of an eighth less for goods wanted after March. While it was reported that some spot business on this construction had been put through at 7⅝ cents, it was not large enough to establish the market at that figure. For 39-inch 68-72s 8⅝ cents was asked in some quarters and 8¾ cents in others. So far as could be learned the latter price was not paid. Nearby business was tied up on 27-inch 64-60s at 5⅝ cents. Trade in sheetings was not large, though orders were received from the bag trade and from manufacturers of tires and other rubber goods. The jobbers are not expected to do much on them for the next week or ten days. Closing printcloth prices were:

39-inch, 68-72s	8⅝c	33½-inch, 60-52s	7c
39-inch, 56-44s	6⅛c	32-inch, 60-48s	6⅛c
38½-inch, 64-64s	7⅞c	27-inch, 64-60s	5⅝c

*Asked.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The local buying office of Kaufmann & Co., Richmond, Va., has been removed from 621 Broadway to Room 603, at 333 Fifth Avenue.

J. Blecher of Kaufman, Blecher & Harthlay is no longer associated with that firm. He will continue to represent sweater mills and expects to make new connections in a short time.

U. S. MARSHAL'S NOTICES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK.—Notice is hereby given that on December 13, 1916, Elias C. Benedict filed his petition praying limitation of liability as owner of the gasoline launch "ONEIDA," for damage or injury arising on April 23, 1914, through the grounding of the barge "SPEEDWAY" while in tow of the launch "ONEIDA"; that the petitioner has surrendered his interest in the said launch to Alexander Gilchrist, Jr., as Trustee; that all persons claiming damages by reason of said accident are required to prove their claims before Max Rockmore, Commissioner, at his offices in the Post Office Building, Manhattan, New York, on or before April 2, 1917, at 10:30 A. M., and that persons not so proving claims will be defaulted.

THOMAS D. McCARTHY, U. S. Marshal.

Mrs. Chanler Goes to Represent Buyers of Lafayette Birthplace.

The French liner Espagne sailed yesterday for Bordeaux, forty-three hours late on account of the delay in getting her coal supply. Among the passengers in the first cabin was Mrs. William Astor Chanler, who is going to France as a representative of an American committee which has bought the birthplace of Lafayette. The château is to be devoted to teaching crippled French soldiers how to earn their living.

Just before the ganway was lowered, at 10 o'clock, Paul Biziet, a young French soldier, in uniform, came down the pier with a number of friends, who appeared to be trying to persuade him not to go back to the front. They said he had been there once and had been wounded in the service of France, and that that was enough. Biziet said that he must return to his duty. A young woman, who clung to his arm till the last moment, took off his steel helmet and kept it as a souvenir.

A Rather Elastic Order.

A hosiery mill that specializes in the better sort of this merchandise for men recently received an order which it was obliged to refuse because its production was sold past the delivery requested. The buying firm was apprised of this fact, and replied something to this effect: "Ship the goods we ordered whenever you can. If you can't ship them this Spring, ship them this Fall. If you can't ship them this Fall, ship them next Spring. We will need them whenever we get them, and we know they will be needed when they do come."

BANKRUPTCY NOTICES.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Heirs of the Hemenway estate sold to Joseph F. Cullman, for investment, the six-story Scott Building, at 35 and 37 Frankfort Street.

The structure covers a plot 59 by 111 feet, and is assessed by the city for taxation purposes at $95,000.

It was purchased some years ago by Daniel B. Freedman for about $100,000 and resold by Mr. Freedman. It is one of the best parcels in the William Street district near the Brooklyn Bridge for improvement, having a northerly exposure and being located within a stone's throw of Park Row.

Plans are being prepared for the erection and negotiations are pending through the Charles F. Noyes Company for the rental of a twelve-story printing building containing 40,000 square feet of space to a prominent printing house at a net rental of $12,000 per annum.

This is Mr. Cullman's first important purchase north of Fulton Street. As in the case of all other purchases made by him, the property will be held free of mortgage. The Charles F. Noyes Company and the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company negotiated the sale.

Corn Exchange Bank Buys Heights Corner.

The Corn Exchange Bank has purchased from William J. Daniel the northwest corner of 181st Street and St. Nicholas Avenue.

This corner, which has a frontage of 50 feet and a depth of 100, was purchased and improved by Thomas Smith in 1908 with a five-story apartment house, with stores, on the avenue frontage. Shortly after its completion the Corn Exchange Bank secured a lease of the corner store, which space has been added to from time to time by reason of the increase in its business.

Mr. Daniel purchased the property some eight years ago as a permanent investment, realizing its great future possibilities, the 181st Street Subway Station being at this point, but after lengthy negotiation was induced to sell.

It is fully rented for something over $20,000 per annum and was valued by him at $225,000. By its acquisition the Corn Exchange Bank renders permanent its location at this point. Manning & Trunk and McDowell & McMahon negotiated the sale.

Trade for 62d Street Apartment.

George H. Edwards was the buyer of the nine and one-half-story apartment house at 43-47 West Sixty-second Street, adjoining the Colony Club, reported sold through Douglas L. Elliman & Co. on Sunday. In part payment he gave the Kenmore apartment house, seven stories, at 353 West Fifty-seventh Street, near Ninth Avenue, on plot 75 by 100.11. It figured in the deal at about $200,000, the Sixty-second Street property being held at $600,000. Clinton S. Harris represented Mr. Edwards as attorney.

Two-Million-Dollar Broadway Lease.

The 1,620 Broadway Corporation, which is about to commence the erection of the Triumph Theatre on the Barney estate property on Broadway, between Forty-ninth and Fiftieth Streets, of which it has recently acquired a long lease, has closed a lease of the theatre, when completed, to the Biddle Realty Company, which will operate the house. The lease is for a long term of years, and aggregates a sum approximately $2,000,000. Heckscher & de Saulles were the brokers in the transaction.

Uptown Deals for Garages.

In the upper Dyckman section Max Just and T. G. Galardi have purchased the plot, 100 by 100, on the northwest corner of Ninth Avenue and 208th Street, for immediate improvement with a two-story garage.

The J. Romaine Brown Company has sold for the estate of Mary G. Pinckney a plot 100 by 100 at the southeast corner of Lenox Avenue and 145th Street. The purchaser will improve the property with a garage building.

$250,000 Garage Lease.

S. Osgood Pell & Co. have leased from the plans for C. A. Bruhns a five-story garage building, to be erected at 225 and 227 West Sixty-sixth Street. The building will be among the first of the garage buildings erected in the city without columns. The lessee is the Cralders Garage and Repair Company, a newly formed corporation. The lease, for a term of years, will aggregate $250,000.

West 124th Street Resale.

The six-story apartment at 505 West 124th Street, on plot 50 by 100.11, has been resold by Frederick Brown to Adolph Weiss.

City Sells Leasehold.

The City of New York yesterday disposed of the property 15 to 19 City Hall Place, adjoining the new home of The Evening Mail. The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund authorized the sale of the leasehold.

The successful bidder was Daniel F. Mahony, a contractor, who secured the parcel for $4,500 a year, the upset price placed upon it by the city. The auction involved a five-year lease of the premises, with the option of renewal for a similar period. On the site are four and five story tenements and stores.

East Side Tenement Deal.

William Cruikshank's Sons have sold for Caroline S. Belcher the four-story tenement house at 409 East Eighty-fifth Street, on lot 25 by 102.

Operator Buys Four Bronx Flats.

Daniel H. Jackson, operator, purchased from Frederick Heinrich 1,200 Hoe Avenue, and 975, 981 and 985 Home Street, four five-story new law tenements, occupying a plot 168 by 100 on the northwest corner of Home Street and Hoe Avenue. The property was held at $225,000. John F. Giffing negotiated the sale.

Bronx Sales.

Richard Dickson sold for Philip Flur the northeast corner of 165th Street and Jackson Avenue, known as 721 East 165th Street, a three-family frame building, on a lot 20 by 90.

The five-story building at 881 East 163d Street, on plot 50 by 100.4, being 60 feet west of Stebbins Avenue, has been purchased by Charles M. Levy from the Tarcof Construction Company, which recently completed the structure. Isidore Montefiore Levy acted as attorney for the buyer.

H. Eckman sold to J. Smolinsky for investment the five-story new law tenement occupying a plot 38 by 100 feet on the southwest corner of Franklin Avenue and 169th Street. Lichtenstein & Cohn negotiated the sale.

Long Island.

Worthington Whitehouse, Inc., sold to a client of William J. Roome & Co., for Mrs. E. H. Mullen, a tract of woodland at Herricks, Long Island, N. Y., near Manhasset. This property adjoins the holdings of Mrs. W. R. Grace.

The three five-story apartment houses on the west side of Academy Street, 150 feet north of the Bridge Plaza, Long Island City, have been sold through John Greer to an investor.

Mount Vernon Sale.

The Anderson Realty Company sold for Mrs. E. K. Shiras of Port Huron, Mich., to Mrs. Henrietta Mohr of Mount Vernon, N. Y., the dwelling house and two lots 155 Overlook Street, Mount Vernon, for occupancy.

New Jersey.

The Frank Hughes-Taylor Company has sold for the Montclair Trust Company, as trustee, to Charles G. Street, Jr., a plot, 60 by 150, on the north side of Holland Terrace, at the head of Erwin Park Road. The buyer is erecting a residence on the property.

Owners Deny Sale to Thilton Holding Company.

Miss Laura Opper, the owner of 674 West End Avenue and 270 West Ninety-third Street, two parcels surrounding the southeast corner of Ninety-third Street, denies the reported sale of the property to the Thilton Holding Company, represented by Edward Isaacs. A similar report affecting the same property was printed several months ago. Among the parcels also reported sold was the residence of D. De Sola Mendes at 678 West End Avenue, on the Ninety-third Street corner. Mr. Mendes yesterday denied that the property was sold or under any negotiations for sale.

Apartments Leased.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. have leased a large apartment of nineteen rooms, comprising an entire floor, in the new building under construction at 31 East Seventy-second Street, for Klein & Jackson to Frederic A. Gimbel of Gimbel Brothers, from Oct. 1, 1917; also the last remaining apartment of twenty-five rooms, comprising an entire floor, in the new building recently completed at 820 Fifth Avenue, northeast corner of Sixty-third Street, on the site of the old Progress Club, to O. A. Barnard of the J. H. Lane Company.

George C. Boldt, Jr., who recently assumed the proprietorship of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel on the death of his father, has leased for the Winter the furnished apartment of ten rooms at 260 West Seventy-second Street from Raymond G. Keeney. The brokers were the Crook & Livingston Company. William Pond Phipps represented Mr. Keeney.

Commercial Leases.

Jacob Rabinowitz has rented for J. Searle Barclay, Jr., the building at 20 Wooster Street, to the Stulman Box and Lumber Company.

Edward J. Hogan has leased to the Honolulu Iron Works for a term of years, at an aggregate rental of $125,000, a part of the southern half of the twenty-seventh floor of the Woolworth Building.

The S. H. Raphael Company leased for Margaret S. Ives to McGrath's Auction Rooms the store and basement at 23 East 125th Street for a term of years.

The Royal Bank of Canada, which occupies the ground floor and basement at 68 William Street, northeast corner of Cedar Street, has leased through William A. White & Sons space on the second floor of the same building, containing about 2,600 square feet.

Cross & Brown Company has leased the store at 1,891 Broadway to the Jennings Motor Sales Company.

Realty Notes.

The January meeting of the Builders' Association of Manhattan will be held this evening at the Hotel Marseilles, Broadway, corner of 103d Street. Matters of importance relative to legislation affecting the building industry will be discussed in addition to the annual election of a Board of Governors.

Mitchell A. C. Levy was the buyer of the six-story Blenheim Court apartment house at the northwest corner of 177th Street and St. Nicholas Avenue, and he has resold it to Frederick Brown.

Plans have been filed by H. E. Pelton, as architect, for the new five-story residence to be erected by O. M. Dommerich at 48 and 50 East Sixty-ninth Street on a plot 37 by 94.5. The cost is placed at $75,000.

A meeting of the Harlem Property Owners' Association has been called for Thursday evening at 147 East 125th Street.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Numerous disturbances continue to move rapidly eastward along the northern border. On Monday night's weather map one of these was over the mouth of the St. Lawrence River, the second was over Lake Superior, the third over North Dakota, and the fourth over Alberta, Canada. No precipitation of consequence attends the disturbance.

Moderate temperatures for the season prevail generally over the United States, except over the Western Plateau region, where the weather is cold.

Indications are that the weather will be generally fair Tuesday and Wednesday in the States east of the Mississippi River, although local snows are probable along the immediate northern border from Lake Superior eastward. No important changes from the temperatures now prevailing are indicated for the Eastern half of the country during the next forty-eight hours.

Winds for Tuesday and Wednesday along the North Atlantic Coast will be strong southwest and west, overcast weather; Middle Atlantic Coast, fresh and strong southwest and west, fair; South Atlantic Coast, gentle variable, fair.

FORECAST TODAY AN DWEDNESDAY.

New York, Southern New England, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Tuesday and probably Wednesday; somewhat colder Wednesday.

Northern New England—Overcast Tuesday, with probably local snows in the interior; Wednesday fair and colder.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

Premier

The Aluminum Six with Magnetic Gear Shift

After you have seen all the rest, you will admit that Premier, with its aluminum motor and magnetic gear shift, is the only really new thing at the New York Show—and you will echo the question of thousands: "How do they do it at $1895?"

HUNDREDS of people who know motor cars and appreciate fine points have traveled halfway across the continent to see the Premier, the most sensational car of the year. Look for the booth with the big crowd around it. We are on the second floor, but that is merely the penalty we pay for being new—new in appearance, new in design, new in appeal.

The Premier Aluminum Six with Magnetic Gear Shift is a forerunner of what you may expect in the higher priced motor cars of the future.

You have never before seen a car with a push-button gear shift as regular equipment. The Cutler-Hammer Magnetic Gear Shift makes this six-cylinder gasoline car easier to drive than any electric. With it you simply play your way through traffic—no loss of momentum—no physical exertion.

You have never before seen any car under $2500 with an aluminum motor. Aluminum motors are rare at any price, but the performance which they give is rarer still.

You have never before seen any car with an eight-inch frame. Premier's frame renders body squeaks and rattles practically impossible.

You have never before seen a car of the Premier dimensions which will turn in a 39-foot circle. Think what this means in congested traffic.

You have never before seen such harmony of color, design and finish, for no other car has ever been shown in New York which was dressed from stem to stern in gun metal velours—no car at any price is any finer in detail.

You have never before seen the Premier "Foursome" —the most original sport car model since the famous Cloverleaf roadster, which, as you will recall, was also produced by Premier.

The Premier booth is Motordom's Mecca this week. The trend of the crowd will pilot you, or ask any other exhibitor or any dealer at the show where the Premier can be seen, for they have all been to see us.

We are glad to have the trade pay us this compliment, but the person we are most interested in is you. This is a personal invitation and you should not go back home and admit that you have missed the headliner of the Show.

Get a copy of "Premiering," a snappy little booklet full of "punch and go" but fuller of facts about the aluminum six with magnetic gear shift. Either call for it at the Premier booth (B18—Second Floor) or write direct to the

PREMIER MOTOR CORPORATION
INDIANAPOLIS, INDIANA
Export Department, 8-10 Bridge Street, New York.

Special Notice
